FOUNDER OF RED GROUP EXPOSED

'American Unit Started by Fugitive Japanese

Soviet Document Discloses Secrets at Hearing

William Z. Foster Listed as Among Chieftains

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—An official soviet document was quoted in translation today to inform a Congressional committee that the American branch of the Communist Third Internationale was founded by a man hunted out of Japan by the police.

The document is the 1930 edition of the soviet government "calendar" and it was produced before the Congressional committee investigating Communistic activities in the United States by George Djamgaroff, former czarist officer who said it had been "smuggled" out of Russia.

FOSTER MENTIONED

One of the excerpts translated by the witness said Sen Katayama, born in Japan in 1859, came to this country in 1884 and had been "forced to leave Japan, where the police were hunting him." In 1918 he was appointed chairman of the American section of the Komintern or Third Internationale and is at present a member of its presidium.

The calendar listed William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for the Presidency in 1924, as a member of the executive committee of the Komintern and a candidate for the presidium, a position subordinate to Katayama's.

The first witness was a detective from the police radical squad, who showed a letter to the New York police from the Chief of Police of Seattle, Wash., inclosing a check for $6200 found on a man arrested in Seattle.

LONG STATEMENT

The check was signed by an organization called the Friends of the Soviet, and was payable to an auxiliary of the Amtorg Trading Corporation. The Seattle Police Chief said the man who had it described himself as a representative of the Daily Worker, New York Communist newspaper.

Most of today's session was taken up by the reading of a long statement by Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal, who appeared as a representative of John L. Lewis, head of the mine workers.

Searles said the coal industry is in a state of disruption, disorganization and disaster, and asserted that because of these conditions the miners are fertile soil for Communistic propaganda. He advocated legislation to regulate and stabilize the industry.

Convict Admits Murder of Girl

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Sept. 26. (AP)—George Sherman Myers, 40-year-old ex-convict, late today made a second confession that he kidnaped and killed 8-year-old Marverine Appel here August 27, last.

Officers who obtained the statement at the Indiana State prison at Michigan City, said the details tallied with those of the first confession, made last Monday but later repudiated.

OHIO RADIO STATION SILENCED BY THIEVES

COLUMBUS (O.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive) — Radio station WAIU, owned and operated by the American Insurance Union, was silenced when thieves stole transmitter equipment worth $3500 Thursday night. More than ten transmitter tubes and mountings were taken from the station. Programs for the week-end were canceled because it was impossible to replace the missing articles.

PADEREWSKI ON WAY TO AMERICA FOR TOUR

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Times)

PARIS, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—In reply to American on what is believed to be his final concert tour of the United States, Ignace Paderewski arrived here today. He will embark at Havre October 1, next. The celebrated Polish pianist, now 70 years of age, said wistfully: "I am making this tour of America because I need money. I am a poor man. For the first time I am crossing the Atlantic alone."

DANES CELEBRATE FOR KING

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Denmark today celebrated the sixtieth birthday of King Christian V. Danish colors floated everywhere. Ralph H. Booth, American Minister, presented the congratulations of his government in a private audience with the monarch.

Hello, Friends!

It has been said that "a man who can make a better mouse trap will have people wearing a path to his door." Enough said—I don't want to brag about myself. My stuff tells the tale.

AVIATRIX REPORTED SEEKING AIR RECORD

Mrs. Vietor Bruce

MUNICH (Germany) Sept. 26. (AP) Mrs. Vietor Bruce, who hopped off from England yesterday in what is believed to be an attempt to beat solo-flight records to India and Japan, took off today in continuation of her trip after spending the night here.

She is understood to be heading toward Constantinople by way of Vienna and Budapest. Her plane is a two-seater biplane, in which an extra fuel tank has been built in the second seat. It is driven by a 105-horsepower motor and is equipped with radio.

It was said that Mrs. Bruce plans to continue to America from Japan aboard ship. Airport officials here today were skeptical of her chances of breaking any records in view of the unfavorable weather.

GRAIN MARKET ORDERS REFORM

co-operate with the government to the fullest extent in protecting the interests of the people of our country and in furthering maintenance of the principles of our government, unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"The board has considered the situation brought to their attention by the Secretary of Agriculture respecting the short selling of wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade by the Russian soviet government. The board wishes to show every evidence of co-operation in the protection of the American farmer in the free grain markets.

"It is the conclusion of the board that the selling of futures upon our exchanges by any foreign government is a new development of commerce of seriously objectionable character and it must be brought to an end. The board through its business conduct committee has always discountenanced bear raids and manipulation of prices and it again instructs that committee to take particularly vigorous measures necessary to prevent such activities.

"In formulating their judgment as to such activities unduly large short selling as distinguished from hedging may be considered as evidence thereof.

"I trust the above action of our board will meet with your approval and evidence a spirit of the fullest co-operation."

HYDE GRATIFIED BY BOARD'S ACTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Secretary Hyde, upon learning of the Chicago Board of Trade's action today to discourage short selling of wheat by foreign governments, said he was "glad to see that the Chicago Board of Trade is making an effort to protect the market of the American farmer." He did not expand the one-sentence statement.

MILLIONS OF SOVIET EGGS SOLD IN FRANCE

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Times)

PARIS, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The menace of soviet dumping has again been brought to the attention of French public opinion through the disclosure by Senator Henry Cheron, former Minister of Finance, who declared that millions of soviet eggs are being brought into France to the detriment of Normandy farmers. Cheron stated:

"The Paris market is swamped with these soviet eggs, which are not only of poor quality but a menace to public health.

"Great Britain, Germany and Belgium decree that imported eggs be marked plainly with the name of the country of origin."

He asked the government to enact a law requiring each soviet egg to be stamped on entering the country in order to prevent this cheap product from being re-exported elsewhere as genuine French fresh eggs.

Man Fined for Beating Mexican

CUCAMONGA, Sept. 26.—S. R. Stopher, Glendale truck driver, paid a heavy cash fine in Cucamonga court after it was brought out that he had beaten and kicked Juan Guiteres, Mexican laborer, without any apparent reason. Stopher was captured in Ontario after he had fled from the assault charge.

According to officers, Guiteres, employed by Harry DeBerard, vineyardist, was accosted by Stopher while Guiteres was in a filling station. He knocked the Mexican down and kicked him three times. Stopher told officers Guiteres had picked up an air hose which he wanted to use.

Stopher was caught in a chase through Ontario and did not deny assaulting Guiterez. The Mexican was so severely beaten that medical attention was necessary.

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS

GLENDALE, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Caroline Louise Wood, 417 West Garfield street, who was burned two weeks ago when a blazing pan of paraffin was spilled on her clothes, died last night at a local hospital. Funeral services will be conducted Saturday.

TUTTLE HEADS G.O.P. TICKET

New York Republicans Give Him His Repeal Plank

Drys Lose in Convention by Vote of 733 to 258

Tammany Hall Made Issue in Race for Governor

ALBANY (N. Y.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Charles H. Tuttle, who came out of political obscurity three years ago and won wide attention in the Federal District Attorneyship of New York City by his prosecution of Tammany office-holders for violations of Federal laws, was nominated today by the Republican party for Governor of New York.

He was chosen on a platform to his exact liking, the principal plank of which, phrased in his own language, called for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and substitution of an amendment outlawing "the saloon system and its equivalent, the private traffic in intoxicating beverages for private profit," and extending Federal co-operation to dry States in enforcement of State prohibition laws.

He was nominated by acclamation, and he accepted the call in an address in which he defined the issue thus: "Are we to have a Governor who is bigger than Tammany Hall?"

Once the prohibition issue was hurdled, the convention moved quickly to a harmonious flood tide of enthusiasm for Tuttle's nomination. Fears that the party would come to a break on prohibition faded this morning when the delegates ratified the repeal plank by a vote of 725 to 258. Dry forces did not debate the issue from the floor but were satisfied to go on record in a roll call as opposing the repealer.

DRYS TO TAKE FIELD

Dry leaders, however, decided tonight to put a third party into the State campaign this fall. The decision was announced in a statement which said the action of the Republican convention in nominating an opponent of prohibiton for Governor and in adopting a plank asking the dry law's repeal had "made it impossible for the dry forces to support the ticket." A series of conferences within the next few days are expected to decide on the nominee. Seven organizations were represented at the dry conference.

When Tuttle's name was offered to the Republican convention Atty.-Gen. Ward, only other candidate for the nomination, withdrew his name and asked his Erie county delegation to support Tuttle.

Referring, without naming him, to the refusal of John F. Curry, chieftain of Tammany Hall, to waive immunity and testify before a special grand jury investigating charges of judgeship purchase in New York City, Mr. Tuttle in his address of acceptance said:

"Clean government asks no immunity. The issue of this campaign has been made by Tammany Hall and it is this: Are we to have a Governor who is bigger than Tammany Hall or not?"

OTHER NOMINEES

The prohibition issue was regarded as having been relegated to the background of the campaign by Republican indorsement of repeal, since the Democrats are committed to such a plank, although organized drys threatened to put up an independent dry candidate for Governor.

Nomination by acclamation became the order of the convention in the wake of the Tuttle demonstration and the delegates proceeded quickly to nominate Caleb H. Baumes of Newburgh, State Senator and author of the Baumes laws, for Lieutenant-Governor; Daniel H. Conway, Oswego manufacturer, for Comptroller; Isadore Bookstein, Albany attorney, for Attorney-General, and Cuthberg H. Pound of Lockport, for associate judge of the State Court of Appeals. Judge Pound's was a renomination in which the Democratic party will concur at its Syracuse convention next week.

MICHIGAN KEYNOTERS FOR G.O.P. HIT FOES' DRY PLAN

GRAND RAPIDS (Mich.) Sept. 26. (AP)—The Michigan Democrats' proposal for a nation-wide referendum on the prohibition question came in for rough handling in keynote speeches at the Republican post-primary State convention here today.

Gov. Green, temporary chairman of the convention, asserted that prohibition is not a political issue and should not be injected into political campaigns. He denounced the Democratic platform declaration as an effort to "catch votes" and asserted that such a referendum would be without effect.

Chase S. Osborn, former Governor, followed with a stronger denunciation of the referendum and of State control proposals, saying that the latter brought up an issue which was decided in the Civil War.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN BY LOTTIE O'NEILL

MT. CARROLL (Ill.) Sept. 26. (AP) Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for the Illinois Senatorial seat, began her campaign today with the assertion she is the "only real Republican candidate."

Her initial speech, delivered here this afternoon, charged the Republican ranks are broken over the coming liquor referendum and that Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee, departed from the party's principles when she agreed to abide by its verdict.

MASSACHUSETTS G.O.P. DEFINES ENFORCEMENT STAND

BOSTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The resolutions committee of the Republican State Convention tonight agreed to insert in the party platform a general declaration in favor of the enforcement of all laws, with a provision "which recognises the right of individuals to work openly and in ordinary fashion for the repeal of such legislation as they may not approve." The convention will be held tomorrow.

METHODISTS AIR DRY VIEWS

Critical Situation Seen in Enforcement and Stand on Pastors Talking Politics Feature Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—A report asserting the United States is facing a "critical situation" in prohibition enforcement and outlining its view on ministers preaching politics was unanimously adopted today by the Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

"We are convinced," the report says, "that no church should attempt to dominate a government nor should her ministry 'preach politics,' but believe that the church and her ministry no longer can afford to be partisan, nor should they be intimidated by certain subtle influences who in any and every crisis of local and national importance seek by such means to hush the mouths of those who would cry aloud and spare not."

HIGHEST LAW

"The moral law is the highest law and must prevail," it adds. "We first of all ought to be Christian. Let us teach our people that the right of franchise is sacred and urge them to vote their convictions as children of God."

The report, submitted by the committee on temperance and social service, expresses the conviction that "we are facing a critical situation as regards the enforcement of the prohibition laws."

"Political expediency has prompted many office-seekers to become turncoats in order to get elected," it continues.

NEED OF EDUCATION

"We believe that the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law to be practical and within the range of possibility, but we are aware that in many sections the law is being nullified by the treachery and the fanaticism of officers whose duty it is to enforce the law. Education seems to be the greatest need in this respect. Let the home, the school and the church teach prohibition and in a generation there will be a transformation."

The report, which was not discussed, also says, "The Methodist church in its several branches has been severely criticised during recent months for so-called 'lobbying' and 'dabbling in politics.'

"We are unafraid in the face of such accusations," it continues, "for we are sure they come from enemies of moral righteousness who are not patriotic and are un-Christian."

FRENCH SEE REMARKS AS DISGUISED BLESSING

PARIS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Perusal of the full text of Adolf Hitler's testimony in the Fascist officers' trial at Leipsic yesterday has convinced French officialdom that it was not so unfortunate as at first appeared that the Fascist generalissimo should have exposed the entire extremist program.

The extravagance of the Nationalist spoke, it is thought here, may incite more extremists to action but on the other hand, is likely to frighten even some of Hitler's own followers.

The immediate consequence of Hitler's remarks, according to the French viewpoint, is expected to be the complete isolation of the national Socialists in the Reichstag, with the consequent impossibility of their exercising influence on the government or upon legislation.

The outburst of Hitler, officials believe, showing the German people just how far the Fascists are capable of going, may prove a blessing in disguise.

HITLER SAYS FASCISTS WILL BALK BOLSHEVISM

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Fascists of Germany today were described by their leader, Adolf Hitler, as Europe's future bulwark against the menace of Bolshevism.

Herr Hitler made the statement in a special interview granted in Leipsic to Rothay Reynolds, correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

"If Europe decides to make Germany serve a life sentence, then she must face the danger of having an embittered nation, desperate to the verge of crime, in her midst," he told Mr. Reynolds.

"What that would mean, a child can guess—Bolshevism. To have a strong party in Germany which will form a bulwark against Bolshevism is in the interests not only of England but of all nations.

"You may have difficulties before you and the time may come when German friendship will not be without its value."

In response to a question whether he intends to seize power by force, the Fascist leader replied:

"People have tried to associate me with a mania for rebellion.

"I ask you: Why should I instigate rebellion when I have today 107 members of my party in this Reichstag and can count on having double that number in the next?"

"Whether one likes it or not, there is new life and energy in Germany," he added significantly.

REDS TO PARALYZE TRAFFIC OF BERLIN

BERLIN, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The Fascists and Communists here have united to paralyze Berlin's traffic on President Von Hindenburg's birthday.

At a joint meeting today it was unanimously decided to call out tram, bus and tube workers on a one-day strike next Thursday when President Von Hindenburg celebrates his eighty-third birthday.

Missing Plane Search Fails

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Whereabouts of William McNulty, Columbus salt manufacturer, and Willard Parker, Cleveland pilot, and the cabin monoplane in which they left Cleveland Airport nearly three days ago remained a mystery tonight.

Nothing has been seen or heard of them since they took off at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, ostensibly for Buffalo, N. Y., and the consensus among aviators is that they were forced down in Lake Erie or the "hell stretch,"—flyers' term for the Pennsylvania Mountains.

NORMALITY IN BUSINESS MONTH OFF

Dr. Klein Declares End of Depression Indicated for Last of October

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) The chances seem to be fairly good that the United States will be out of the current depression by the end of October, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant Secretary of Commerce, told the annual meeting of the Half Million Club, a bond salesmen's organization, today.

Dr. Klein based his reasoning on the fact that fourteen out of the fifteen economic crises through which the country has passed in the last fifty years lasted an average of thirteen months. He also gave figures to show that the present resources of the country are better than they have sometimes been pictured.

He said that a large part of the country's psychological difficulties came from comparisons drawn with the economic heights reached in 1929 before the depression and that a more normal yardstick is needed.

AIR MAIL SAVED IN GUN FIGHT

Bandits Seeking Pouch from Los Angeles Plane Foiled at Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Sept. 26. (AP) A bold attempt to rob C. P. Mosbach, a mail carrier bringing pouches of registered air mail from the air field to town, was foiled tonight when he stopped his automobile and returned the fire of three men ambushed in the brush at the roadside.

Mosbach met the night Western Air Express mail plane eastbound from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City at 9:30 p.m. As he was returning to the postoffice with two pouches of mail the robbers opened fire from the darkness. The carrier said he fired several rounds at the trio, apparently wounding one of them, but they escaped.

Man Under Fire in Norris Case Quits His Post

DENVER, Sept. 26. (AP)—Victor Seymour of Lincoln, Neb., newly appointed assistant vice-chairman of the Republican National Senatorial Campaign Committee, in charge of western regional headquarters here, telegraphed Vice-Chairman Frederick Steiwer at Pendleton, Or., today he is resigning his post. He emphasized he is "absolutely innocent of any wrong act" in connection with the Norris Senatorial controversy in Nebraska.

He said he is tendering his resignation because the publicity attending the hearings of the Nye committee in Nebraska on the candidacies of Senator George W. Norris and George W. Norris, Broken Bow grocer, "may be used by the opposition unfavorably against your committee."

SEVEN SAVED AS LAKE SCHOONER FOUNDERS

SHEBOYGAN (Wis.) Sept. 26. (AP) Cutting all sails after rescue hove in sight, the schooner Our Son last of a type that once ruled the Great Lakes, disappeared in slugging waves of a Lake Michigan storm off Sheboygan today. Her crew of seven was saved by the freighter William Nelson.

C. H. Mohr, master of the Nelson, made the rescue at the risk of his own ship. He headed toward Milwaukee to land the crew of the Our Son before proceeding to Indiana Harbor, Ind., his destination.

Mohr maneuvered his ship through heavy seas to get to the side of the wallowing schooner. He ran the Nelson bow alongside the Our Son and the schooner crew walked aboard the Nelson unharmed. Capt. Fred Nelson, Des Plaines, Ill., was the last to leave the schooner.

Pounding waves crashed the Nelson, weaving it about in troughs of slashing water as the rescue was made. A life buoy was carried overboard from the Nelson. Mohr sent a distress signal, fearing his own ship could not weather the storm.

SUIT OPPOSES NEW RAIL LINE

Plumas County Road Asks Court Intervention

Says Proposed Link Would be Disastrous

Wants Commission's Order of June 9 Vacated

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP) The Indian Valley Railroad today instituted an attack on the Inter-State Commerce Commission's order authorizing the Western Pacific Railroad to build a connecting link with the Great Northern. The plaintiff road filed a suit in Federal court against the commission and the United States.

The petition asked the commission's order of June 9 be set aside.

The petition said the Indian Valley line in 1916 constructed a standard-gauge railway from Paxton to Englemine in Plumas county, and through the heart of a rich timber region. A standard instead of a narrow gauge was constructed at the request of the Western Pacific, it was declared, and the petitioner underwent "financial hardships" to maintain the line.

WOULD CAUSE DISASTER

Last year the Western Pacific proposed its new line from Keddie, which is near Paxton terminal of the Indian Valley, to Lookout, the Great Northern terminal, the petition says, going through the heart of the territory served by the Indian Valley. The Interstate Commerce Commission after hearings authorized the link.

The petition asserted this would be "disastrous" to its business and would take virtually all the timber business from the Indian Valley, forcing it to depend on decreasing ore shipments from Englemine, compelling it to abandon $477,818 in road and terminal properties, and make the investment of Indian Valley stockholders valueless.

TESTIMONY DISREGARDED

The suit charged the commission disregarded testimony to this effect by O. H. Bru, Indian Valley treasurer, and that the commission failed to protect or compensate the petitioner.

The petition called the commission order "unjustified, inequitable, unreasonable and unjust," in excess of its authority and confiscatory under the Constitution.

TAX WASTE ASSAILED AT CONFERENCE

Vandegrift Tells City Managers Mayor's Fall Due to Extravagance

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The injudicious expenditure of public funds has caused the removal of more mayors and the substitution of city managers than any other reason, Rolland Vandegrift of Los Angeles, secretary of the California Taxpayers' Association, told the International City Managers' Association here today.

The managers re-elected Stephen B. Story, Rochester, N. Y., as president. Other officers chosen include Clifton E. Hickok, Alameda, Cal., first vice-president; Adam R. Johnson, Austin, Tex., second vice-president, and John T. Broome, third vice-president.

Vandegrift said too free spending of city money was also responsible for the fall of many city managers. The primary cause of heavy expenditures, he said, is the over-enthusiastic citizen who clamors for more improvements and more building without worrying about how the money is to be raised.

The per-capita tax burden in Nevada, he said, is the highest of any State in the Union, with California running second.

Bruce Smith of the International Association of Police Chiefs, New York, told of the relation between police and city managers.

Other speakers included J. J. Finlinson, assistant Chief of Police of Los Angeles; Cletus Howell, Coronado Police Chief, and R. M. Dorton, Monterey City Manager.

Fire Threatens Ocean Liner

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin which started this evening in No. 4 hold of the Virginia, ocean liner of the Panama-Pacific Lines in dock here, was extinguished by members of the crew who wore gas masks and by city firemen. William Griffith, 25 years of age, second pantry boy of the ship, was overcome by smoke and given first aid. Damage by the fire was estimated at about $200.

The passengers who were aboard were not alarmed, apparently, and the liner sailed tonight for Los Angeles and San Francisco.

De Paolo Urges Marco's Parole

SAN QUENTIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—The State Board of Prison Directors today announced receipt of a letter from Peter De Paolo, automobile racer, in which he asked "special consideration" be accorded the parole application of Albert Marco, so-called Los Angeles "king of the underworld."

The board made the letter public without comment.

School Board in Jersey Votes Fund to Pay for Treatment

EDGEWATER (N. J.) Sept. 26. (AP)—In the hope of making a little gentleman out of this town's 12-year-old "bad boy," the Board of Education has voted $50 worth of gland treatment for him.

The action was taken after Dr. Charles F. Buckley, school physician, testified he is certain proper treatment of the pituitary gland will cure the child of his "sinful wickedness." The directors were told that since the start of school he has been terrorizing other pupils and his teacher with his pranks.

The boy's parents live on a houseboat and are too poor to provide the medical treatment prescribed.

PREHISTORIC RELICS FOUND

the rarest discoveries was a boomerang similar to those in use in Australia.

They did not build masonry houses under the cliffs as their successors did, nor were they versed in the art of pottery making which became a part of the occupation of the later race.

The surgical kit bearing an assortment of wooden instruments was contained in a hollow wooden tube, covered with the skin of some wild animal and carried by leather thongs.

The crude instruments will be studied by students of anatomy and surgery at the American Museum of Natural History in New York to which they were shipped by members of the expedition.

The expedition which explored and excavated for weeks in the vicinity of the "four corners" where Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona join, unearthed remarkable relics of the first known human race in that region, most of the discoveries being made several feet beneath the ruins of the more recent race of cliff dwellers.

Some of the finest examples yet known of basket weaving, feather cloth, agricultural implements, dress and household utensils were found.

Molnar Swaps Slaps with Star

VIENNA, Sept. 26. (AP)—A trans-Atlantic radio company report from Budapest says Frans Molnar, dramatist, created a sensation at the Comedy Theater by slapping the face of the prima donna, Franziska Gal, because she came late to rehearsal.

Franziska Gal returned the slap, whereupon Molnar canceled the prima donna's engagement.

Five Negro Boys Flogged by Mob

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Five Negroes, all employed here as hotel bell boys, told police today they were abducted last night and flogged by a band of "100 white men."

The police said one of the Negroes said a man in the mob told him they "would not have Negroes working around the hotels."

New Yorker Lays Appeal Before Highest Tribunal in Buffalo Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—A new attack on the validity of the Volstead Act and the Eighteenth Amendment was launched in the Supreme Court of the United States today with the filing of an appeal from a decision in the New York State courts which upheld the law.

The appeal was presented by Stanley Copeland of New York, who in 1926 failed in an attempt to get the Supreme Court pass on the validity of prohibition enactments.

The present case is in the form of a suit to enjoin James W. Higgins, State Commissioner of Buffalo, from enforcing the Volstead Act. It is asserted by Mr. Copeland, who contends that the definition of intoxicating beverages is an essential untruth, as beverages with more than one-half of one per cent alcohol are not, in fact, intoxicating; that the act deprives citizens of a property right to sell wines which are not intoxicating; that the act is an invasion of the personal sovereignty of the people of New York; that it violates the State law forbidding the bearing of false witness by defining something as intoxicating which is not intoxicating in fact, and that it violates the religious guarantees of the Constitution because it makes impossible the practicing of the Roman Catholic creed of temperance and substitutes a creed of total abstinence. Touching on the validity of the Eighteenth Amendment, Mr. Copeland contends that it was not properly ratified.

SHE MAY RECEIVE BUTLER'S LEGACY

MISS BAUR MAY GAIN NEW RICHES

Chicago's Wealthiest Girl Expected to be Willed Estate of Butler

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) Friends of Mrs. Bertha Baur and her daughter Rosemary, who has been known as the richest girl in Chicago, were talking today of a reported noteworthy addition to Rosemary's fortune.

Comparatively it isn't a large addition that's in question. Probably, the friends say, it is in the neighborhood of $9000 or $10,000. And Rosemary is understood to be worth considerably more than $2,000,000.

But if Rosemary, now 19 years of age, receives the addition it is certain that she'll never forget it. For the reported fortune is that of George Brown, the Baur family's retired butler who died last Sunday at the age of 80. It is said to be his entire estate, the savings of his lifetime.

The funeral of Brown and also of his wife, who jumped to her death in grief two hours after he died, is still to be conducted. It has been delayed pending the arrival home of Mrs. Baur, now in New York with Rosemary.

A reporter reached Rosemary today by long-distance phone at the Plaza Hotel in New York and asked her about the story of Brown's gift.

"I don't know anything about it," she said hesitantly. "I haven't seen his will and it won't be seen until after the funeral."

Certain friends of the family, however, placed much credence in the story today. They pointed out that Brown was major-domo for the Baurs since the days of Rosemary's babyhood; they recalled how long he had been "very fond of her," how he had enjoyed looking after her when she was a child.

Thousands Seek Jobs Under New Plan in Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 26. (AP)—Five hundred volunteer workers are engaged in registering the unemployed of Detroit under a plan inaugurated by Mayor Murphy, who took office this week.

During the first day of registration 19,407 men and women stood in line yesterday at the City Hall and twenty-five other places designated for taking applications. More than 3000 of them stated that they must have jobs immediately to avoid extreme hardship. Each registrant was allowed to write on his card names of members of his family who also are unemployed and need work.

Mayor Murphy is advocating a speeding up of all public building programs to help relieve the unemployed situation.

Air Men Meet at Washington

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Meeting today in annual joint conference with the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, the aircraft manufacturing members of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce presented to the department recommendations for the simplification of regulation policies as a means of further accelerating the growth of the industry.

The requests were presented by Ralph H. Damon, chairman of the airplane manufacturers' section of the chamber, the membership of which represents nearly 97 per cent of the total production.

ORTIZ RUBIO TELLS ITINERARY FOR TRIP

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—President Ortiz Rubio announced today his itinerary for a trip to the Northern States of Mexico between next Tuesday and October 14. He plans to devote the first five days in October to an inspection of road building projects south of Monterrey. On October 5 he is to inspect part of the Monterrey-Matamoros Highway and on October 6 the Monterrey-Laredo Highway. He will look over the San Martin Dam October 7, and the next day he will go to Saltillo and Torreon. He plans to be in Durango and in Zacatecas October 12. Then he will return to the Mexican capital.

LEAGUE URGES ARMS PARLEY

Cautious Suggestion Voted for 1931 Meeting

Adequate Preparation will be Insisted Upon

Conference Would Deal with All Weapons of War

GENEVA, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Assembly of the League of Nations, through its disarmament committee, went cautiously on record today as desiring the convening of a general disarmament conference in 1931, but declined to instruct the League's Council to call such a conference specifically for next year.

Mindful of the necessity for full and careful preparation, the committee, which is composed of representatives of all delegations in the Assembly, authorised the Council to summon a general conference "as soon as possible." The committee also expressed the conviction that the next session of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission, beginning November 3, will complete its work and leave the way entirely clear for a general gathering of nations to take up the problem of limitation of arms.

BERNSTORFF DEFEATED

Count Bernstorff of Germany, as an exponent of the defeated nations' anxiety to see their conquerors curtail their armaments, made a vigorous effort to induce the committee to request the Council to call a conference "as soon as possible in 1931." But the cautious spirit, which insists that a conference—however desirable—should not be held until adequate preparations for its success are completed, defeated Count Bernstorff.

France and Great Britain joined in opposing the more definite phraseology advocated by Bernstorff. The German delegate was severe in arraigning the indefinite terminology, asserting that "as soon as possible," means nothing, and that it is a term which has been vainly employed for four years.

ITALY STANDS PAT

Before the committee voted it heard brief declarations from both the French and the Italian delegates. Each made reference to their controversy over naval ratios which constitutes a big obstacle to general disarmament. Both the Italian and French delegates promised to continue their efforts to solve the troublesome Mediterranean problem.

The Italian statement, however, fully maintained the position, taken by Mussolini's government at the beginning of the London conference, in favor of "a level of military, naval and air armaments as low as possible, provided the same principle is applied to every one."

Thus Italy again affirmed her right to parity with France or any other continental power.

JAPAN READY TO RATIFY NAVAL LIMITATION TREATY

TOKIO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Privy Council's examination committee at its final session today adopted a report approving the London naval treaty without qualification of any kind.

The report now goes to the plenary session of the Privy Council scheduled for October 1, when, in the presence of the Emperor, the council is expected to advise the sovereign to ratify the treaty.

The councillors' approval, removing the last obstacle to Japan's ratification, is a foregone conclusion. The committee session of the 17th inst. revealed the government's unyielding insistance had overridden the opposition.

ANTIWAR PROPOSAL IN SUBCOMMITTEE'S HANDS

GENEVA, Sept. 26. (AP)—Threatened with postponement because of wide divergence of opinion, the proposal to revise the League covenant to forbid war completely was handed over today by the League of Nations Assembly's judicial committee to a small subcommittee which will attempt to harmonize the conflicting views.

It is the hope of League delegates that the subcommittee will bring in a solution of the vexing problem which will permit the Assembly during the present session to adjust the covenant to a new standard of international dealing set by the Kellogg pact.

CHINA URGES REVISION OF UNILATERAL TREATIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Nanking dispatches to the Kuomin News Agency say the Ministry of Foreign Affairs today cabled the Chinese delegation to the League of Nations Assembly instructing it to submit a resolution recommending revision of unilateral treaties existing among the members of the League, in accordance with Article XIX of the League covenant.

This provision of the covenant has never been put into effect, although [illegible] year C. C. Wu, Minister to the United States and chief of the Chinese delegation, presented a resolution which was defeated by the united opposition of France and several Central European states.

Noone Candidate for Two Offices

CONCORD (N. H.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Completion of the recount of votes cast in the recent primary today definitely gave Albert Wellington Noone, 84-year-old Peterboro manufacturer, the Democratic gubernatorial nomination over Frederick E. Small of Rochester, and thus created a political situation unparalleled in this State. He also is his party's United States Senatorial nominee.

The gusher was said to be spouting sixteen tons of oil per hour.

TITLED PLAYWRIGHT WILL BECOME BRIDE

(P. & A. photo)
Countess of Cathcart

COUNTESS WILL WED NEXT WEEK

Sir Rowland Hodge will Become Husband of Earl of Cathcart's Widow

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Vera, Countess of Cathcart, it was announced today, will be married next week to Sir Rowland Hodge, millionaire Baronet.

The Countess of Cathcart, who visited the United States in 1926 with her play, "Ashes of Love," is the widow of the Earl of Cathcart, who died in London in 1927.

She was the former Vera Fraser of Cape Town, South Africa, and became the fifth Earl of Cathcart's bride in 1919. Two years later he advertised he would not be responsible for her debts, and the next year obtained a divorce, the Earl of Craven being mentioned in the papers.

The Countess was denied admission to the United States in 1926 but later the barrier was removed permitting her to enter.

The United States government excluded her on the ground of "moral turpitude," and there were serious objections to the presentation of her play because of its asserted unsuitable nature for American audiences.

In spite of all the publicity she gained here and the fact she appeared in the play when it opened at Washington, it failed disastrously.

Sir Rowland Frederick William Hodge is 71 years of age, is chairman of a large shipbuilding industry as was his father. He is also Lord Wyfold and was created a Baronet in 1921.

The Earl of Craven, mentioned in the Cathcart divorce, sailed for South Africa in 1923, the Countess in 1925 being named as correspondent by the Earl's wife, suing him for divorce.

PEACE-TIME SPY SYSTEM DISCLOSED

Mixed Claims Commission Hears About Underworld of Secret Agents

THE HAGUE, Sept. 26. (AP)—A strange international underworld of secret agents, peace-time spies and war-time sabotage has been exposed during the past week before the International Mixed Claims Commission here.

The commission is adjudicating American claims against Germany for damages asserted to have been caused by German agents in the United States before the latter entered the World War, in April, 1917.

German counsel today attempted to prove the explosion at the Kingsland (N. J.) munitions plant on January 11, 1916, was due to an accidental fire, and not to incendiarism.

One of the counsel, Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg, further asserted the various German agents asserted to have been connected with it could have had nothing to do with it.

He said the fire that caused the explosion started at a bench where a workman named Wozniak was cleannig an empty shell with a mixture of gasoline and alcohol. He added testimony of Wozniak and a man named Johnson, in charge of the guards at the plant, proved conclusively the fire was caused by sparks from friction between the steel and the cleaning machine.

BRITISH SHIP BEACHED AFTER CRASH IN FOG

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 26. (AP)—The British steamship Margarita, from Glasgow for Genoa with a cargo of coal, lies beached tonight in Gibraltar Bay, leaking badly, after a collision in fog with the Spanish steamer Nuestra Senora Carmen, south of Tarifa Point. The Spanish ship, also damaged, reached Gibraltar Harbor under her own steam.

Reports reaching San Juan state Caballero is slightly injured.

NEW TEST FILED IN LICENSE LOSS

Los Angeles Autoist Takes Case to Supreme Court

Barred from Driving Due to Unpaid Crash Judgment

Ruling of Appellate Tribunal Here Quoted by Plaintiff

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP) Another test case assailing the constitutionality of the section of the amended California Motor Vehicle Act of 1927, providing for revocation of a driver's license for failure to pay a money judgment growing out of an automobile accident, was filed today in the State Supreme Court.

Two weeks ago in Los Angeles the State Appellate Court termed the section unconstitutional and discriminatory but the new action is necessary, the compiaint points out, because the State Division of Motor Vehicles still refuses to release driving permits to those penalized under the disputed section.

The new case was filed by Harry Watson of Los Angeles, whose license was revoked for failure to pay a judgment rendered against him in a case growing out of an automobile crash in which he was involved. The complaint sets forth Watson is unable to pay the judgment and the operation of an automobile is necessary to his livelihood.

He contends the law discriminates against the poor man in favor of the wealthy motorist; that it amounts to the taking of property without due process of law and quotes the Appellate Court decision which says in part: "If you are able and do pay judgments against you, you may drive your automobile no matter how negligently." Yet, . . . it says to another individual, "because you cannot pay your judgment you cannot drive your automobile."

An alternative writ of mandate was granted Watson and arguments will be heard by the Supreme Court October 7, next.

EVANGELIST TO COUNSEL NORTHCOTT

Newgent to be Adviser, He Says, Despite Request of Slayer to Priest

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Larry Newgent, Los Angeles evangelist, announced today he intends to be present at the execution of Gordon Stewart Northcott October 2 as his spiritual adviser. Newgent made the announcement after he and Northcott's father, Cyrus Northcott, had visited the condemned Wineville chicken farm slayer.

Previously Rev. Father Walsh of St. Raphael's parish had showed Warden Holohan a letter signed by Northcott, his father and Sarah Louise Northcott, his mother, requesting Father Walsh to be present at the execution. Northcott recently embraced the Catholic faith.

Cyrus Northcott emerged from the conference with his son today and said:

"I am more than ever convinced my son is crazy."

He said his son not only denied making a reputed confession he had killed sixteen children on his Wineville ranch, but denied knowing anything about such a statement.

"Did I say that?" he asked his father with a puzzled look, the elder Northcott reported.

Steuart Denies Atlanta Claim in Census Suit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Denials of Atlanta's claims to its greater population figure of 360,692 were made today by Census Director Steuart in a brief filed in answer to Atlanta's suit in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to compel publication of this figure in comparison with other cities.

The director said investigation had shown "the true population of Atlanta to be 270,357," the borough figure, since Atlanta, as incorporated under Georgia law of August 7, 1929, did not compare in area, organization or government with other American cities.

He said he will continue to publish the greater Atlanta figure as he has been doing, which is to place it in a footnote.

Slayer Loses Court Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP) George Ryley, convicted slayer of a Livermore taxicab driver, was denied a writ of habeas corpus by the State District Court of Appeal today. The court, in denying the writ, upheld constitutionality of the new State insanity law, which provides a plea of "not guilty" and a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity."

Ryley, condemned with John Gomes for the murder of George (Dad) Jones, cab driver, escaped the noose, temporarily, by a last-minute appeal Gomez was hanged at San Quentin prison August 15.

RAILROAD COMMISSION EFFECTS RATE CUTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The State Railroad Commission today announced it effected rate decreases aggregating $14,288,916 during the fiscal year ending June 30, and authorized increases aggregating $2,302,230 annually, leaving a balance in favor of reductions of $11,986,686.

'KIDNAPED' CHILDREN FOUND

Seattle Pair, Locked in Vacant House by Playmate, Rescued When Woman Recalls Talk Overheard

SEATTLE, Sept. 26. (AP)—Two weary, weeping, grimy and thoroughly frightened 6-year-old children were returned to their parents here today after being imprisoned forty hours in the basement of an unoccupied house, where they fortunately found water, though no food.

Everett Jimmy Zeller, 12-year-old schoolboy, was turned over to juvenile authorities for detention after admitting he locked the children in the house "just for fun" after luring them there with a promise of a "beanshooter." Sobbing and almost hysterical, he admitted to police, "I was afraid to let them out because they might tell on me."

EXTORTIONER TRAILED

Police, who had been engaged for two days in a search which roused this city more than any other of similar nature in several years, were still seeking tonight an extortioner who escaped a trap last night where one of the parents brought $500 "ransom" he demanded to an appointed rendezvous.

Although hundreds of persons were engaged actively in the search, Sheila Dalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dalley, and Frank Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Nolan, might not have been found today if Mrs. Hugh P. Nash, a neighbor, had not suddenly recalled a message given her by her own child, Wednesday night. She had paid no attention at the time to a report her child gave her of seeing two children being locked in the house.

REMEMBERS STORY

When 4000 members of the city's school board junior patrol were being organized for the search and trained police dogs and squads of policemen were scouring the neighborhood, she suddenly remembered the message and went directly to the house.

She released the children, who were placed under physicians' care in their homes. The boys accused of imprisoning the children, Zeller and Curtis Gilbert, were taken into custody later.

The Gilbert boy admitted knowing the children were imprisoned, but blamed the Zeller boy.

Arizona Ready to File Dam Suit

PHOENIX, Sept. 26. (AP)—Atty.-Gen. Peterson of Arizona announced today he and Clifton Mathews, his special assistant in Colorado River matters, will leave here tomorrow for Washington to file suit in the United States Supreme Court in an effort to prevent construction of the Boulder Dam project.

Mr. Peterson said he will appear before the court as soon as it convenes following vacation.

AMNESIA VICTIM'S IDENTITY LEARNED

REDS HAIL PLOTTERS' EXECUTION

Communist Party Organ Calls Death of "Villains" Victory for Proletariat

MOSCOW (Russia) Sept. 26. (AP)—Pravda, the official newspaper of the Communist party, in a long editorial today called the execution of forty-eight counter-revolutionists a great victory for the proletariat in the struggle against its class enemies.

"Announcement of the execution of the farmers, who attempted to create a famine in the land of the soviets, has met with unanimous satisfaction and approval of the laboring masses throughout the country," the newspaper stated. "The sentence passed by the Ogpu (secret police) is a sentence of the victorious proletariat; it is a sentence of history.

"Millions of laborers were seized with indignation upon learning of a counter-revolutionary secret society and there is hardly an institution or factory in the union which did not demand from the government the severest punishment for the villains who plotted against the lives of millions of proletarians and their children."

Divorce Law Hit by New Ruling

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—The much-advertised Morelos divorce law of former Provisional Governor Puente again was held invalid in the Criminal Court here today. Alfonso Velasco Osorio, who obtained a divorce last March in Yautepec, Morelos, and remarried, was declared guilty of bigamy.

The case was brought against him by his "divorced" wife, who charged she had not been notified of the divorce proceedings and Judge Chauvert ruled the divorce, therefore, is illegal.

PEACE APPEAL SENT TO SOLDIER'S WIVES

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—The wives of Mexico's soldiers are being besought to prevent their husbands from making war. The government has discovered a considerable number of Communist pamphlets and leaflets urging the women folk of Mexican soldiers to adopt every means of averting a war of the future when the military will be pitted against the peasantry. The propaganda suggests formation of a soldiers' and peasants' government.

HOOVER DISEASE ACTION PRAISED

Tuberculosis Announcement will Aid Science

Former Taboo Being Beaten by Intelligent Moves

Surgeon-General Pleased by Courage in Crisis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The public announcement that President Hoover's son is under treatment for tuberculosis was commended today by health authorities who believe it will result in wider play for science's most effective weapon against the disease—early diagnosis.

Surg.-Gen. Cumming of the Public Health Service said although some progress has been made, the attitude of laymen toward frank dealing with the one-time taboo of tuberculosis still seriously impairs the effectiveness of treatment.

"The example of the President, his family and his physician will have a salutary effect," Dr. Cumming added. "It will encourage patients to seek plain advice early; it will lead doctors to make diagnoses as soon as possible.

EXAMPLE NEEDED

"And we need such an example, for although the intelligent attitude is gaining, it is still true that only a brave doctor dares make such a pronouncement as came from the White House while there is yet time to do most good."

As if remarking a familiar fact, Dr. Cumming observed: "All early cases of tuberculosis get well now under proper care."

He sees in the optimism of the announcement new evidence of the strides science has made in comparatively few years.

Young Herbert Hoover has been in bed at his father's camp in Virginia for ten days. Because this retreat in the hills is an ideal place for rest, offering comforts but still removed from communities, it is assumed the President's son will remain there through the fall. Because of the altitude and the pleasant climate, he can rest outdoors much of the day. His complete recovery is predicted.

GREAT STRIDES TAKEN

"Less than twenty years ago," Dr. Cumming continued, "to make a diagnosis of tuberculosis was to write finis on the social, domestic and professional life of the patient—if not to pronounce a simple sentence of death. There arose, consequently, the very foolish sentiment of shunning the disease. Symptoms were pooh-poohed, patients were pronounced 'under suspicion' of it, and treatment was hidden and delayed.

"Intelligent persons have quite outgrown these old notions," he added, "but there still persists an unfortunate subservience to them where they do the greatest harm to the cause of eradication."

As witness to medical progress the health official cited vast actual decreases in mortality effected while the country's population increased. There were 153,781 deaths from tuberculosis in 1909; 104,034 in 1923, and about 90,000 last year.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

SUPERVISOR'S OUSTING URGED

Charges Made Against Head San Diego County Board

Chairman Good Accused by Encanto Resident

Affidavit Backs Up Demands of John A. Miller

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 26.—A document filed with the County Board of Supervisors today and bearing the signature of John A. Miller, Encanto resident, demands that Charles L. Good, chairman of the board, be removed from office. Miller's document referred to an asserted transaction between Chairman Good and one Robert M. Burton, and was supported when filed by an affidavit, sworn to by Burton before Frank Pomeranz, detailing this charge.

In demanding removal of Chairman Good, Miller declared the Supervisors should call a public hearing at which the chairman should "show cause why he should not be dismissed and removed from the office of Supervisor of this county for the Fourth District, for flagrant incompetency, inefficiency and gross malfeasance in office. Good denied that there was any truth in the charges.

The five separate reasons for removal of the chairman as listed by Miller, include, that "it was upon the recommendation of Supervisor Good that certain Mattoon Act proceedings were instituted for the paving and improvement of Market street extension under the direct supervision of one engineer named Freeland, who is a relative of Supervisor Good, and that upon the completion of said work that it was discovered the final costs exceeded the original estimate by over $185,000, thereby causing many property owners within that improvement district to lose their homes and properties."

It was charged further that the Supervisor and Burton entered into an agreement to sell hay, owned by the Supervisor, to the county, with Burton appearing as "dummy" seller. County Voucher No. 175 was asserted by Miller to relate to this transaction. It is in the amount of $818.88.

Miller avers that Supervisor Good had sold other products from his ranch to the county, the petitioner declared the State law expressly prohibits a county officer from making such transactions.

Fourth, it was charged the Supervisor used equipment of his road district for improvements on his ranch. The fifth charge referred to conduct of the County General Hospital.

City Council Not Entitled to New Salary

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 26. That the City Councilmen are not entitled to a monthly salary of $100 each, which they have been receiving following the last city election in April, is the opinion of Arch G. McKay, City Attorney, and he has so informed each of the five members by letter. The city official states that his opinion is based upon the fact that the law provides that salary increases for Councilmen shall not become effective after their election or during their terms of office.

When the city election was held here last April there was a proposition on the ballot as to whether the City Councilmen should receive a salary of $100 a month each. The proposition was voted upon favorably. The salary increase affected two holdover Councilmen and three newly elected Councilmen. The salary increase became effective after the new Councilmen took their oath of office.

Members of the City Council prior to that time had been receiving $25 a month each.

LEGION AUXILIARY'S NOMINATIONS CLOSED

ONTARIO, Sept. 26.—Practically all nominations have been received for new officers to serve the Auxiliary of Ontario American Legion post, according to Mrs. Earl Lister, president of the auxiliary. Those nominated include: President, Mrs. Jessie B. Quayle; first vice-president, Mrs. Lena Nicholls; second vice-president, Mrs. Cecil Roth; secretary, Mrs. Ada Pennington; treasurer—Mrs. Ethel McCombs; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Ruth Hanson; historian, Mrs. G. C. Barcus; musician, Mrs. Geraldine Guthrie; chaplain, Mrs. J. E. Butler; executive board, Mrs. Lena Caldwell, Mrs. Mary Cox, Mrs. Ruth Hanson, Mrs. Elizabeth Boomgaert. Election of officers will be held October 13, and installation October 27.

NEWSPAPER IN NEW HOME

New $300,000 Plant of Alhambra "Post-Advocate" will be Dedicated Today; Open for Inspection

ALHAMBRA, Sept. 26.—The new $300,000 plant of the Alhambra Post-Advocate will be dedicated Saturday, and will be open for public inspection from 4 until 10 p.m.

Built of reinforced concrete, the new structure at 11-15 South Stoneman avenue is 100 per cent fireproof. The front is finished in white terra-cotta with wide Spanish doors and attractive ornamental effects. John Walker Smart was the architect and Steed Brothers were the general contractors.

Special attention has been given in the construction to lighting and ventilation. A spacious main lobby leads to the business offices on the first floor. The editorial and advertising departments are on the second floor. All offices are finished with a view to artistic values as well as for efficiency. Steel furniture has been installed throughout.

The composing-room and stereotyping department are located on the first floor at the rear of the business offices. In the basement are the pressroom, paper storage, carrier boys' department and mailing room. The Duplex tubular press has a capacity of twenty-four pages, with a maximum speed of 30,000 papers an hour.

The Post-Advocate is a member of the group of newspapers known as the Southern California News-papers Associated, of which Col. Ira J. Copley is the principal owner. E. F. Elfstrom is the manager and Clayton L. Ward the editor.

HOBO CITY RESIDENTS IN DURANCE

Vagrants' Retreat Near Huntington Park Thinned Out by Jail Sentences

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 26.—A community which has been tagged by county officers as "Hobo City," located in the Los Angeles River bed near the Los Angeles Union Stockyards, a few miles northeast of this city, will be depopulated soon, five of its inhabitants now serving ten days in the County Jail, having been found guilty of vagrancy, and seven more having been placed under arrest by Capt. Owen A. Gregg of the Florence-avenue Sheriff's substation, and a similar charge brought against each. It is believed by the officers that these men may have been responsible for petty crimes which have taken place in that section covering a period of several months.

"Hobo City" seems to have been a community for some of the people who did not care to follow any line of trade. There are perhaps a score of "dwellings" of various sizes along the river bed, none of these shacks being visible from the highways, some even being concealed behind bushes and wild growth along the river banks.

There is quite a variety of building construction among these hovels. Some have only a small opening at the bottom, through which the owners or occupants have to crawl to reach the interior. One or two others are larger. In fact, the police, on visits to the locality, found that, in one or two cases, the shacks were "aristocratic" so to speak, being painted, the windows screened, and doors locked with secret combinations. One or two had radio sets.

There are no facilities for sanitation whatever and Capt. Gregg declared this to be a serious health menace, a fire menace and a place for characters not desirable.

Steps are to be taken to "exterminate" the entire community, he says.

DEATH NOTE SENT WOMAN IN GLENDALE

Message Threatening Life of Apartment-house Manager Left in Book

GLENDALE, Sept. 26.—Detectives are seeking to trace the author of a death note that was received by Mrs. Lawrence Daly, 410 South Glendale avenue, manager of an apartment-house at that address.

The note was found in a telephone directory, printed on a card that read: "Beware, Mrs. L. Daly, your life is in death. I am warning you. The Sly Wolf. Beware."

Mrs. Daly and her husband both assert that they know of no one who would seek to injure either of them.

The note was turned over to Detective Sergeant Browne for investigation.

Old-Fashioned Wife Sought by Bachelor

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 26.—Los Angeles and its beauty headquarters, Hollywood, may be big centers of feminine pulchritude to some folks, but it isn't big enough for Arthur Thomas, 115½ West Sixth street, to find a wife. Arthur is particular, without a doubt, but his tastes are simple and old-fashioned and it seems a pity that he must write to D. F. Hunt, clerk of Santa Barbara county, for assistance.

But he did. He wants a girl who prefers a home to the movies, a plain girl who doesn't smoke cigarettes, a housekeeper and good cook and one that is willing to live in the country or city, one that is kind and loving and who will not fuss and quarrel. Arthur likes music, likes cards, likes baseball, the theaters and the beaches but he isn't stuck much on dancing. He writes that he is 40 years of age, industrious and of good character. He doesn't object to widow, if young and attractive.

He concluded his letter with the comment that, "I know most girls will say that I can't be very good when I have to write to another city for a girl when there are so many in my own city that I could marry, but all the girls I have met or kept company with only want a good time and not a home, and I prefer a girl who doesn't smoke cigarettes or use rouge to the extreme."

GATE RECEIPTS GROW AT FAIR

Striking Pictures Made of Products of Soil

Grain, Grapes and Gold in Artistic Formations

Southern California Event Has Fine Exhibits

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 26.—Those interested merely in the commercial aspect of the Riverside fair will find satisfaction in the statistics showing increased gate receipts today over the first few days of this, the eighteenth annual agricultural exhibit, held in a community famous for its grapes, oranges, walnuts and vegetables.

But they who have the eye of an artist, the heart of a child and the symbol-seeing mind of a poet, will rejoice in the beauty which is manifest in the pictures which the ranchers have made of their grain, fruit, cotton and vegetables, and the miners have created with their minerals and metals.

One of these pictures, from the Palo Verde Valley, shows grain arranged in geometric designs as a background for a miniature cotton plantation, and its tawny tan coloring suggests how bounty has been wrested from the desert, and how the ingenuity of man has found food, raiment and shelter by collaborating with nature.

PERRIS GRAPES SHOWN

The striking exhibit from Perris Valley, a huge pyramid of grapes with tall Egyptian obelisks, gives a sense of lavish abundance, which even the most insensate must feel, and the color combinations of fruits, vegetables and melons exhibited in the Ventura county booth have the tonal gradations of an oil painting.

El Dorado county has a varied and interesting exhibit which not only catches the eye with its arrangement of red apples and yellow pears, its showcase of gleaming gold nuggets, and its miniature miner's cabin, but it intrigues the nostrils as well with the scent of fir and balsam from the miniature forest which it has sent from the banks of Lake Tahoe. James Dixon, 82 years of age, the first white child born at Tahoe, is general manager of the exhibit, and he makes a striking figure with his bright red flannel shirt decorated with real gold nuggets. Three thousand dollars' worth of gold in crude lumps in one small case forms part of the exhibit, the gold being of three kinds, placer, lode and quartz, and it came from almost the identical spot in which gold was first discovered in California in 1849.

DATE NAME TRANSLATED

As yellow as gold and in almost the same sort of nugget is another prolific product of the State, the date, which has a very attractive setting in the Date Growers' Association exhibit. The growers have recently begun to translate some of the foreign names of their products, so that we now know that the "Deglet Noor" means the "Date of Light," and they have been reading the poetic legends which run all through Persian literature about dates, so that they tell us now that the date contains the four elemental principles of earth, water, fire and air, in the most balanced proportions of any fruit.

The date industry in California is a comparatively new one, and has grown tremendously in the six years in which exhibits have been held at the Riverside fair. Out of the 300 varieties imported from foreign countries less than a dozen have been found suitable to climatic conditions here.

One of the most beautiful pictures at the fair has been created from the vivid colors of some very lowly vegetables. Brilliant scarlet and yellow peppers, mingled with purple-skinned onions, green peppers, striped squash and red tomatoes from China form one of the most pleasing combinations imaginable.

Council Tries Again to Pass Water Bonds

BRAWLEY, Sept. 26.—Undismayed by the overwhelming defeat of a $180,000 water bond issue which was submitted to the voters here last Tuesday the City Council passed a resolution last night providing for another election at which the five proposals covering municipal improvements will be offered for approval. One of the reasons for the defeat of the water bonds, according to members of the Council, was that many citizens regarded the proposed water plans as less essential than other civic improvements. Under the present plan the voters would have the privilege of passing on each issue as a separate project. The five items to be included in the bond election are: A new City Hall; new fire department headquarters; extension and improvement of the sewer system; expansion of the present water system, and installation of a water filtration plant.

The resolution authorizing another election was passed by unanimous action of the city board.

CITY OFFICIAL HURT IN PASADENA CRASH

PASADENA, Sept. 26. — Albert E. Edwards, acting City Controller, is confined to his home today as the result of injuries incurred last night when his automobile collided with another car driven by Dr. J. S. Hibben, local physician, at the intersection of North El Molino avenue and East Orange Grove avenue. Police who investigated the crash, reported that Edwards apparently failed to make a full boulevard stop.

He was given first-aid treatment for a slight concussion of the brain and numerous cuts and bruises.

REDLANDS CAMPUS GROWS HAIR

Students Begin Annual Retreat Behind Facial Foliage in Observance of Their Traditional Whiskerino Contest; Lather and Brush Taboo, as Fair Sex Judge

REDLANDS, Sept. 26. "Where men are men," is a good description of the University of Redlands campus beginning this week, when many students indulge in their annual Whiskerino, or whisker-growing contest, to determine the male with the most luxuriant beard.

Officially started Wednesday evening at a student-body rally, when rules and regulations were explained to the entrants by Milton Bell, student president, and Milton Gair, '32, who instituted the tradition in 1928, the men appeared on the campus Thursday with clean-shaven faces and signed their pledges to refrain from the use of lather and brush for twenty days.

At the end of that period, should they have survived feminine derision, judges will pick the lucky winners and award prizes, offered by Gair. Further incentive to enter the contest, which in the past had needed no special incentive to urge the sturdy male to the Samsonian activity, is furnished in the judges, who will be members of the fairer sex.

Three prizes will be awarded October 15, one, a pair of shoes, to the man owning the heaviest beard, a similar prize to the most original beard wearer, and a third prize to the sorry male whose lack of beard after the twenty days will gain him a new shirt.

It is expected that news reels of the victorious contestants and their competitors will be taken later in the contest, when competition becomes close. The fair judges will also play a prominent part in showing the basis for their judgments.

The contest, which is one of the outstanding events of the University of Redlands student body, in past years has gained wide publicity for the local institution, which is one of the few universities sponsoring such a contest. The event is open to every male on the campus, and blonds and brunettes will be judged indiscriminately.

TAX STANDARDIZING URGED

Move for Uniformity in Arriving at Valuations Proves Keynote of County Assessors' Convention

AVALON (Catalina Island) Sept. 26.—A plea for standardization and uniformity of tax valuations and assessments is the keynote of the State convention of County Assessors of California in session here. Practically every County Assessor's office in the State is represented.

Secretary Dixwell Pierce of the State Board of Equalization, indorsed the stand taken on the convention floor recently by State Controller Riley for the vesting in the State Board of Equalization or similar official body of the power to act as a constitutional tax commission to effect an constant economic changes and assist in arriving at a uniform tax base for all counties in the State.

Farmers must look to improvement in assessment methods for relief of present conditions, according to Van T. Ellsworth of the California Farm Bureau Federation, who spoke at the morning session yesterday on "Assessment of Agricultural Lands." He also stressed the need of standardization of tax appraisals between counties. There is less difference between parcels of properties in the cities than between various pieces of farm land, due largely to fewer changes of ownership of the latter, he pointed out.

A. E. Allen, County Assessor of San Bernardino, spoke on the Allen system of valuing citrus trees. The relation of the California Taxpayers' Association, to the public official was discussed by Milbank Johnson.

Highlight of the convention which was called to order yesterday by President W. A. Horton of Santa Cruz, was the statement of State Controller Ray Riley that California's major problem should be the expenditure of funds toward the preserving of the water resources of the State through a joining of the Metropolitan Water District of the south with the north in a common plan to underwrite a program of water development.

WOMEN ACTIVE AT FAIR

Their Building Center of Hospitality at Riverside; Handicraft Marked by Variety and Skill

BY LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 26.—The women of Riverside county are the star exhibitors at the fair this year. They not only have one of the most interesting and diversified exhibitions of all the various handcrafts in which women have been engaged since Eve sewed fig-leaf tunics with a thorn, but they are also demonstrating something which is far more valuable than foodstuffs and fabrics. Their building is the hospitality center of the fair and Mrs. W. M. Hoagland, superintendent of the department, declared that she and her assistants resolved that they would give the word "hospitality" a new meaning during this annual gathering of visitors in their community, the result being that a sightseer at the fair has every courtesy extended to him or her, and may have a personally conducted tour if he or she wishes.

The first thing one is shown is a patchwork quilt made by a 91-year-old woman, who only began to do this sort of work when she was 80. Since that time she has made thirty quilts for her children and grandchildren. She is Mrs. Virginia Stratton, grandmother of Mrs. Raymond Roberts of Riverside, and has never worn spectacles in her life.

The next thing is the unusual and varied handcraft of Mrs. W. B. Payton of Riverside, who is the envy of the entire county, having taken five first prizes and used up the entire blue-ribbon supply for that department. Her needle point, petit point and other tapestry designs could pass for real medieval museum pieces; and her pilgrim rug, done in Spanish heraldic design, is the rug which has won the slogan "The rug that is fit for a king," and is so excellently done that she has been requested to put it on permanent exhibit so that the women of other sections, and perhaps other countries, may see what remarkable handcraft Californians are doing.

EMBROIDERY SHOWN

The white embroidery is in charge of Mrs. E. M. Gifford, and there is an unusually attractive display of cut work, Italian work and Montmelick embroidery in lunch and tablecloths, sheets, dresser scarfs and centerpieces.

Mrs. Alice Wirt is manager of the colored embroidery and here the gayest hues mingle and blend in astonishing combinations.

The lace department is in charge of Mrs. H. G. Stanley, who is an adept at fine lacework herself. Filet, Cluny, Irish crochet and tatting fine as a spider's web vie with each other in workmanship and beauty and the specimens shown are for most every conceivable household need.

Mrs. Rolla A. Doan is responsible for the arts and crafts section, these exhibits covering a wide range of articles.

Old-fashioned quilts and bedspreads, as well as their modern counterparts, are in charge of Mrs. William Farr, and the ceramics and student art are supervised by Mrs. Holt and Mrs. Lester.

The great variety of delicious-looking pies, cakes, bread and other culinary specimens are under the supervision of Mrs. Eva Sullivan, and Mrs. Ella Johnson has the canned fruit, jellies and jams as her special exhibit. An effective arrangement of lights placed behind the red, amber and green jellies make them gleam like rubies, topas and emeralds.

SPELLING MATCH HELD

Mrs. Cecelia G. Cravens is the secretary of the entire fair and is one of the most active members of the fair association. Miss Vivian P. Evans, rural school superintendent, put on the first spelling match this year ever held at the fair. It had an entry of seventy-five from the grammar grades and high schools of the county.

One of the most interesting exhibits at the fair is the Red Cross booth, conceived and executed by Miss Frances E. Doane, executive secretary of the Red Cross for Riverside county.

The women teachers in the Riverside city and county schools are responsible for the very remarkable educational exhibit which includes everything from paper cut-work and crayon drawings by kindergarten pupils, to very creditable oil and water color paintings by high school students, and glazed pottery wood carving, hand-woven fabrics and miniature houses and gardens, showing the architecture and planting system of Egypt, Holland, Japan and other countries, done by the various grades.

Earl Cromas in Legion Activity

REDLANDS, Sept. 26.—Earl Cromas of this city, who is said to be a likely candidate for the post of State commander of the American Legion next year, has been made the chairman of the community betterment commission of the Legion by B. W. Gearhart, State commander.

As chairman, Cromas will make a speaking tour of California Legion posts, advocating a major objective for each post, such as playground development, safety-first measures, or city beautification. There are numerous projects sponsored by posts throughout the State.

Under Cromas's direction the California commission will strive for the James A. Drain trophy, awarded annually by a past national commander to the Legion department showing the most progress in community betterment. California won the trophy in 1927 and 1929.

Cromas is to attend the national convention which is to be held in Boston in October.

NURSERYMEN SEE TREND OF TRADE

Compton Grower Elected as New President

Growers Bring Plants and Flowers With Them

Dr. Alfred Cookman, Expert on Birds, Speaker

ONTARIO, Sept. 26.—With 350 delegates present for the twentieth annual convention of the California Association of Nurserymen sessions are being held this week-end at the assembly hall of Armstrong Nurseries.

H. J. Scherer of Compton was elected president of the association today. Other new officials are: H. A. Hyde, Watsonville, first vice-president; M. R. Jackson, Fresno, treasurer; Henry W. Kruckeberg, Los Angeles, secretary; J. M. Asher, Los Angeles, David S. Ward, Eureka, George Burgen, Berkeley, F. A. Tetley, Jr., Riverside, vice-presidents-at-large; John A. Armstrong, Ontario, and S. A. Gabbart, Fresno, directors for two years.

The meetings are presided over by J. Awdry Armstrong, of Armstrong Nurseries, as president. Annual reports and reports of standing committees were the first matters of business to come before the convention, with several outstanding addresses Thursday afternoon and Friday.

Several of the nurserymen brought exhibits of plants and flowers with them to add to the trade exhibit. Nursery supply companies and other individuals and organizations have also added to the exhibit, which is in charge of J. C. Watt of Armstrong Nurseries staff.

Dr. Alfred Cookman of Pomona, an expert on birds and bird life, was announced as principal speaker for the annual banquet. Topic of his address is "The Romance of Bird Life; its Application to Plants and Gardens." This talk is illustrated with true specimens of all birds mentioned.

Saturday's program includes hours of pleasure and sight-seeing for the visitors who have come from all parts of the State. The local committee has arranged for an interesting itinerary, consisting of an automobile ride to points of interest, including visits to leading nurseries of the valley. Luncheon is to be served at noon in Fourth-street Park.

The entertainment committee, all local nurserymen, includes J. S. Armstrong, chairman; R. E. Page, A. W. Elmslie, Louis Matlin, A. A. Kramer and Hubert Lucas.

MUNICIPAL PLANT FOR TORRANCE

Bond Issue of $400,000 Voted to Finance Water System for Community

TORRANCE, Sept. 26.—A bond issue of $400,000 for the construction of a publicly owned water system in the original townsite was decided at the polls yesterday in an eight-to-one vote in favor of the issue. The tally of the vote shows 1364 cast in favor of the issue, 180 opposed and 38 ballots rejected.

The district as outlined extends from Western avenue to Madrona and from the General Petroleum tract to Camino Real, a territory now served by the Torrance Water, Light and Power Company. Districts surrounding this section are served by three individual companies and had not entered into the question.

According to specifications prepared sometime ago by City Engineer Frank G. Leonard and his associates, the plant as proposed can supply the district at a rate of $1.25 per 1000 cubic feet, which quotation is about one-half the rate paid the present company and in addition retire all bonds and provide adequate sinking-fund and maintenance provisions. The plant design suggested is one of the most modern, providing for both domestic and industrial service and with reserve and emergency provisions on all lines.

Violation of State Medical Law Asserted

LONG BEACH, Sept. 26.—Violation of the State Medical Practice Act was charged against officials of a magnetic healing institution today, when four persons were taken into custody by State agents and police.

W. T. Harbottle, Mrs. Edna Harbottle, W. Guy Darbin and Christy Jerian, were booked at the City Jail for violation of a section of the State Practice Act.

The institution conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Harbottle has been involved in controversy in Council and courts and the defendants previously were arrested on zoning law and license-ordinance charges.

DE MOLAY'S ELECT

ONTARIO, Sept. 26.—Members of Old Baldy chapter, Order of De Molay, cast an unanimous ballot for the election of Howard Warren, 710 South Euclid avenue, to be Master Councilor for the chapter, to serve the ensuing term, at the regular election of the order in Masonic hall. Warren will succeed Joe Sharp whose term has expired. Other officers elected are Otto Gottwald, senior councilor; Howard Finley, junior councilor; James Sprague, scribe; Ralph Whistler, treasurer.

LEGION IN ELECTION QUANDARY

Glendale Post Without Commander, in Tangle Following Tie Vote

GLENDALE, Sept. 26.—The Glendale post of the American Legion today finds itself without a commander, due to a tangle that arose last night when the annual election of officers was held at the clubhouse, 245 West Arden street. Reeves Hendershot, the outgoing commander, had been installed as commander of the twentieth district, and two candidates for the vacancy, Harley O. Preston, chaplain of the post, and Louis Lombardi, vice-commander, were on the ballot as possible successors to Hendershot.

The two men each received 119 votes, and a solution of the difficulty might have been reached if some one had not discovered that the polls had been closed before the time allowed by the post's by-laws had expired. The rules provide that the polls shall remain open from 6 to 9:30 p.m., but in some manner they were closed at 8 o'clock, half an hour too soon. This, according to the legal experts, means that the election is void, and the members are pondering whether they will go through the coming year without a duly elected leader or whether they can by some means hold another election and pick a new commander.

One bright spot appeared to lighten the gloom of the post when Dr. Fred Loring turned over a check for $5000, receipts from the automobile races that the post sponsors at the Ascot speedway.

Grandfather's Clock Keeps Up with Times

REDLANDS, Sept. 26.—One of the popular songs over the radio is "My Grandfather's Clock" and it always means something to Mrs. Margaret Steins of 207 Myrtle street, for she has a grandfather's clock that is a champion.

The clock was bought in 1832 at Huntington, Pa. Ever since then, except for brief periods when it was being transported from place to place and a slight indisposition after it was thrown from a window during a fire, the timepiece has been on the job.

The clock was made by J. C. Brown of the Forestville Manufacturing Company of Bristol, Ct. A faded label printed on a steam press at Hartford, Ct., shows a sketch of the factory where improved eight-day brass clocks were turned out. The clock was "warranted, if well used."

Only once in its four-score years of service has the clock been in the hands of a professional clock repairer. After it had been telling time for half a century it was decided to have the cogs turned so that the worn sides could have a rest.

The clock came to January Lilly, father of Mrs. Steins, and he replaced the cords for the iron weights at one time.

When the Lilly home burned in Monroe county, Illinois, the clock was thrown from a window and battered, but not seriously damaged.

Minister Placed on City Council

BELL, Sept. 26.—Bell now has a minister as a member of the City Council, Rev. W. B. Richmond, having been selected by the four Councilmen to fill the place made vacant by the death of A. L. Clarkson recently. Clarkson had served as Mayor ever since it was incorporated four or five years ago. The selection of a Mayor will be made at the next session of the Council, it is believed. Rev. Richmond is pastor of the Bell Memorial Presbyterian Church, and is active in service club work.

MEN'S CLUB NOMINATES

REDLANDS, Sept. 26.—Nominations for officers were made by the Y's Men's Club here last night, the committee of past presidents nominating Earl Thomerson for president; Paul Annabil and George Williams, vice-presidents; Joe Kubias, treasurer; Bim White, secretary, and Freddie Gowland, sergeant-at-arms. Directors nominated are Walter Bacon, Doug Black and Harry Jenkins. Roscoe Goodcell of the Auto Club instituted a chapter of the Master Motorists of the Kings Highway, with about twenty members from the club.

New Ordinance Passes Reading by Directors

Contractors on City Must Favor Home

Must Try to Employ Cent, or be

PASADENA, Sept. 26.—Contractors on city jobs who do not attempt to recruit at least 70 per cent of their workmen from residents may be fined $500 or for six months, according to terms of a home-labor ordinance which was passed on first reading by the Board of City Directors at special meeting today.

The measure is being put into shape so that it may be effective before September 30, on the new $1,200,000 Civic Auditorium.

City Director Carl G. Wright, who cast the sole negative vote, expressed the opinion that the ordinance will prove a boomerang to local laborers. He pointed out the fact that local contractors take crews of Pasadena men to outside construction jobs, and that local home-labor ordinances would result in passage of similar laws in other cities against Pasadena labor.

The new ordinance provides that when a sufficient supply of labor is unavailable the contractor may appeal to the City Council, who is empowered to grant exceptions to the rule.

Charges that the city has a "black list" against persons working for the home-labor ordinance appeared before the city council were denied by M. D. Hughes.

"I know a man who was fired by you (Directors) last week from him and rehired by you because he appeared as a witness for this ordinance," she declared.

"We have never resorted to such tactics and I assure you that such charges are untrue," Director Robert L. Daugherty, author of the measure, retorted.

Any workman who has been continuously in this city for six months is considered a resident and entitled to employment, according to the provisions of the ordinance.

reels of progress are gradually shaping up in the telephone industry, and now the telephone company's side of the picture. Ernest Irwin, assistant to the president of the Telephone Company, parent firm of the Pacific Telephone Company, broke this news to a group of citizens at a hearing has been in progress before the railroad commission, which the telephone company seeks to have raise its rates.

In closing the testimony it was brought out that the proposed increase in rates would raise the state's tolls to the highest in Southern California, with the exception of Taft, where the highest phone rate is reported at $7.85. The rate sought for Ontario and Upland is an increase of 83 per cent for business phones and 66 per cent for residence phones.

A decision will not be made known by the Railroad Commission for some time. E. H. Jolliffe, City Attorney for Ontario, and E. E. Gibson, City Attorney for Upland, led the opposition against the telephone company's proposal for increased rates.

Southern California Heavy Favorite to Win

U.C.L.A. Hopes to Cut Down Score at Coliseum

BY PAUL LOWRY

It's here at last—the Pacific Coast Conference football race—and some 50,000 gridiron-thirsty souls will be at the Coliseum for the lid-lifting ceremonies this afternoon. Chief performers in this annual rite are elevens representing the University of Southern California and U.C.L.A. To them goes the honor of playing the first conference game of the year, the other eight institutions in the loop taking on opposition outside the conference today, biding their time until next Saturday.

ORV MOHLER

Southern California is naturally an odds-on favorite, but the Bruins of Westwood and their coach, Bill Spaulding, are hopeful of holding the score within reason.

Last year Southern California submerged the Bruins under the horrible count of 76 to 0, had anything short of that total will be considered an improvement.

As a matter of fact, Trojan betors are giving away 40 points and finding plenty of market for even money among the Westwood boys.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT

When the Trojans go into action against U.C.L.A. this afternoon three of the most prominent athletes will be Jim Stewart, left, Al Maloney, center, and Bob Hall. Stewart weighs 198 pounds and stands 6 feet 3½ inches tall. Hall weighs 206 and towers to the same height as Jim. Maloney weighs 155 and is 5 feet 6 inches short.

Madison Square Garden Abandons Campolo Bout with Boston Tar as Complete Failure

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—The worst fiasco in all the fight history of Madison Square Garden sloughed into a ludicrous finale today with the abandonment of the ill-fated heavyweight match between Jack Sharkey and Victorio Campolo.

Doomed to financial failure through the complete indifference of the populace from the moment the articles were signed, saddled with a guarantee of $100,000 given Sharkey when the Boston sailor threatened to bolt the Garden auspices and battle with Primo Carnera in Chicago, the match, scheduled for last night at the Yankee Stadium, ran into a rainstorm and

Shellenback Turns in Tenth Straight Victory

BY BOB RAY

Hollywood's league-leading Stars made it three out of four over Sacramento by defeating the Solons, 11 to 6, last night at Wrigley Field. Frank Shellenback, Sheik spitball ace, although hit hard in the first and seventh innings, turned in his tenth straight victory, and in so doing struck out thirteen of the Senators.

After spotting the visitors a four-run lead in the first, the Stars took advantage of "Lefty" Flynn's wildness, to score three in the fourth, and then concentrated their attack off Wilbur Hubbell in the fifth and eighth innings to hammer over eight more scores.

Dave Barbee led the Hollywood attack with a single, double, and his thirty-ninth home run of the year in four times at bat. Barbee drove in three runs, as did Johnny Jones and Otis Brannan.

The victory enabled the Stars to retain their six-game lead over the second-place Angels.

After striking out French and McLaughlin to start the game, Shellenback lost his stuff, and the Solons rapped across four runs. A walk to Backer, Demaree's single, Osborn's dou-

Hack Wilson's Fifty-fourth Homer Decides Tilt

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26. (AP) — It's the Cardinals versus the Athletics in the world series.

"Gabby" Street's Redbirds today qualified to uphold the honor of the National League against the Philadelphia Athletics, American League champions, in this year's baseball classic by slugging out a 10-to-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and clinching the 1930 pennant, the St. Louis club's third in the last five seasons.

JESSE HAINES

Although Chicago defeated Cincinnati today, the Cubs are three full games behind St. Louis and, with only two more games to play, the Cardinals could lose both and still win the flag.

HAINES HURLS WIN

To Jesse Haines, dean of the Cardinal hurling staff and a veteran of the Redbirds' two other world series campaigns, fell the honor of clinching this year's pennant. Haines outpitched Ervin Brame of the Pirates to chalk up the Cardinals' twenty-first victory in the last twenty-four games. Since August 1, the Cardinals have won forty-three of fifty-five games, and have boosted their percentage mark more than 100 points.

While Haines was none too steady, his mates backed him up with the same heavy slugging that has been a big factor in their victorious drive down the stretch. One big inning, the fourth, was all the Cardinals needed, seven runs rattling across the plate before the side could be retired. A home run by Watkins was mixed in with hits by Hafey, Mancuso, Gelbert, Douthit, Frisch and Bottomley to bring in the seven tallies.

The remainder of the Cardinal scoring was done in the sixth. A single by Haines, Adams's double, a triple by Frisch, and Bottomley's double resulted in three runs.

In contrast to the Cardinals' other two pennant victories, downtown St. Louis showed little concern when the flag was clinched today.

FANS GO WILD AT PARK

It was a different matter at Sportsman's Park, however, for there the fans danced, howled, cheered, blew horns, and threw hats onto the field as Street's men won the pennant.

Tomorrow the high-flying Redbirds will be feted with a parade and celebration. The score:

SEAVER BLOWS 5 UP LEAD TO LOSE MATCH, 1 DOWN

Young Princeton Star Shoots Final Nine in 34 to Conquer Charlie; Bob Beats Sweetser, 9 and 8

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

MERION CRICKET CLUB (Ardmore, Pa.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Twenty-two-year-old Eugene Vanderpool Homans, the fighting son of a father who fought many an old gridiron war for Princeton staged one of the most sensational comebacks of golf tournament history today to win and earn the distinction of playing the great Bobby Jones tomorrow for the amateur championship of the United States.

Five down after the first eighteen holes, three down at the twenty-seventh and still two down with four to go, Homans, with a display of absolute grit belied by his frail, studious appearance won three of the last four holes to beat 19-year-old Charley Seaver of Los Angeles 1 up, on the thirty-sixth and last green.

BOBBY JONES

Homans's dramatic victory in the semifinals followed the triumphant onward sweep of Jones who crushed an old rival, Jess W. Sweetser of New York, by the lopsided margin of 9 up and 8 to go, in the Georgian's most convincing victory of the tournament.

As a result of two matches that sparkled with great golf and thrilled galleries of upward of three spectators, Homans is the only barrier between Jones and a fourth national championship triumph for the year—a clean sweep that would leave King Bobby with no more worlds to conquer and a record that modern generations may never see equaled.

JONES UNBEATABLE

If there was anyone tonight who did not anticipate that Jones would complete his marvelous march of conquest, perhaps including Homans himself, he could not be located for the Georgian uncorked a brand of golf today that was as nearly unbeatable as anything can be in the sport.

Jones, despite a bad streak of golf midway in his morning round, had old man par at his mercy as well as the blond, good-natured but also outclassed Sweetser, nowhere near the golfer who overwhelmed Jones eight years ago by 8 and 7 at Brook-

Nibs Price Pits Shift Against Shift in Tilt with Santa Clara

BERKELEY, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) A new University of California football varsity, scarcely recognizable among the elevens which have paraded under the wing of Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price the past four years, will make its first public appearance tomorrow afternoon against Santa Clara in what is expected to be a sizzling contest. As a preliminary the California freshmen will meet with the San Mateo Junior College team.

NIBS PRICE

Price is pitting a varsity revamped in many ways. There will be a backfield with four potential offensive threats instead of only Benny Lom, the curly-headed all-American. For the first time in history, the California line and backfield both will shift into position. Also, it seems that the Santa Clarans have their big chance under Coach Clipper Smith, the first big chance in twelve years.

The first-string line-up leaves out the names of Clarence (Moose) Garrity and Joe Hickingbotham. It happens that both these men are capable fullbacks, but not so capable as

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS NOT THROUGH AS CHALLENGER YET

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, in a prepared statement given out as he made a call on Mayor Walker at City Hall today, said he would challenge again for the America's Cup, most historic of all yachting trophies.

Sir Thomas did not set a definite date for his return, but said he "hoped to be back before long for another trial."

His fifth challenger, Shamrock V, was defeated four races to none by the American defender Enterprise in the series of races run off Newport, R. I., last week.

TOURNAMENT IN QUARTERFINALS

Eckles Eliminates Ward by 4 and 2 Score

Championship, First Flights Play Two Rounds

Consolation Event Scheduled This Morning

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

W. L. (Wild Bill) Jelliffe enters the quarter-final round of Rancho's invitation tournament this morning a decided favorite, following his brilliant 3-and-2 victory over Phil Carter, one of the home guard's leading golfers, in yesterday's feature second-round contest.

HARRY WESBROOK

Carter played a sour seconds, but hopelessly, against the long-driving Jelliffe. Bill was 2 up at the turn and ended the match on the 145-yard sixteenth hole with a birdie 2. Jelliffe was only one over perfect figures with 37-34—71, while Carter's medal was 39-35—74.

Only less sensational than Jelliffe's victory was the 4-and-3 win scored by Harry B. Wesbrook over Lee Pendergrass. The Annandale star was 1 under par for fifteen holes and had Pendergrass 4 down before the match had hardly gotten under way.

Ralf Eckles, Oakmont's up-and-coming young golfer, scored the only upset of the day when he eliminated Charles (Chuck) Ward of Beverlywood, 4 and 2.

This will be a busy day out on the Pico Boulevard links. In addition to the two rounds of match play scheduled for the championship and first flights, there will be an eighteen-hole medal-play consolation round for those defeated in first-round matches and non-qualifiers. Paul Jones has lined up a number of beautiful trophies for the consolation round, and all players eligible are urged to compete. All other flights play one round today, and finals in all flights are billed for tomorrow. Mixed foursomes are also scheduled on tomorrow's program with a large turnout looked for.

A. R. Painter announces that the play-off for low net will be held next week. Golfers shooting net scores of 69 and under are eligible. This will be staged at a date to be announced later.

H. K. Bachelder, the medalist, looks like a possible finalist in the upper bracket. "Bach" eliminated C. P. Regus yesterday, 2 and 1, and is shooting fine golf.

An all-Southern California match is on tap this morning when Winston Fuller faces Eckles in what should prove to be one of the best matches of the day.

If the dope runs true to form this morning, Bachelder and Fuller will probably meet in the upper bracket semifinal match in the afternoon, with the Pasadena city champion, Wesbrook, should face the Los Angeles city title-holder, Jelliffe, in the lower bracket.

Following are yesterday's complete results:

LINCOLN NOSES OUT POLY

Jim Tunney's Tigers Win Over Mechanics, 7-6, in Feature Prep Grid Game

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

For the third consecutive year the Lincoln Tigers appear to be the dark horse in the race for the City League football title. Yesterday in the feature prep practice game of the week-end the Tigers defeated Voyle Brennen's Poly Mechanics, 7 to 6, on the Poly field, and exhibited quite an array of speedy backfield men.

Poly tallied early in the game. Lott going over from the 2-yard line after he had intercepted one of Garbo's passes on the Lincoln 23-yard line.

After that bad break, Jim Tunney's Tigers had the advantage until late in the second period, when McCallum, Poly quarter, started throwing passes. On two heaves the Mechanics gained 23 yards, only to have the half whistle blow.

About the middle of the second period, Tunney sent in Joe Aprato in place of Gargliano at halfback. On the first play, Aprato took the ball through left tackle and wasn't stopped until he hit the 1-yard line twenty-six yards away. On a sneak play little Aprato dove over for the touchdown.

Santa Garbo converted for the extra point, which meant the difference between a tie and victory.

Lincoln had quite an advantage in the third quarter, making four first downs to the Mechanics' zero.

In the fourth period the Tigers came very close to scoring again. After taking the ball to the Poly 7-yard line, the Tigers got their signals mixed and the ball from center went sailing toward the Lincoln goal line. Aprato recovered and ended up on the 30-yard line.

Mentor Figures Stanford Too Strong for Olympic Club; Huskies in for Easy Win

HOWARD JONES PREDICTS:

Santa Clara: California should win.
Gonzaga: Tough for Oregon State.
Olympic Club: Stanford too strong.
California-U.C.L.A.: Trojans.
Whitman: Easy for Washington.
State-College of Idaho: A warm-up for W.S.C.
Montana State: A cinch to Idaho.
St. Charles: Montana favored.

Football Coach, University of Southern California
(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

The outstanding football game on the Pacific Coast today is that which sends the University of California against Santa Clara. It is a traditional opening game at Berkeley for many years. Of added interest this season is the fact that California has adopted the Notre Dame shift. Just how much of Knute Rockne's system the Golden Bears have taken over will not be known until California goes into action—hence the unusual interest in the game.

Santa Clara also uses the Notre Dame system. The coach is Clipper Smith, guard at South Bend some years ago. He was good enough to give a real workout, and if the two see much grief with they may be extended. Flynn in the third after once more walked the first face him.

The Bac southpaw was not so lunate in the fourth, during he was replaced by Hubbell the Sheiks scored, three runs Laughlin's low throw on Co grounder started the fourth, then Barbee walked. JONES NEARS ALL-TIME MARK IN MATCH TODAY line. The great Georgian was 4 up on Sweetser at the end of the morning round and he shot dazzling golf in the afternoon to end the match on the twenty-eighth green.

There, as a climax, he almost holed out his pitch from 90 yards, the ball stopping ten inches from the cup for the third Jones birdie in four straight holes.

Brilliant as was the golf Homans displayed in fighting uphill to overcome Seaver—and the Jersey youth went the last eighteen holes in even par 70—nevertheless he would have been 6 down to Jones at the twenty-eighth on the basis of their two performances today.

The finalists have met before, in the second round at Minikahda in 1927, when Jones was the victor over Homans by the count of 3 and 2.

Despite his 22 years, Homans has had plenty of golf tournament experience and he gets the fighting courage he manifested today from Shepard Homans, famous as a fullback with the Princeton football teams from 1889 to 1892. The younger Homans has outstripped his father at golf, however. This is his fifth amateur championship and the fourth in which he has qualified, but never before had he advanced beyond the second round.

Homans was the favorite over Seaver today, on the strength of his more seasoned tournament record, but his chances of winning did not seem worth a plugged nickel when he skidded through the morning round to become 5 down to his stocky, sandy-haired rival from California.

The first break of the match in Homans's favor came at the twenty-third hole in the afternoon round. The second and really deciding break came at the thirty-fifth, where Homans squared the match.

Going to the twenty-third, young Gene was 5 down and apparently going nowhere. On this tricky, 435-yard hole, he drove to the rough and put his second in a trap, while Seaver was straight all the way and well on in 2. Homans studied his shot carefully, then took a newly devised niblick with a concave face and came out perfectly, the ball catching a side-hill roll and stopping two feet from the cup. It was dead for a 4 and Homans won the hole when Seaver took three putts.

Instead of being 6 down, Homans was only 4 down and although he lost the twenty-fourth, he paved the way for a comeback that would otherwise have been next to impossible. He won the twenty-seventh, to become 3 down and did not lose another hole as he played every remaining hole perfectly in par.

GREAT RECOVERY

Gene won the twenty-ninth, saved the thirty-second with a performance duplicating his earlier recovery from a trap, then won the thirty-third and was only 1 down as he hit a spoon shot pin high about eight feet from the pin on the final thirty-fifth. Seaver was high on the hillside to the left and approached to within five feet of the cup. Homans just missed the birdie, but Seaver also missed and laid his rival a dead stymie. Homans stretched on the ground to study the turf. There was only one way to get down—through the "side door." He did it by cutting the ball around Seaver's to win the hole with a par 3 and square the match.

Thus fortified Homans slashed two fine wood shots, the second a spoon to within fifteen feet of the pin on the home hole. Seaver pulled his second shot to the side of a trap, went twenty-five feet past the pin and then putted four feet past. Homans took two putts, but that was all he needed to win the match as a crowd of 5000, massed six deep, cheered.

The only suspense attached to the Jones-Sweetser match was midway in the morning round. Big Jess, after losing four of the first five holes, put on a comeback that reduced the Georgian's margin to a single hole. It looked like a rout at the very first hole when Jones sank an eighteen-foot putt for a birdie 3 while Jess was in two traps and then way over the green.

The machine-like Jones golf, however, bogged down for some unaccountable reason, starting with a drive out of bounds on the seventh. Through six successive holes Bobby was six strokes over par. "Calamity Jane," the usually efficient Jones putter, took a holiday. Bobby three-putted three greens. Sweetser's par golf was good enough to win four holes.

JONES BRILLIANT

Jones settled down and again rolled his lead up to four holes by the end of the morning round, winning three of the last four, which he shot in 1 under par.

The "kill" was not long delayed in the afternoon. Sweetser won only one hole, the twenty-first, where Jones was in a trap. Bobby applied the pressure with birdies at the twenty-third, twenty-fifth, twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth. He sank putts of twenty-five, eight and twelve feet before pitching his last shot so close to the pin, ten inches away, that he didn't need to touch the ball after Jess missed his long putt for an attempt to prolong the match.

Thus the great Georgian advanced with all the power of a conqueror to his seventh national amateur championship final. Twice he has been beaten, in 1919 by S. Davison Herron at Oakmont, in 1926 by George Von Elm at Baltusrol. Four times he has been the victor, in 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1928. If he wins tomorrow, Jones will add three more records to his unparalleled collection—five national amateur crowns, thirteen national championships altogether, and all four British and American titles in one year.

SHARKEY BOUT PROVES BUST

to the situation today and brought about a grateful abandonement of the entire proceedings.

The Garden stood up to take its loss last night and announced the bout would be staged indoors October 3. Although commission rules here call for a postponement of only one day, weather reports indicated more rain would fall tonight and force a second postponement. Unfortunately, Campolo was not consulted before the Garden decision was announced.

Today the gawky gaucho flatly refused to fight October 3 unless a new deal were made all around and he was given $30,000 for his services. He argued he had accepted a guarantee of $7500 for the bout and 15 per cent of the receipts above $200,000 in the belief the match would draw gate receipts approaching $350,000. Now that it wasn't going to do any of these things he wanted more money. He offered, however, to fight Sharkey, who had trained poorly for the fight, for no pay at all if the Boston sailor would meet him tonight.

Sharkey apparently not averse to abandonment, headed for home this morning while his manager, Johnny Buckley, stayed behind to wind up affairs and collect $5000 training expenses.

Campolo made no request for expenses and seemed so piqued at the situation that he announced he would sail back to Argentina October 3 and leave the American box-fighting industry flat.

DUCK SEASON TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

The 1930 duck season in California will open next Wednesday October 1. The hundreds of local hunters who have planned to be out on the opening, should find as many birds as ever before. Reports from Imperial Valley, Coachella Valley and the San Joaquin, received by hunting experts at the B. H. Dyas Company stores state that thousands of birds have been coming in during the last month.

Owing to the fact that both State and Federal duck bag limit laws will be enforced this season, hunters will have to adjust themselves to the following: No hunter is allowed more than fifteen ducks a day or thirty in one week and must never have more than twenty-five in his possession. The goose season also opens next Wednesday. A limit of four a day or eight in one week is set on geese.

ROCHESTER EVENS UP BALL SERIES

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Sept. 26. (AP) Behind the brilliant twirling of John Berly, the Rochester Red Wings, International League champs, evened the little world series with the Louisville Colonels today taking the second game, 8 to 1. Joe Brown, Wing third baseman, was the game's hitting star, getting four safe blows. Wilkinson pitched for Louisville until he was relieved in the eighth by Penner.

CARDS CLINCH NATIONAL FLAG

Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 5. Although victorious, the Cubs remained three games behind as the Cards clinched the title by defeating Pittsburgh, 10 to 5. The clubs have only two games apiece to play.

Hack Wilson's fifty-fourth home run with Cuyler on base, proved the margin of victory as it capped a seventh-inning attack that brought the Cubs from behind.

The Cubs got off ahead in the first and third innings, but Cincinnati got to Sheriff Blake in the seventh to take the lead. Durocher's homer tied the score in the seventh and three more hits, one a double by Meusel, put the Reds ahead for a few moments.

"Old Hoss" Stephenson, pinch hitting for Blake, opened the seventh-inning attack that drove Benton from the mound and won the game. He led off with a single and Teachout, who ran for him, scored on Blair's triple. A sacrifice fly, Cuyler's single and Wilson's fifty-fourth homer, into the right-field bleachers, topped off the big inning. Score:

GORDON TAKES TRIO OF BATTLERS EAST

Eddie Gordon, former State boxing inspector, has corraled several local ringsters and leaves today for the East. Among the boys in Gordon's stable are Young Harry Wills, Battling Bulahan and Freddie Magdelano.

Wills boxes Charlie Feraci in Salt Lake City, October 6, next, and Santos will be on the same card. Gordon says if Wills gets over Feraci in good shape, he has practically closed for a Wills-Hans Jenkins match at Denver a couple of weeks later.

MEXICANS PLAY TODAY

The Fabriles, Mexico's baseball champions, will resume their series with the local Mexico-El Paso club at White Sox Park this afternoon. The series now stands two to one, in favor of the Mexico City entry.

TRIBE BAFFLED BY BAECHT, 8-2

Ed Turns in Twenty-fourth Victory for Angels

SEATTLE (Wash.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Ed Baecht, ace of Jack Lelivelt's mound staff, turned in his twenty-fourth victory of the season here today as the Angels won their first game of the series from Seattle, 8 to 2.

Baecht had the Indians popping up most of the time, as indicated by only five assists being recorded for the Angels, which is very near a record.

It was a 2-to-1 mound duel between Baecht and Lamanski until the eighth when the Seraphs batted across three runs to rout the Tribe southpaw. The Angels scored three more off Andy House in the ninth. Jigger Statz came through with timely hits in each rally. Score:

Acorns Thump Missions, 9-6

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—With the bases full, John Verges, third baseman, hit a homer in the first inning today and Oakland continued to add to its total to defeat the Missions, 9-6. The Oaks clouted Knott and Darrough for fifteen hits, and the locals contributed to their own downfall by making four errors. Burns and Mufft of the Missions also hit homers, theirs coming with a man on base. Score:

PADILLO TO MAKE DEBUT HERE TONIGHT

Generoso Padillo, Filipino boxer who holds the all-Navy flyweight title, will box his first local main event tonight when he boxes Chato Laredo, Mexican flyweight champion, in the eight-round main event at the Main-street Club tonight.

Gene Mullens and Tony Cadena, 160-pounders, box the six-round semi-wind-up. It's a rematch, they having put up a great four-round battle at the Olympic. Leo Domingo and Louis Ramos, 128-pounders, box the six-round special. Four-round bouts completing the card are: Chalkey Wright vs. Bobby Garcia, 120 pounds; Sal Ortega vs. Lucky Baldwin, 135 pounds; Jimmy Hamilton vs. John Willis, 170 pounds.

National Amateur Golf Final Still Another Feature

World Wide News at 12:30, 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. (No Times Forum today on account of golf finals and football games over KHJ.)

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

"They're off." The football game today between the University of Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles takes the field of radio this afternoon at 2 o'clock over KHJ, KFI, KMTR, KPWB, KMPC, and KNX.

If this isn't enough football for you, KHJ also will bring the Army vs. Boston game at West Point, breaking into the dial at approximately 10 a.m. today. Between halves the national amateur golf finals will be broadcast over the same station.

They tell us that—

But don't think that football is to eclipse Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French flyers who spanned the Atlantic—and visit Los Angeles. KNJ at 8 o'clock tonight will offer "La Belle France," a program of French music, in honor of these airmen. Raymond Paige and his thirty-five-piece orchestra—excellent soloists — vocal ensembles. You can't miss on this.

KNX at 8 tonight—the official reception to be given the French flyers. Mayor Porter, Capt. Paul Perigord and the French Consul are to take part.

And KMIC will be on the air at 3 this afternoon to broadcast the arrival of Coste and Bellonte. They say they will try to induce the flyers to speak over the microphone.

Do you like radio playlets? Then dial KPWB at 9:30 tonight—Stuart Buchanan and cast.

Here's a little bit of Scotch. Ted White's Night Club over KHJ at 8:30 p.m. "The Campbells Are Coming" and so is "Annie Laurie."

KMPC—at 9 tonight—"huge array of talent" — mirthful melody with the Three Sisters—string trio.

KNX for violin music—Calmon Lubovski—from 7 to 8 tonight.

"The Village Postmaster"—that's the Showboat offering over CBS via KHJ at 5:15 tonight. When that funny old scow warps up to the levee it's usually brimful of melodrama.

More cowboys—KMTR at 6:30 tonight—yep they're from Oklahoma—guitar and banjo solos—excellent harmony, 'tis said. If the cowboys keep comin' on radio — the cows won't have no chaperones.

That baby still has Frank Watanabe all mixed up—KNX at 6:15 tonight. I hope he'll learn about abandoned babies from this one.

Two barrels of gypsy songs—Mildred Loughlin and KECA string ensemble at 6:30 p.m.—Indian love lyrics, romantic suites — an hour that may drive you gypsy.

Do you like vaudeville? Then try KHJ's "Show Shop" at 9. They turn their artists off and on fast enough — so something is sure to please you.

Here's a clever idea—KFI at 10:50 tonight will gather up all the football results of the day throughout the nation and toss them to you with comment.

KTM at 9 tonight — the Pepper Box Revue is to gasp its last, so they're going to put all they have into the burial. If you want to mourn—dial in.

Somebody had a party at KTM's ranch house — Ranch Hour at 8 tonight—poor Lena has to clean up—but she isn't dumb. Some strong cowboys get the job.

Friends, Romans and Radioland—it's football and French flyers today and tonight—just croosin' the goal posts and the Atlantic.

Yanks Beaten Again by A's

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Athletics made it two straight over the New York Yanks in their final series, pushing over a run in the ninth today for a 7-to-6 victory. Al Simmons's double following a walk and an error scored the winning run. Score:

GAIN FORECAST BY GILMORE OIL

Optimistic Statement Issued by President

Earnings for Fiscal Year to Show Increase

Says Present Dividend Rate Likely to Stand

Reflecting the results of an aggressive advertising, sales and expansion program waged in the face of the general business depression and the recent gasoline price war, Gilmore Oil Company, Ltd., in its forthcoming earnings statement for the first six months of its fiscal year ending the 30th inst. will show net profits substantially in excess of those reported for the like 1929 period, E. B. Gilmore, president, stated yesterday.

In the first half of its 1929 fiscal year, the company reported net earnings after charges and Federal taxes of $349,686.12 exclusive of earnings from affiliated companies, equal to $1.88 a share on 185,387 shares outstanding at the end of the period. Indicated earnings for the 1930 fiscal half-year will apparently exceed the approximate $130,000 dividend requirements for that period by about three times. As of July 31, last, the outstanding shares totaled 210,972 and the company is now issuing 20,000 shares to its employees.

No change in the current dividend rate of 30 cents a share quarterly is anticipated, Mr. Gilmore said.

SALES GAINING

Retail domestic gasoline sales have mounted steadily every month with August sales totaling 8,268,360 gallons as compared to 2,972,008 gallons for the same month last year. January sales this year were 3,230,445 gallons; February, 3,071,330; March, 4,704,809; April, 6,323,231; May, 6,408,467; June, 6,803,539, and July, 8,035,276. The company now has 2800 independent dealers distributing its gasoline on the Pacific Coast as compared with 900 a year ago.

Twenty - five bulk distributing plants have been installed in California, Washington and Oregon in the past eight months, costing together with motor equipment in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. An additional twenty-five plants will be installed during the next eight months.

OUTPUT TOLD

From four gasoline plants of the Gilmore-Dabney Gasoline Corporation and Gilmore Gasoline Plant No. 1, half-interest of which companies is held by the Gilmore Oil Company, Ltd., the daily production is now about 85,000 gallons of gasoline. With contracts for gas on fifty-three wells now drilling and with improvements being made in these gasoline plants at Long Beach, C. S. Beesemyer, vice-president and general manager of the company, estimated that within three months these plants would be up to their capacity of 140,000 gallons daily.

In addition to the Long Beach production, Gilmore Oil Company, Ltd., is refining from 16,000 to 20,000 gallons of gasoline daily. It holds a long-term contract with the General Petroleum Corporation for the purchase of gasoline requirements in excess of its own production.

DECLINE NOTED

Slight decline in its road oil sales locally have more than been offset by the expansion of sales into the Northwestern States, Mr. Beesemyer stated. The company is producing daily from its Santa Maria and Salt Lake field holdings about 600 barrels of heavy crude oil used for road oil.

The company in August received the final installment from long-term private financing of $750,000 secured by notes carrying options to purchase stock at $15.50 a share, the price advancing $2.50 a share a year for ten years.

As of July 31, last, the balance sheet showed total current assets of $1,606,804.77, of which $293,825.14 was cash, compared to $1,091,913.53 with $133,187.47 cash as of March 31, last. Total current liabilities were $1,567,967.83 as against $1,215,799.04 at March 31, last. Total surplus stood at $688,404.94 as against $638,084.68 on March 31. Total assets increased from $3,635,913.53 at March 31, last, to $5,689,887.77 at July 31; last. Net worth per share increased from $11.28 on March 31, last, to $11.82 on July 31, last.

NEW RICHFIELD OIL PROGRAM RATIFIED

Stockholders of the Richfield Oil Company of California in a special meeting yesterday approved the proposal to amend the articles of incorporation to change the par value of the common from $25 to no par. New shares will be exchanged share for share for the old. At present there are 2,126,187 shares of common outstanding.

PACIFIC WESTERN LEADER

Strong Tone Attributed to Accumulation by Single Investor; Dividends Not Likely

BY EARLE E. CROWE

While other oil shares listed on the Pacific Coast markets have been hunting out new bottoms, Pacific Western Oil has been giving a commendable account of itself. The stock has maintained its trading range around 15 under what appears to be strong accumulation.

Appearance of large-sized buying orders in the market have been attributed to various interests seeking control, among them Cities Service. The Doherty company has yet to make good on its boast of entering California through the acquisition of producing and marketing facilities.

Probably the best information on Pacific Western, however, is the report that an individual investor is the principal buyer of the stock. This investor, it is understood, has already picked up a sizable block of shares and plans to acquire more, possibly with the idea of later taking a seat on the board.

His interest in the stock, it is further understood, is not prompted by information of early establishment of Pacific Western on a dividend basis. Knowledge of asset value, cash resources and probable rate of future earnings is attributed as the motivating reasons.

Relative to dividends, an excellent supposition would point to postponement of any action of this character until 1932, at least. The chances are the management will not seriously consider the question this year nor next, probably not until the early part of 1932 at least. The State-wide curtailment program is projected until December, 1931.

More emphasis has been placed on the accumulation of cash reserves than anything else. Pacific Western is still a young company and its sponsors aim to place its financial condition in such shape that crises in the crude-oil business will cause only passing concern.

CASH INCREASES

How the management has been fortifying itself with cash was illustrated by the report for the first six months of the year showing approximately $1,716,000 in cash. Since that time the company has probably been adding about $150,000 monthly to its cash balance, which would raise the total at the end of the third quarter to approximately $2,225,000. On 1,000,000 shares this would figure nearly $2.25 a share in cash.

Earnings for the year, on the basis of the six months' results of $1.22 a share and allowing for the effect of curtailment, will likely run in the neighborhood of $2.25 to $2.50 a share. At this rate the company could easily inaugurate annual dividends at the rate of $1 a share, but nothing like this is expected until the cash resources are liberally increased.

In the stock market the popular opinion is that Pacific Western's destiny is only as a complement to a larger and well-rounded-out organization requiring additional crude-oil production and reserves. Numerous negotiations have been reported, but it is understood that discussions with Richfield were the only serious conversations entertained by the Pacific Western directorate.

EARNINGS OF WATCH COMPANY HOLD UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) Arde Bulova, chairman of Bulova Watch Company, today stated that the company's earnings for the first nine months of this year will equal or exceed the like 1929 period and that on the basis of unfilled orders on hand there is every indication this year's sales and earnings will be the best in the history of the company.

STOCKS SUFFER FRESH SETBACK

Price Level Beaten Down Near Low of Year

Sharp Gain in Sales Volume for Day Recorded

Selling of Motors Leads General Decline

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Stocks fluttering nervously until early afternoon, the stock market went into a fresh decline in the final hour today under the impetus of heavy selling orders. It was the most active session since late June, shares aggregated 3,704,500 shares, considerably above the Wednesday turnover.

Except for the late weakness in wheat there was nothing to account for the slump, which brought losses of 1 to 3 points in a representative list of prominent issues. Those interested in following averages noted the composite of ninety issues compiled by the Standard Statistics Company dropped 2.2 points to 154.3, just three-tenths of a point above the June bottom. This is a drop of more than 10 points in two weeks.

Motor shares were accented. In fact, the market slid to its worst decline soon after the weakness in this group occurred. There was marked heaviness in the papers, oils and rails. Amusements relatively firm, the New York fractions, a few specialties and a number of preferred stocks alone the only relief from the wave of downturn.

RADIO FALTERS

The market opened lower, soon ran into an active decline centered around Radio, which dropped a couple of points to a new low on large sales. Steel, United States Steel resumed its trend after the first half-hour rallying tendencies prevailed in the noon hour, although little attempt was made to follow up advances.

Acute weakness of Chrysler in the afternoon was followed by heavy offerings of the other motor shares, and by the start of the final hour the market had broken sharply. There was enough short covering to keep a majority of the trading prices off the bottom, but in the meantime the favorite issues had broken through their previous lows for this strenuous week of heavy activity.

Mild optimism was the keynote of the weekly trade reviews. Business reports from different sections of the country "reveal a slightly better trend," although most of the lines continued to display irregularity. The composite picture, as the summary, was "may days." Bradstreet's noted numerous gains in sections in general business, asserted the advance of the week had in general "made for a further moderate advance in trade."

"The glutted condition of the money markets is doubtless a potent influence, for the enormous supply of cash seeking an outlet is hardly fully reflects the shapes of the demand for credit.

STEEL WATCHED

The market is looking more and more to such old bulwarks as United States Steel, American Can and General Electric for leadership, and the quotations of these and other barometers are closely watched. Considerable support was evident in them for a time today, but the persistence of the selling eventually overcame the resistance. United States Steel, however, closed 1-4 bet lower after dipping from yesterday's bottom. General Electric's net loss was 1 3-8, while Can was heavier, off 3½.

The break in Radio carried the stock to 28, against the year's high of 69 3-8. Chrysler, another of the many stocks to record a new low, touched 20 1-8. Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern, all of the rails, in addition to a long list of coppers, oils and specialties reached new minimums for the year.

CHRYSLER OFF

Chrysler's net loss of 3 points, accompanied in the motor group by 1 to 2-point drops in General Motors, Nash, General Motors, Marmon and Hudson. Brockway lost 3 and Auburn Auto 8.

Net declines of 1 to 2 points in American Telephone, United States Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Union Carbide, Canadian Pacific, Anaconda, International Nickel, North American, Radio, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, United Aircraft, National Cash Register, Allied Chemical lost 2 3-4.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, lower. Sterling sagged.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Intermittent feeble rallies again failed to halt the decline on the curb market today. A handful of issues that ranged up to 12 points were registered as activity expanded to the best figures since June.

The dominant sentiment remained on the downside in an irregular session. Pressure on oil shares gradually extended to the remainder of the list after the lackluster movement in a forenoon rally gave short sellers further encouragement. Short covering in the final hour held the losses of many active issues within fractional limits, but many new lows for the year were added to those recorded in previous sessions this week.

The resumption of the selling movement after an irregular opening was at the fastest pace since spring and despite the dullness on its spasmodic attempts to force a technical recovery, the total turnover for the day reached 1,300 shares.

The petroleum group moved downward and staged only feeble recoveries from the lows. Standard Oil of Indiana lost 2 points to about the price reached in the November break and closed 1¾ lower. Cosden eased 7 points, Standard Cordon, Vacuum, Lyon and Oracle established new lows for the year. Ohio dropped 1½ and Humble more than a point.

American Superpower, Niagara Hudson, Public Utility Holding and utilities to reach new lows for the year. As a group utilities suffered less than oils and industrials. Largest losses were American Superpower, off 3; Duke down 2¾, and Electric Bond & Share, International Superpower, North American Light & Power, Standard Public Service A, United Gas & Power A, which lost 1 to 2 points.

The sharpest recessions as a whole developed among industrials and specialties. Technicolor sold off 4 to another new year's low. A. G. Smith dropped 5, Aluminum of America, Western Air Express and Goldman Sachs dipped 3 to 3 points.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Barrie, Eighth between Broadway and Hill—"The Sap From Syracuse."

California, Main near Eighth—"Un Hombre de Suerte." Reviewed in today's Times.

Boulevard, Washington at Vermont—"Let Us Be Gay." A sophisticated comedy about a wife who wins back her husband. Norma Shearer.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center—"Holiday." A fine play of quality and delight with Ann Harding at her best in defense of youth.

Chinese, 6925 Hollywood — "Hell's Angels." I took Howard Hughes four years and $4,000,000 to produce the colossus of the air; and it was worth it.

Criterion, 642 South Grand—"Madam Satan." A spectacular but noisy De Mille product. With Kay Johnson.

Egyptian, Hollywood Boulevard—"Animal Crackers." Mad nonsense by the inimitable Marx Brothers.

Fineross, Fineross at Santa Barbara—"The Sap From Syracuse." Another of Jack Oakie's delightful comedy characterizations.

Fineross, Fineross at Norton—"Oh, Sailor Behave." Rough stuff from Olsen and Johnson.

Loew's State, Broadway at Seventh—"Free Soul." Jack London's grim story of life as it is well known to him.

Majestic, 8dway, at 9th—"Moby Dick." John Barrymore is again effective as the mad captain searching for the white whale.

Million Dollar, Broadway at Third—"Anybody's Woman." A fine, thoughtful study of a woman's character. Nicely done by Ruth Chatterton.

Paramount, Hollywood at Vine—"Call of the Flesh." Ramon Novarro is say and musical and always good.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"Monte Carlo." A sprightly romantic production, with song and humor in an admirable mixture.

Rits, Wilshire at La Brea—"Grumpy." A very conversational comedy introducing Cyril Maude.

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"Outside the Law." Edward Robinson adds more laurels as a convincing gangster leader.

R.K.O., Orpheum, Broadway at Ninth—"Half Shot at Sunrise." Opens today.

Tower, 8dwy. at 8th—"Sins of the Children." A sympathetic scene of a family struggle poignantly interpreted by Louis Mann.

Uptown, Western at Tenth—"Anybody's Woman."

United Artists, Broadway near 8th—"What a Widow." A lightning farce that somehow forgets to be funny. Gloria Swanson.

Warners' Downtown, Hill at Seventh—"The Office Wife." A modern Cinderella goes on a quest for happiness. Dorothy Mackaill, Lewis Stone.

Warners' Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Dawn Patrol." Air fighting and poignant drama make this a worth while attraction.

Wilshire—"Call of the Flesh."

STAGE

Belasco, 11th at 11th—"It's a Wise Child." A splendid cast enacts this modern treatment of an old theme. Roscoe Ganodle is there and has a generous grain of salt and lots of pepper.

El Capitan, Hollywood Blvd. at Highland—"Paris Bound," with Ina Claire, Charlotte Greenwood strides onto the stage, and the play matters not at all. Destined for a long and healthy run.

Hollywood Playhouse, Vine near Hollywood Blvd.—"Let Us Be Gay." A conventional and placid drama with Aileen Pringle and Francis X. Bushman.

Hill, Hill near 11th—"Temptations of 1930." A modern revue exhibiting some fascinating songs, clever skits and colorful ensemble work.

Vine Street, 1615 N. Vine—"A Cup of Steam." The delightful comedienne, Dorothy Mackaye, returns in a farce about hands and various.

BURLESQUE

Follies, Main at Fourth—Burlesque.

BAJA CALIFORNIA EXECUTIVE HERE

Gov. Arturo Bernal

GEN. BERNAL AND STAFF VISIT CITY

Governor Discusses Vast Baja California Program During Brief Sojourn

Engulfed in work reorganizing the government of the Northern District of Lower California, Gen. Arturo Bernal of Mexicali nevertheless was unable to resist the attraction of the football game between the University of Mexico and Occidental College at the Coliseum last night.

Accompanied by his staff Gov. Bernal arrived here yesterday morning and planned to return to his duties immediately after the game. The visitors stopped at the Biltmore. The Governor was appointed the 1st inst. and took office two days later.

The executive said that he has a vast program before him and that its working out is not a matter of a few days. Included in the program are plans to speed the construction of highways between Tia Juana and Ensenada, Tia Juana and Mexicali, and Mexicali and Sonora.

Miguel Angel Menendez, chief of the department of press, tourists and industries, said that one of the chief aims of the new administration is to cement closer the relations between Mexicans and Americans.

"We must be good and sincere friends and work together," said Senor Menendez.

The party included, besides the general and Senor Menendez, Col. Ernesto Higuera, chief of staff; Lieut.-Col. Alberto Violante, assistant chief of staff; Capt. Carlos Quinones, adjutant; Capt. Jose Morales, adjutant; Louis Guzman, private secretary; M. T. Moriet, interpreter and assistant to the Governor.

The Governor, accompanied by Mexican Consul Colina, paid a courtesy call upon Mayor Porter yesterday afternoon.

WATER DIVISION MAY BE REVISED

Move to Seek Law Changes on Allocation Started

Metropolitan Directorate in Tilt Over Letter

Board to Take No Part in Power Bond Voting

Possibility of offering at the coming session of the Legislature an amendment to the law under which the Metropolitan Water District was organized, providing for a different method of allocating water from the Colorado River to member cities, was brought up at the meeting of the board of directors of the district yesterday.

Under the present law the member cities will be allocated water in accordance with assessed valuation, just as payment of costs of the district is allocated. It was said there is some feeling among some of the smaller cities that the provision in this respect ought to be more elastic. Director Hutton of Santa Monica urged that the matter be given earnest consideration by all directors, as the problem is one of serious nature If the water is allocated in accordance with assessed valuation a city with high valuation entitled to a large block of water may not have use for that amount of water. If so, Hution asked, what is to be the policy of the district as to possible disposal of its unused water by such city?

TILT OVER LETTER

The directors experienced their first tilt in meeting yesterday when a letter written by Director Fox of Glendale to Chief Engineer Weymouth was submitted to the board by the latter. In the letter Fox had requested Weymouth to furnish a list of persons employed by him in his department, what their salaries are and where such persons came from. In the vigorous discussion that ensued Fox said he made the request because he had been asked by some official at the City Hall for such information and felt that directors should be able to furnish any information to inquirers at any time. Weymouth had furnished only part of the information, he said. Several directors expressed the opinion that inquiries should be referred to the secretary.

Although the exact purpose of the inquiry was not revealed during the discussion, it was supposed that it was based upon reports that some engineers and secretaries have been brought here by Weymouth from outside the district for employment. All his engagements of help have been approved by the board.

POWER SIDESTEPPED

During the meeting it was decided that the Metropolitan board should take no part and give no expression of opinion in the matter of the impending campaign for the city of Los Angeles power bonds. The city board, however, at its meeting felt so keenly the desire of co-operation from the board that it sent a messenger to ask members to use their influence to bring about active co-operation from the board. A special meeting of the latter board to discuss the matter is to be requested. Director Richards of the Metropolitan board expressed the opinion that the Metropolitan district is not in any way interested in the Los Angeles power-bonds election.

Olga Baclanova Must Pay $353 for Damages

Olga Baclanova's dog and cat, and drinks spilled on upholstered furniture, caused damage amounting to $353 to a house leased by the actress at 5423 Hampton Court, Municipal Judge Marchant decided yesterday. The judgment was rendered in favor of Margaret E. Fitts, cousin of the District Attorney.

"The evidence clearly shows," Judge Marchant said, "that damage was caused by the dog and cat. I also find that much furniture was stained by liquor or other drinks."

Miss Fitts asked damages of $1009.

COUNTY TESTS THOUSANDS

Civil Service Board Receives 12,533 Applications for Work and Accepts 10,857 in Year

A total of 12,533 applications for work were received by the Los Angeles County Civil Service Commission during the fiscal year ending June 30, last, according to that body's seventeenth annual report filed yesterday with the Board of Supervisors. Of the number received 10,857 were accepted. The balance were rejected because the applicants did not fulfill the bulletin requirements of the commission, the report states.

The members of the commission, who are George C. Mattison of Los Angeles, president; Dr. R. Warren Mottern of Glendale; James K. Reid of Long Beach and Sam J. Chappel, secretary, are also members of the Los Angeles County Bureau of Efficiency, which body also filed its annual report.

The report of the commission declares that the unfavorable economic conditions existing throughout the country during the last year were reflected to some extent in Los Angeles, which threw additional burdens upon this branch of the county's government. The report declares:

"The unemployment situation has caused large numbers of persons to seek our offices in their efforts to obtain employment. The average number of persons calling at our counter per month was 4733. The peak was reached during March when 8256 men and women sought information concerning various positions. The total number of such callers for the entire year was 56,797.

"The commission has been extremely careful to have its examinations practical, sensible and only of sufficient length to determine the candidates' fitness for the job. All so called red-tape, where not required by law, has been eliminated.

"During the past months the commission has given much consideration to the matter of age limits in examination. It has seemed advisable to abolish practically all age limits except the general minimum of 21 years and the general maximum of 65. Examiners are now instructed to pay special attention to the age of applicants from the standpoint of physical and mental condition rather than that of mere number of years. Also, in the matter of education no hard and fast lines are being laid down. If candidates can show an experience record sufficiently satisfactory, the fact that they have not had a certain amount of academic schooling does not necessarily bar them from competition in most examinations."

During the year the examination division of the commission conducted 425 examinations involving a total of 9167 candidates; 256 open competitive and 154 promotional tests.

ENDURANCE SHIP FORCED DOWN AGAIN

Torn Fabric on Wing of Plane Causes Landing, but New Attempt Planned

Torn fabric on the under side of the right wing of the endurance monoplane, Pride of Hollywood, forced the ship down at Grand Central Air Terminal yesterday at 6:14:30—27h. 4m. and 48s. after it had taken off on a second attempt to set a new world's refueling record.

Mechanics went right to work on the torn wing—believed to have been caused by a flaw in the linen covering—with the goal of getting the plane into the air again at daybreak today.

Loren Mendell and Pete Reinhart, pilots, and Doc Howard, radio operator, were not discouraged by the circumstance that caused the second forced landing of their ship. The crew had to come down early last Monday morning after being in the air about nine hours when the craft ran out of gasoline.

Mendell and Reinhart attempted to patch the wing while in flight. They received wing "dope" and extra linen from the Buhle refueling ship, but the air pressure as the plane sped along at seventy miles an hour proved too great to permit a thorough repair job. The flyers agreed that there was danger of the entire wing covering giving way if the initial tear was allowed to remain open and they brought the cabin plane to earth.

Since they went aloft the pilots received 565 gallons of gasoline, twelve gallons of oil and their meals from the supply plane, piloted by Bud Hussey with Ralph DeRose in charge of lowering supplies and the fifty-foot gasoline hose.

Mendell and Reinhart formerly held the world's air endurance record—one they set over Culver City in the Angeleno in the summer of 1929.

Suicide Leaps to Death from Building's Top

A pedestrian at Ninth and Hill streets gave a startled cry yesterday afternoon when he glanced skyward and saw a man poised as if for a dive from the roof of the Pacific National Building.

It was 3 o'clock. Many other pedestrians were passing. The one who had cried out was in the middle of his shout when the figure on the roof launched into space, falling into an auto park adjoining the building.

The man, who was instantly killed, was identified as E. M. Toombs, 45 years of age, of 2410 South Highland avenue, an employee of a water filter company. The fact he had pawned his watch a short while before leaping to death indicated to police he was short of cash, though why he should pawn his watch if he was about to end his life lent a touch of mystery to the affair.

Detective Lieutenant Silby, who reported the case as a suicide, interviewed the man's widow, who could give no reason why he should want to die.

Sentencing of 'Girnau Delayed by Trial Plea

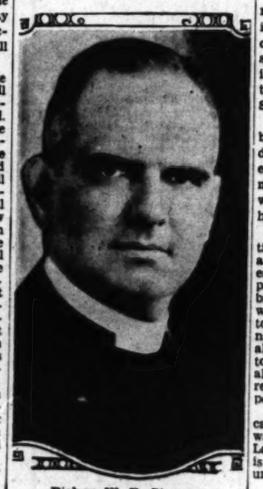
Sentence of Fred Girnau, political pamphleteer found guilty of libeling Dist.-Atty. Fitts during a recent political campaign by publishing an article to the effect that he was arrested ten years ago for drunk driving, was delayed yesterday by Municipal Judge Pope until next Friday. The delay was granted when Jacob Lieberman, defense attorney, moved for a new trial and asked time to argue the motion.

Girnau faces a sentence of one year in the County Jail or a $5000 fine.

BISHOP FINDS PEACE HOPE

Churchman W. B. Stevens, Home from Europe, Says War-Weary World Seeks Amity

Declaring the world to be weary of war and voicing the hope that common sense will prevent future strife, Bishop William B. Stevens, who returned to Los Angeles yesterday from a trip to Europe, said that, while the Old World is recuperating from the international sickness that drenched the world in blood, the aftermath of the conflict still is visible in disease, poverty and unemployment.



Bishop W. B. Stevens

"The unemployment problem is most distressing in England and it is pathetic to see strong men, many of them ex-service men, walking the streets, singing and playing musical instruments in an attempt to obtain money for bread," said Bishop Stevens.

"The English people generally blame the dole system for a great deal of England's poverty and unemployment. Since wages are low many men and women decide they would rather receive doles than do honest labor.

"Yes, the people of the world are tired of war and it begins to look as if the statesmen and the churches intend to back them up in their peace programs. I am glad the bishops at the Lambeth conference went on record as being unwilling to sponsor war on the part of any nation which is pledged to submit all disputes to arbitration. It is to be hoped that future international conferences will be controlled by religious and ethical, rather than political standards."

Bishop Stevens expressed gratification over the fact that steps toward church unity were taken at the Lambeth conference, and said there is hope that in the near future a union of all Protestant and eastern

CHAMPIONS AT TENNIS TO MARRY

Van Ryn, Holder of Davis Cup, Visits License Bureau with Marjorie Gladman

John W. Van Ryn, Jr., American Davis Cup tennis ace, and his 21-year-old tennis-champion fiancee, Marjorie (Midge) Gladman of Santa Monica, yesterday made application here for a license to wed.

MIDGE GLADMAN.

The marriage, it was reported last night from Santa Monica, is scheduled for October 22, next, in St. Augustine's - by-the-Sea, Santa Monica. Rev. Wallace Pierson will officiate.

The tennis romance had its inception a year ago and bloomed on the various courts throughout the country where the Santa Monica miss and Van Ryn competed in national-ranking tournaments.

Van Ryn, who gave his age as 25, is a former Princeton man. He has been a member of the United States team for two years. His home is in East Orange, N. J.

JOHN VAN RYN.

Miss Gladman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gladman of Mar Vista, near Santa Monica, is the women's national grass-court champion and Southern California champion. She formerly attended the University of Southern California and won the women's title of national intercollegiate champion during her co-ed days. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority at S. C.

PANTAGES WINS ANOTHER TRIAL

Appeal Court Lays Errors to Prosecution and Judge

Legal Points Brought Out in Pringle-Case Ruling

Dist.-Atty. Fitts Declines to Comment Pending Study

Alexander Pantages, millionaire theater man, convicted of a criminal attack on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, in a downtown office building, August 9, 1929, was granted a new trial in a forty-six-page opinion handed down yesterday by Division One, District Court of Appeal. The opinion is unanimous and holds that both the prosecution and the court were guilty of errors during the trial.

At the same time, the higher tribunal dismissed orders denying a motion in arrest of judgment and a motion for leave to file application for probation.

Three steps are open to Dist.-Atty. Fitts under the Appellate Court's action. He can appeal for a rehearing, decide on a new trial, or ask that the charge against Pantages be dismissed.

DECISION STUDIED

Last night he declared he could make no decision until he has made a thorough study of the Appellate Court's opinion, which had still to reach him. Pantages, interviewed at his home, was frankly jubilant, declaring he was certain of a reversal of the lower court and intimating his hope he will never be placed on trial again, and Eunice Pringle, in her Garden Grove home said, "Of course I am very much surprised, but I have nothing more to say just now."

Contention of the defense that the evidence adduced at the trial was legally insufficient to support the verdict are disposed of with the comment that these contentions could not prevail. From that point on, the opinion is concerned chiefly with asserted errors of the District Attorney, his chief deputy and the court.

Except for the asserted misconduct of the District Attorney, it is brought out in the opinion, a recommendation by the trial jury for a County Jail sentence of not more than one year was within the realm of possibility for the theater man. This sentence, as against the indeterminate sentence of not more than fifty years in San Quentin, which was meted out to Pantages, apparently hinged on Dist.-Atty. Fitts's statement in his summation to the jury that Miss Pringle was of chaste character prior to the asserted attack, although no evidence to this effect had been presented. It apparently is the Appellate Court's view that Fitts's statement magnified the crime.

SENTENCE DISCUSSED

In this connection, the court comments:

"In the prosecution of a defendant on the charge of attack, in the event of a verdict of guilty, the recommendation by the jury as to the place where the defendant shall be imprisoned is an essential, inseparable part of the verdict and as such is conclusive and binding upon the trial court as far as the pronouncement by it of the ensuing judgment is concerned."

It is pointed out in the opinion that the County Jail term could not exceed one year.

First among the errors ascribed to the prosecution by the Appellate Court is that the District Attorney and his chief deputy were guilty of prejudicial misconduct in their arguments to the jury. The State accused the defense of "bad faith" in assertedly failing to prove points which the defense said it would prove.

"It is clear," the court points out after an examination of authorities, "that proper argument should be based solely on the evidence and that if the opening statement does not constitute evidence and is not binding upon the party making it, then in the absence of bad faith his failure to 'make good' should not be argued by the opposing party as a reason for a verdict."

This point is elaborated later in the words:

"The conviction of a defendant

UNCEASING BATTLE WAGED

Pantages Attorneys Fighting for Nearly Year in Behalf of Theater Magnate

It was late on the afternoon of August 9, 1929, that Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, ran screaming from the office of Alexander Pantages in the theater at Seventh and Hill streets, which formerly bore his name, and hysterically told several men who had been attracted by her screams that she had been brutally assaulted by the millionaire theater magnate.

A traffic officer summoned from the corner arrested Pantages and he spent that night in jail, but was released the next day in $25,000 bail. His preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Wilson began four days later and lasted for three days, at the end of which he was bound over to the Superior Court for trial on two counts of assault. On August 19 he was arraigned before Superior Judge Angeler and a trial date set, but there were several postponements before his trial finally began on October 1. Meanwhile he had remained at liberty under bail.

The trial lasted for twenty-five days and was marked by many dramatic incidents, including the sessions on the witness stand of Miss Pringle and the man she accused. The jury of seven women and five men began its deliberations at 4:40 p.m. on the 25th inst. and it was not until 9:16 p.m. two days later that it agreed on the verdict of guilty on one count, the other count having been dropped before the opening of the trial.

On November 9 Pantages was sentenced to San Quentin by Superior Judge Fricke. The judge not only refused to grant a motion for a new trial, but refused Pantages the opportunity to apply for probation. The defense attorneys filed notice of intention to appeal and Judge Fricke granted a writ of probable cause, which permitted the theater man to remain in the County Jail until his appeal was disposed of.

Accompanied by numerous affidavits in which physicians of repute testified his condition was such that he would die if kept under confinement, Pantages filed a motion with Judge Fricke on December 23 asking for his release on bond. Dist.-Atty. Fitts himself got five physicians to examine Pantages and their testimony at the hearing four days later caused the judge to refuse Pantages's plea for freedom. A month later Pantages's legal staff filed another motion asking for his release on grounds of ill health and again it was denied by Judge Fricke.

This time his decision was appealed to the District Court of Appeal and a writ of habeas corpus

by Harry Carr

I AM sliding down the south coast again.

Chris at the hot-dog stand tells me that the wild ducks are thicker than sea sand at the preserves of the old hunt clubs in the Bolsa Chica and the Lomita.

Ducks have been coming into these same sloughs since the days when the sloughs were in the great eleven-league hacienda of the Murilla family. Towns have come up; oil wells have sprinkled themselves over the landscape; streams of autos whirl by, but the wild fowl come every year to the same old sloughs.

REALTORS

Real-estate signs bobbing up all the way from Laguna to San Juan Capistrano. The salesmen tell me that business is more brisk now than during the summer season. After all, this is natural. People who have lived in rented cottages during the season get a hunch to own their own.

THE IRATE BRICKLAYERS

Father O'Sullivan at the San Juan Capistrano Mission opens his hospitable doors to me. We sit all afternoon in the old gardens of the padres. Twenty-five years ago, Father O'Sullivan came, as a sick man, to camp in the ruins of the great mission. With sympathy and understanding he has rebuilt it into a superb establishment. His restorations are so skillful that even my practiced eye cannot detect the old from the new.

But in the process he got in bad for life with the bricklayers. He insisted that they place the bricks irregularly as the old Indians had done — with charming broken ristas, windows that were not on a line and doors that didn't match.

"Never will work in a goofy place like this again," said the head bricklayer indignantly. "I'll be laying bricks cockeyed for the rest of my life after this job."

DONA MAGDALENA

Dinner at Dona Magdalena's in an old adobe house. Her people once owned an enormous ranch of more than eleven leagues. It ran along the coast for miles north and south from where the oil wells of Huntington Beach now stand.

Since 1886, Dona Magdalena has taken care of the mission vestments and placed flowers every day on the altar. For many years, the old church was deserted. Tourists carried away priceless relics—books and ornaments. One day Dona Magdalena saw a party of tourists parading around in the sacred vestments they had taken from a drawer. She chased them out and appointed herself custodian of the holy garments.

TRAVELED DITTIES

One of the astonishing anomalies of literature is the tenacity of the life of legends.

Father O'Sullivan is reading a book of sixteenth-century Spanish poems—from New Mexico and Spain. Dona Magdalena has recognized most of them as little songs that were sung to her by her father on the old California rancho. In the identical verse, they had traveled from guitar to guitar from Spain—Asturias, Andalusia, Castile, at the time of the Spanish conquest. Some had made their way up through Mexico to Santa Fe and Taos; others

DOCTOR BLAMED IN GIRL'S DEATH

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Accuses Dr. Fiske

Vera Nelson Held Victim of Criminal Operation

Indictment of Physician for Murder Expected

Indictment of Dr. William C. Fiske, Hermosa Beach physician, on a murder charge was predicted last night following verdict of a Coroner's jury finding that Vera Nelson, 19-year-old Los Angeles girl, came to her death after a criminal operation at his hands.

The verdict was returned at the conclusion of an inquest over the girl's body yesterday morning at the Glade White mortuary in Hermosa Beach.

"We find that Vera Nelson met her death on September 21 after having been operated upon and we find that this was a criminal operation performed by Dr. William C. Fiske," read the verdict, in part.

MOTHER TESTIFIES

The jurors, before returning their verdict, listened to the testimony of nearly a dozen material witnesses in the case, including Mrs. N. E. Nelson, mother of the girl. They also heard Dr. Fiske called upon to testify and heard him refuse to make any statement.

Practically the same witnesses are scheduled to go before the county grand jury here next Tuesday, when the District Attorney's office will seek a murder indictment against the accused man.

The first witness called at the inquest yesterday was Mrs. Nelson. Dressed in black and speaking in low tones, she testified that her daughter had left her home at 717 South Westlake avenue the Tuesday previous to the day of her death, supposedly for treatment for a tumor. She was scheduled to return home the next day.

SON-IN-LAW ON STAND

The story was taken up here by Barney Briggs, son-in-law of Dr. Fiske, and the second witness called. Young Briggs said that last Sunday evening he went to the Fiske home in Hermosa Beach for dinner, and when the doctor did not put in an appearance, Mrs. Fiske sent him to the older man's office. Arriving there he found the door locked and he returned to the Fiske home. After dinner he returned to the office again in company with Mrs. Fiske, who had a key to the suite.

Opening the door, they saw the doctor lying on the floor with a gas tube in his hands. There was a note on the floor which said: "Morphine and gas."

Briggs said he jerked the gas tube away from the doctor, who moaned, "My God, let me die!"

SUMMONS POLICE

Mrs. Fiske was unnerved, Briggs testified, so he hurried her home and then went to the Hermosa Police Station. Returning with the officers, the young man declared, they found that Dr. Fiske had again turned on the gas and inserted the tube in his mouth and was in a semiconscious condition.

Officers Johnson, Funk and Cassell told of finding Miss Nelson's body in the back room. Cassell said he talked to Dr. Fiske in the Redondo Beach Hospital the next morning and that the doctor made a statement to him in which he declared that it was his sympathy for the girl that got him into trouble.

"He said that the girl had come to him two or three times before but that he did not commence the operation until Saturday," testified Cassell.

Dr. L. L. Lindsey, called to attend Dr. Fiske, declared that the defendant had told him that the girl was alive Saturday night.

REFUSES TO TESTIFY

Dr. Fiske was the last witness called. In custody of Deputy Sheriffs Davidson and Bell, he sat through the hearing with his head in his hands, except on brief occasions when he conversed with his attorney, Jerry Geisler of Los Angeles.

After being sworn he refused to testify.

"Do you refuse to testify on the advice of your attorney?" questioned Deputy County Coroner Kane.

"I just refuse to testify," was the answer.

"Do you refuse on the ground that it might incriminate you?"

"I won't say one way or another," declared the accused physician with some heat. "I just say I won't testify at all."

He was taken back to the County Jail pending action by the county grand jury.

HISTORY COURSE OFFERED

A history extension course on contemporary Europe is being organized by the Extension Division of the University of California, at the Hillstreet Building. The course will be in charge of Dr. William F. Adams, assistant professor of history at the University of California at Los Angeles. The class will meet Thursdays from 4 to 6 p.m.

WIDOW ENDS HER LIFE IN DEATH PACT

Youthful Mother Keeps Vow Made to Husband, Drowned Month Ago

Fulfilling what apparently had been a death pact made with her husband a short while before he was drowned last month, Mrs. Rosea Millaso, 26 years of age, fatally shot herself through the heart yesterday afternoon at the home of relatives.

The body of the woman, who was the mother of a 2-year-old son, was found by her mother, Mrs. Minnie Caldarallo, with whom she lived at 1660 East Sixty-fourth street, lying on a bed in a bedroom when the mother returned after a trip to a near-by store, according to a report made by Deputy Sheriffs Weybright and Morrell.

A note left by the woman in which she explained her act bore out the belief that she had been grieving over the death of her husband, Samuel Millaso, 26, who was drowned at White Point, near San Pedro, on August 24 when he slipped from a rock while gathering abalone, according to the officers. The note written in Italian, read in part:

"Dear Folks: I have committed this crime because we love each other very much. If I keep on living this life, I would go crazy. Before I go crazy I will kill myself. The agreement with my husband was that if either one of us would die the other one would kill itself. I do not want to go back on my word. Take good care of my baby and do not let anybody take him away."

High Way Bid Turned Down

The Board of Public Works yesterday rejected the bid of J. G. Donovan & Son for the paving of Mulholland High Way. Donovan was the only bidder when offers were received last Wednesday and his bid was reported to be 21 per cent higher than the estimate of the City Engineer. New bids will be received October 8.

The board awarded to the Southern California Roads Company the contract for paving Ninetieth street between Central avenue and Avalon Boulevard for $21,080.25.

STREET WORK ORDERED

Final ordinances were adopted by the City Council yesterday for the improvement of Rexford Drive from Pico Boulevard to Airdrome street, for the improvement of Towne avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets, for the improvement of Westwood Boulevard between Santa Monica Boulevard and Pico Boulevard and for the installation of lights in Carmelina avenue between Darlington avenue and Wilshire Boulevard.

BURRO MAKES ASS OF SELF

Kicks Polo Ball for Opponents' Goal at Uplifters' Ranch and Argument Ends in Tie

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 26.—A skinny, scraggly little burro mianamed Dynamite made a perfect ass of himself at the Uplifters' Ranch in Rustic Canyon here this afternoon—and thereby hangs a tale. Dynamite "pulled a Roy Riegels" in some chukker or other of the "donkey polo" match, which was carded as the piece de resistance of the organization's seventh annual high-and-low jinks, and because of the stupid boner the Grays had to be content with a tie, instead of winning, 2 to 0.

In order to play in this hilarious travesty on the game that has brought fame to the club one had to be a good upstanding Uplifter without benefit of experience. Accordingly, the following were chosen at random a minute before the game time: Ernie Rivers, Dr. Lou Josephs, Lou Gottschalk, Peter Gadd and Fred Beatty to ride gray burros, and "Red" Marshall, Fred Clary and Bob Richards to ride black ones.

A long harangue ensued, the "blacks" doing most of the haranguing because they were going to be outnumbered, but somebody finally popped up with a remark that the outcome wouldn't make much difference in a hundred years—so the panic got under way without further ado. Harry Watson agreed to referee after seeing to it that all pop bottles had been cleared from the field, and Dr. C. R. Luten and Henry Kern volunteered as judges, and Artur Rodzinski and Charles Wakefield Cadman as timekeepers. Cadman composed himself at once for the task.

Watson tossed the ball on the field, whereupon the game remained at a standstill for five minutes. That is to say, the eight burros struggled stubbornly to stay put instead of obeying the exhortations (and other forms of persuasion) of their riders, and galumphing into action. Eventually they converged toward the immobile ball in midfield and there went into a huddle to see what could be done about it, if anything. Then the whistle blew, ending the first chukker; and the weary players enjoyed a sorely needed rest.

In the second chukker, Dynamite developed sleeping sickness. A dozen times he stoutly refused to budge an inch, displaying his cussedness by going down on his haunches and rolling over; and a dozen times his rider, "Red" Watson, showed his mettle as a good Uplifter by picking up the critter and packing it off to the ball zone. It was, indeed, an asinine spectacle.

When the game was declared ended, the Grays claimed victory by 2 goals to none. This boast immediately was protested by the Blacks, and, probably for want of a better excuse, "Red" Marshall reminded his fellow-quibblers that Dynamite had kicked a Gray goal, shooting the ball into the other burros' net instead of his own. So the judges thought it over an hour or so and decided in favor of the protestants. Which automatically made the score 1 to 1; how come, nobody knows—nor perhaps cares; but 1-1 it stands.

Snowy Baker, the club's polo ace, and chairman of the general sports program, said it was the best match he has ever seen—the best donkey-polo match.

Before lunch today the ranch was the setting for a pajama contest, for the Eddie Nagel trophy. It was won by Sam Miles, who sported a set made of Chinese silk, with lounging robe to match. George Rice won one consolation prize for the most comical pajamas, and Carl Wreden another for the most comfortable nightshirt. The judges had to take Wreden's word for it.

Tomorrow—third day of the outing—there is to be a ball game at 10 a.m. between teams captained by Bert Lackey and Fred C. Nichols. The rules prescribe there shall be "no runs, no hits, no errors—and no umpire."

COST MAP SUBMITTED

The City Engineer yesterday submitted to the City Council the assessment district map for the improvement of Ewing street from a point near Alvarado street to Glendale Boulevard. It was referred to the Public Works Committee.

Month's Income of Mrs. Keaton in Purse Stolen

Drama again pervaded the home of Mrs. Miriam Keaton, wife of Frank D. Keaton, under sentence to hang in San Quentin penitentiary for the murder last July of Motley Flint.

The fact came out yesterday when Dr. Winfield Walker, 2019 West Boulevard, family physician of the Keatons, made a report to the Sheriff's office that last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Keaton's purse, containing between $20 and $30, was stolen from the doctor's automobile in Lennox.

The money, according to Dr. Walker, comprised Mrs. Keaton's entire monthly income, being rental from half of a double house where she lives at 5075 Pickford street.

Mrs. Keaton and her two children, Frances, 2 years of age, and Martha, 6, depend on the $30 monthly for their support, Dr. Walker said.

Keaton was taken to San Quentin last Monday from the County Jail to await hanging on November 21, next, for the fatal shooting of Flint in the courtroom of Superior Judge Collier.

Fewkes Trial Takes Recess

With Mrs. Thomas E. Merrill of 137 North Carson Road, Beverly Hills, still on the witness stand detailing her transactions with J. B. Fewkes, Los Angeles bond salesman, the trial of Fewkes on eight charges of grand theft last night was continued over until Monday by Superior Judge Fricke.

Mrs. Merrill charges that Fewkes collected $6500 from her for stock investments without delivering the securities to her.

CITY TENDERED WATER OPTION

Long Valley Rights Offered by Cattle Company

More Than 50,000 Acre Feet Available at Once

Board to Consider Matter Through Engineers

An offer from the Eaton Land and Cattle Company to sell to the city of Los Angeles 31,600-acre feet of water, to which it claims ownership in Long Valley, above Owens Valley, has been made to the Board of Water and Power Commissioners by Fred Eaton, president of the company.

The price asked is $2,300,000, and the offer is made for the period of fifteen days only, at the expiration of which time, if the city has not made a move to accept the offer, the inference is that the water will be sold elsewhere. The water is to be acquired through the purchase of 12,000 acres of land upon which, the company says, it has the right to consume the 31,600 acre feet of water. In his letter of offer Eaton said the water will be immediately available for use pending the completion of the Mono basin project, above Long Valley, and the Colorado River project.

ENGINEERS' REPORT

Eaton submitted with his offer a detailed report of his engineers, the local firm of La Rue & Jakobsen, covering the engineering features of the offer, both as to water and power. The engineers say that in comparing the Eaton offer with other phases of Owens Valley and Mono basin project, no criticism of the Mono project is implied, the statement being that the Mono project should be developed but that the Long Valley Dam should be built first, so as to give the city opportunity for longer study of the legal and engineering aspects of the Mono project.

Eaton declares that he conceived and inaugurated the Owens River water-supply project for Los Angeles and that his offer of sale for $2,300,000 represents about 15 cents on the dollar of the actual value.

IN LINE WITH WORK

The city already has an easement for the proposed Long Valley Dam and reservoir from Eaton and construction of a dam to cost $750,000 is provided for under the recent water bonds issue. Eaton says the city can obtain the fullest and most efficient development of this reservoir site only by the acquisition of all the Eaton holdings.

It is the contention of Eaton and his engineers that with the construction of a higher dam than proposed, the city can store not only the additional 31,600 acre feet of water purchased from Eaton but can capture and store an additional 50,000 acre feet of flood waters. The higher dam would cost the city $1,200,000, it was estimated, making a total cost of $3,500,000 for the additional water and the storage facilities to handle the estimated 101,600 acre feet of water. The higher dam cannot be built under the present easement.

"Compare this," the letter states, "to the total of $12,550,000 which it will cost the city to obtain the 98,000 acre feet of water from Mono Basin as proposed by the city's engineers. Also, with the Long Valley project fully developed, the city will be able to store the Mono Basin water (to be brought in later) because the Long Valley reservoir (with the higher dam) will store 340,000 acre feet while the Mono development as projected by the city's engineers only provides for some 8000 acre feet of storage."

Eaton says that if his proposition is accepted and developed the Mono Basin development can be deferred ten years if necessary with a resultant saving.

FEASIBILITY TOLD

The feasibility of the higher dam in Owens Gorge as proposed by Eaton's engineers is attested to, he says, by Willis T. Lee of the United States Geological Survey and by J. D. Freeman, F. P. Stearns, and J. D. Schuyler, members of the city's original board of engineers and dam experts. H. A. Van Norman, present chief engineer, is quoted as saying that had the Long Valley dam been in existence from 1908 to 1920 the water saved would average 50,000 acre feet per year.

The offer, which was transmitted by Eaton in duplicate to the Mayor and City Council, was referred to the board's land committee for consideration.

Continuing the policy of buying out Owens River Valley ranchers, the City Council yesterday approved action of the Board of Water and Power Commissioners in purchasing fifteen parcels of property for $308,000. One purchase, that of the Red Hill Ranch, was made from Jess Hession as trustee of the estate of Watterson Brothers, Inc. On Thursday the Council approved the purchase of 105 parcels of property for $1,771,000.

VALLEY-HARBOR LINK OPENS

Sepulveda Tunnel will be Dedicated Today with Pageant and Barbecue by Mayor and Citizens

Sepulveda Boulevard tunnel, cutting 655 feet beneath the Santa Monica Mountains and linking San Fernando Valley with the beaches and West Los Angeles, will be formally dedicated and opened to the public at 2:30 p.m. today.

Hundreds of automobiles, it is expected, will take part in a colorful parade. There will be machines from Long Beach and the harbor, Compton, Inglewood, Hawthorne and other cities benefited by the new highway, which will connect with Arizona avenue in Inglewood.

The procession will form at 2:30 o'clock at Sepulveda and Ventura boulevards and will proceed in a double line to the north entrance of the tunnel. There Mayor Porter and Supervisor Graves will officiate at ceremonies which will be featured by the cutting of a ribbon held by two girls attired in Spanish dress.

The caravan will be joined by horsemen attired in Spanish costume and the procession will then pass through the tunnel to Beverly Boulevard, where a barbecue will be held. An entertainment of music and addresses also will be given. Charles Pressly of Santa Barbara will be in charge of the barbecue.

The ground-breaking ceremony was held September 13, 1929, and the project cost $550,000, the contract going to D. J. Donovan & Son. It includes the grading of Sepulveda Boulevard from Ventura to Wilshire boulevards, as well as the completion of the bore.

The project provides a fifty-four-foot boulevard with a maximum grade of 4½ per cent and an average grade of 2½ per cent and will reduce the distance from Wilshire Boulevard to the Metropolitan Airport by six and one-half miles and the distance from San Fernando to the harbor by twelve miles. The city and county combined to make the project possible, each giving $275,000.

The boulevard will permit four streams of traffic and the tunnel will be forty-two feet wide, with a four-and-one-half-foot wall in the center to divide traffic.

Urban School for Boys, near the site of the festivities on Beverly Boulevard, will furnish buglers, a band and colorbearers, planning dedicatory exercises of the school at the same time the tunnel celebration is being conducted.

FEARS INFLUENCE OF FILM ON WIFE

William R. Fox and Daughter Virginia Lee

SUGGESTION OF PICTURE STIRS FEAR

Missing Mrs. Fox Viewed Suicide-Film Story Just Before Disappearance

Solution of the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Marguerite Fox, former secretary to a motion-picture scenario writer, who left her husband, William R. Fox, and their 16-month-old daughter, Virginia Lee, last Monday possibly may be found in the plot of a motion picture Mrs. Fox witnessed the night before she left her home, in the opinion of her husband.

The husband yesterday said that his wife had been moody and depressed for several days before her disappearance, and that on last Sunday night they attended a motion-picture performance showing a suicide.

"My wife has always taken motion pictures very seriously," Mr. Fox said, "and I noticed that after we came home from the theater she was very gloomy and depressed, and it is possible that the suggestion of the picture so worked on her mind that she determined to follow its example."

Police have been searching for the woman without results.

There remains of course the possibility that Marguerite in an unstrung condition left home with the thought of doing away with herself," Mr. Fox added, "and when she had gone a little way, changed her mind but found it hard to overcome her pride and come back.

"If that is true and she is still alive, I wish some way could be found to let her know that we want her back. I know that she loves the baby and we have always been the best of companions, but I am afraid for her."

Fox is employed as a sound technician at Metropolitan studios.

pleted a survey of Sheriff Traeger's department during the year and began several new ones. Surveys of the County Hospital, the forestry department and the Recorder's and Assessor's offices are now under way. That of the forestry department is 75 per cent completed.

The report further shows that the commission kept its expenditures well under the budget appropriations for the year, saving in all some $23,272.36. The salary appropriation was $104,180 and expenditure $84,694. The outlay appropriation was $4105 with the actual expenditure $3442.02. The maintenance and operation appropriation was $12,340, with expenditure of $10,216.62.

"A hopeful step in this direction was the interest with which the conference delegates received the proposal for union of the South India United Church, the Anglican Church and the South India province of the Wesleyan Methodist Church," he said.

Bishop Stevens was accompanied to London and other European cities by Mrs. Stevens and their four daughters, Misses Ellen, Ann, Edith and Emily Stevens, and by Rev. C. Rankin Barnes of St. James' Church, South Pasadena.

Bishop Stevens will give an account of his European trip in his sermon at St. Paul's Cathedral tomorrow morning. Rev. Harold B. Thelin will preach in the evening.

Five Arrests on Liquor Charges

Federal prohibition officers yesterday reported the arrest of five persons on charges of possession of liquor. Clarence E. Haines, giving the address of 5850 Hollywood Boulevard, and Adolph Kraft were arrested on charges of possession of liquor.

Arthur C. Butler and his wife, Maud C., and Oscar Weaver were reported to have been arrested at 149 South Almont street, Beverly Hills, on a charge of possession of liquor.

All five were released on bail pending a hearing before United States Commissioner Head.

OPERA STAR WILL REACH HERE TODAY

Hope Hampton First of Singers to Arrive for Next Week's Annual Season

Hope Hampton, singer who will take a leading role in the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association's annual season in the Shrine Auditorium, which will start Monday night, will arrive this morning on the Sunset Limited, the first of the singers to arrive here.

Miss Hampton, former screen actress, is considered one of the reigning operatic sensations of the day. She will sing "Manon" and all Hollywood is planning to be on hand to welcome the former film player.

The other stars will arrive tomorrow on a special train from San Francisco, which will also bring a chorus of eighty singers, the ballet dancers, and $150,000 worth of scenery.

Flying Husband Loses His Wife

Aviation was preferable to marriage with her, Mrs. Alice May Towman yesterday testified that her husband, Miller Bennett Towman, told her. She was granted a divorce by Superior Judge Haslett.

"My husband embarrassed me often by declaring in the presence of friends that he was tired of marriage," said Mrs. Towman. "When I would ask him to take me to some place of amusement, he would suggest that I get another man."

The Towmans married April 14, 1925, and separated in November, 1929.

DOCTOR ASSERTS WIFE HANDICAPPED CAREER

Dr. Leonard R. Chapman's wife did not co-operate with her husband in seeking patients among the indisposed of Glendora, according to his divorce petition on file against Mrs. Evelyn Chapman yesterday. On the contrary, she circulated stories that he was a dispenser of narcotic drugs, and liquor, it is asserted, and refused to give patients helpful information over the telephone.

Patient Says Wife Had Nursing Him Ill

District Attorney Closes Inquiry

With chemists reporting that no poisons were found in any medicine bottles, Charles F. Harvil, wealthy Alhambra Valley rancher, was dismissed from the case following that since his release he has received nursing and care of personal attention from Mrs. Donna Bell Hamm, whom District Attorney's office had accused of administering poison. Following the dismissal Mrs. Hamm left the county, it was reported, after viewing his attorney.

During the progress of investigation Mr. Harvil was under a writ of habeas corpus issued by Superior Judge McCormick, but after he had testified he had to go to make connection with the writ was discharged by Judge McCormick.

Immediately after the district attorney investigators found no reports of arsenic or poison were uncovered.

Reading his decision in the case, Deputy District Attorney Hamm, in charge of the department, pointed out that the inquiry closed as far as he was concerned.

FRIENDS DINE LORD DAWSON

Court Physician Meets Charles Chaplin at Dinner; Art Gallery and Studios Visited

After an active day of sightseeing, Lord Dawson of Penn and Lady Dawson and their daughter, Hon. Rosemary Dawson, were guests at dinner last night of Mrs. Deighton Simpson of 1706 West Pico street, who has been a friend for a number of years of the noted English court physician and his wife.

Among other guests at the dinner were Charles Chaplin and Count Berlanga, secretary of the Spanish Embassy at Washington. Lord Dawson is an ardent admirer, he has told his friends, of the motion-picture actor, and was anxious to meet him during the course of his short visit to this city.

Lord and Lady Dawson spent the early part of the day in a tour of the Huntington Art Gallery, where they were greatly interested by the notable canvases by Raeburn and Gainsborough which are included in the Huntington collection.

They spent the greater part of the afternoon at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where they gained their first insight into the making of talking pictures. It was the technical end of the picture industry which proved most interesting to him, the distinguished physician said, but he also watched the actual shooting of some scenes. Following his tour of the studio, Lord Dawson and his party were the guests of C. B. De Mille for tea. He is scheduled to visit Paramount Studio today.

TRIAL ENDS IN SUIT ON BOILER JOB

Judge Archbald Reserves Ruling in Case Against City of Pasadena

Superior Judge Archbald yesterday took under submission the petition for a writ of mandate asked by the Consolidated Steel Corporation to compel the city of Pasadena to execute a contract for the construction of two boilers at the city power plant. The corporation submitted a bid of $123,151 on the job and bid was accepted August 4, last, by the Pasadena Board of Directors who two weeks later reversed their action.

At the hearing the city based its defense on the contention that the bid submitted by the corporation had not conformed to the published specifications. Voluminous technical testimony was marshaled in support and against this contention, at the trial of the case, which lasted four days.

The corporation was represented by Attorneys James H. Howard and H. F. Selvin. City Attorney Huls and Deputy Holmes defended the city.

Mrs. Anderson Leaves Estate Worth $200,000

The will of Margaret J. Anderson, mother of Stanley Anderson, manager of the Beverly Hills Hotel, was filed in Probate Court yesterday, disposing of an estate estimated by attorneys at more than $200,000.

Mrs. Anderson, who died the 24th inst., left her jewelry to her granddaughter, Margaret Jane Mattinson, and the rest of her personal effects to her daughter, Mrs. Ruth A. Mattinson, 419 North Crescent Drive. To Stanley Anderson was left stock in the Fer-Tex Insulating Board Company, and what was described as the "Figueroa-street property" of the testator.

Additional property worth $125,000, was bequeathed to nine relatives and two friends. The residue of the estate is to be held in trust for Mrs. Mattinson.

Knife Episode to End in Cell

Found guilty of hitting a druggist on the head with a butcher knife, Omar R. Crawley, meat market proprietor, yesterday was sentenced to serve six months in the County Jail. A jury in Superior Judge Hahn's court yesterday found Crawley guilty of simple assault.

Louis Zauterer, pharmacist, testified that Crawley tried to compel him to fill a liquor prescription. Crawley denied it.

FRENCH FLYERS DUE TODAY

Coste and Bellonte to be Greeted at Airport, then Taken to Ambassador for Banquet

Los Angeles today will welcome two of the world's air heroes—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Lieut. Maurice Bellonte, victors oves the trans-Atlantic crossing from Paris to New York that had sent to death several of their brother airmen and forced others to turn back.

At 3 p.m. on Los Angeles Municipal Airport the French flyers are scheduled to land their continent-linking red sesquiplane, the Question Mark.

From then until 10 p.m. Los Angeles aviation chiefs, civic leaders and citizens will accord them a welcome to Southern California. The first official one will be at the port and the second at a banquet in the Ambassador at 7 p.m.

HERE UNTIL TUESDAY

In Los Angeles the French pair will remain longer than at any other stop on their good-will tour of the nation. They will stop here until next Tuesday morning when they are scheduled to take off for El Paso, Tex., with short visits en route at San Diego and Phoenix, Ariz.

It was announced last night that the pair will be guests of motion-picture studios on Monday, with a noon luncheon scheduled at Universal City and visits during the afternoon to Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

During their stay here their Avion Breguet open-cockpit ship, powered with a 650-horsepower Hispano Suiza motor, will be on display at the municipal field, Redondo Boulevard, five miles south of Inglewood.

On their flight southward from San Francisco today the Frenchmen will be escorted by a Lockheed piloted by Col. Roscoe Turner, with French Consul Henri Didot and George Noville, Arctic airman, as passengers; a United States Navy plane and a United States Department of Commerce ship. Charles Hayden, chairman of the committee sponsoring the good-will tour, and Rene Racover, interpreter and business manager of the flight, are expected in another plane.

During their local stay the flyers will be the guests of Consul Didot and will make their headquarters at the Ambassador Hotel.

At the field the visitors will make short addresses, to be broadcast over a public address system and over radio KMIC. Reservations for the banquet can be made through the Chamber of Commerce or Director Barnitz at the airport today. Free parking space will be provided at the field for the thousands of motorists expected to witness the landing, Barnitz announced.

BAY CITY WELCOMES TRANS-ATLANTIC FLYERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Dieudonne Coste and Lieut. Maurice Bellonte, trans-Atlantic flyers, landed at Mills Field, San Francisco, today at 5:20 p.m. They left Portland, Or., at 12:09 p.m. A committee of welcome composed of city officials, representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the French Consul greeted the French airmen.

The aviators will leave at noon tomorrow for Los Angeles.

INDIANS WILL PICNIC

The Wigwam Club of America, composed of American Indians, will holds its annual picnic tomorrow at Sycamore Grove Park. About two-score tribes will be represented. The program will include tribal dances and other ceremonials.

COMPLAINT SWORN OUT FOR PALMER

Realty Man Accused of Manslaughter in Death of Mother and Child

Chester R. Palmer, real estate broker of 7141 South Western avenue, yesterday was charged with two counts of manslaughter in a complaint issued by William McKay, chief of the District Attorney's complaint department, for the deaths of Margaret Whalen and her 8-year-old son Timothy, killed at Thirty-ninth and Figueroa streets Wednesday.

Mrs. Whalen, 22, lived at 231½ West Thirty-ninth street. They were struck down and thrown 163 feet as they started to cross the street.

Police accuse Palmer of being intoxicated at the time of the accident. He denies this, asserting he had nothing to drink and that the accident was unavoidable.

Municipal Judge Stafford set Palmer's preliminary hearing for October 7, and fixed bail at $5000.

Earlier yesterday a Coroner's jury at the inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Whalen and her son returned a verdict that the double tragedy was "due to the reckless driving, while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, of the driver of the automobile."

Ben Hur Groups Assemble Here for Convention

More than 200 delegates, representing forty courts of the Ben Hur Life Association, yesterday attended the opening session of the second annual session of the Ben Hur State congress at T.V.G. Hall.

Charles R. Hancock, State chief, called the convention to order and, following invocation by Nettie M. Brunner, an address of welcome was given by Mayor Porter and responded to by Ben D. Jones, State manager. Following the session a luncheon to officers and delegates was given by Los Angeles Court, No. 19. Another reception to officers was given at 8 p.m. and was followed by an entertainment and dancing.

Sessions will be resumed at 9 a.m. today and the program will include harp numbers by Lola Pettingill and readings by Eva M. Sayer. A sightseeing trip will be taken this afternoon. This evening a Melters' banquet will be given at the convention hall.

PANTAGES GET PERMITS

Ordinances granting permission to drill for oil in Venice field were voted by the City Council yesterday in favor of Lloyd and Rodney Pantages, sons of the convicted theater magnate, and Walter T. Hilborn.

FRENCH SURGICAL WORK DECLARED MIRACULOUS

French surgeons still are performing miracles in the rebuilding of faces of victims of the World War, and they also are performing wonders in the cure of cancer, according to Dr. J. David Beatty, 1001 Chapman Building, just returned from Europe. He was one of twelve American surgeons who were invited to take postgraduate work at the University of Bordeaux.

Dr. Beatty, together with his wife and son, passed the summer in the French town.

"While the Germans are ahead possibly in pathology, I believe the French are supreme in treatment," he said yesterday. "Cancer there is treated with the knife and I saw some remarkable work done. French war wounded still are being treated by the thousands and it is marvelous what has been done in rebuilding entire faces of unfortunates who had their features torn off by shell fragments.

"France is prosperous to an unheard-of degree. Everyone has money and there is no unemployment. Vienna is up and coming again and the poverty of the past few years has disappeared. I was there five years ago, and this time I did not know the city. We were in Germany following the French evacuation and were in one of the riots. We escaped unharmed, but largely through luck, as several persons were killed by the troops."

MARITAL ROW NOW INVOLVED

Ranck Awaits Assignment of Series of Suits

Cash, Property and Divorce Sought in Actions

Wife Wants to Return to Him Despite Charges

Seeking to recover approximately $140,000 in property and cash from his wife, as well as to divorce her, Howard Adams Ranck of Downey, owner of dairies and brickyards, yesterday waited in Superior Judge Bowron's master calendar court for assignment of his suits against Marjorie Eudora Ranck. The wealthy dairyman, in his complaint, names Henry Ingram as co-respondent. Mrs. Ranck, contesting her husband's suit, sets up that she still wishes to live with him, despite his charges. Attorney S. S. Hahn represents her.

MRS. MARJORIE EUDORA RANCK

Ranck attracted courtroom attention some weeks ago when he appeared in overalls, although his wife says he is worth $500,000. Yesterday he wore a natty tan suit. He has instituted four suits against his wife, which have been consolidated for trial. These actions seek to recover $100,000 in real property which he transferred to her, $15,000 worth of furniture, $25,000 in cash he asserts he gave her, and, finally a divorce decree. The Rancks married December 10, 1927, and separated July 16, 1929.

The husband owns dairies in Pennsylvania, Fresno and Downey, and brickyards at Van Nuys. He complains that his wife accompanied Ingram to hotels, that she became intoxicated, that she threatened to cut the plaintiff "into small pieces and throw them down a sewer," that she struck him and spent his money on other men. Attorney William P. Redmond appeared for Ranck.

The dairyman some time ago obtained a restraining order to prevent being cut into small pieces, asserting he feared his wife would do him bodily harm. Mrs. Ranck denies all his assertions, and says she still loves him.

PANTAGES WINS ANOTHER TRIAL

of the crime of which he is accused should rest not even slightly upon the dereliction, if any, of his counsel, but ordinarily should be grounded upon acts committed by the defendant either actually or by law imputed to him.

LIMIT DEFINED

"As ruled by the trial judge, the District Attorney and his chief deputy were within their legal rights in plainly and simply directing the attention of the jury to the fact that, although counsel for defendant had stated to the jury that he expected to prove certain specified facts on behalf of the defendant, nevertheless no evidence had been received by the court in substantiation thereof; but when, in substance, the District Attorney and his chief deputy had thus far proceeded, the limit of legitimate quasi-argument in that regard had been reached.

"To go further (and in the face of the fact that defendant had repeatedly but unsuccessfully attempted to introduce evidence relating to the situation which he had stated that he expected to develop,) and to charge the attorney or attorneys who represented the defendant with the grossest kind of 'bad faith' in the matter and thereupon, impliedly, at least, to predicate an impassioned and compelling argument, demanding the conviction of the defendant, constituted an error which was prejudicial to the substantial rights of the defendant."

"When it was considered," the opinion resumes after additional comments in this connection, "that what was said by the District Attorney was apparently with the sanction and approval of the judge of the trial court, the prejudicial effect on the substantial rights of the defendant becomes apparent."

OTHER ISSUES

Other asserted errors are subjected to as critical analysis. These include the District Attorney's personal opinions as to two defense witnesses, Mrs. Garland Biffle and Dr. Beatty. Of the former, the prosecutor said: "Mrs. Biffle was trying desperately to support her husband." Of the physician, the prosecutor said, "As long as I am District Attorney of this county, I will never put Dr. Beatty on the witness stand."

Admissibility of evidence in attack cases is discussed at length in consideration of defense contentions that the court erred in numerous particulars, such as in admitting evidence over the objections of the appellant, in instructing the jury, in restricting the cross-examination of certain State witnesses and in refusing to admit certain defense testimony.

Particular attention is given to attempts at questioning Miss Pringle by the defense. At one point in the examination of this matter, the court comments that it is easily perceivable that if previous acts of unchastity on the part of a woman over the age of 18 years tend to discredit her testimony to the effect that force was used by the defendant in the commission of the act, likewise would evidence of previous acts of unchastity by a girl under the age of 18 years tend to discredit her testimony that in accomplishing his purpose the defendant exerted force and violence."

OPINION QUOTED

In further analysis of this, the court continues:

"In the instant case, the prosecutrix having testified to the effect that the alleged crime was accomplished by the defendant by means of force and violence, this court is constrained to follow the suggestion made by the Supreme Court (in a case just cited) in substance that evidence of consent on the part of the prosecutrix was admissible 'not only for impeachment as to the manner in which the act was accomplished, but also . . . for impeachment as to whether the crime was committed at all.'

"But if with such and other evidence, which might possibly be introduced on the trial of the action, the jury should believe that preceding the alleged attack the prosecutrix was lacking in virtue, a conclusion that the testimony of the prosecutrix relating to the force and violence exerted by defendant was not to be believed and consequently either that no crime was committed by the defendant, or that if committed, the prosecutrix consented thereto, might readily result.

POSSIBLE CONCLUSION

"Assuming that the jury should so far discredit the story of the alleged attack as narrated by the prosecutrix as to produce the conviction in the 'mind' of the jury that such testimony was wholly unworthy of belief, the acquittal of defendant of the charge against him would necessarily follow."

The court observes that several of the questions asked of the physicians called as witnesses by the defendant, questions which the witnesses by order of the trial court were not permitted to answer, were proper.

The decision was written by Justice Houser. Presiding Justice Conrey and Associate Justice York concurred. The defense appeal was filed by Attorneys Le Compte Davis, Jerry Giesler, W. I. Gilbert and Earle M. Daniels.

COMMENT REFUSED BY FITTS PENDING STUDY

Dist.-Atty. Fitts refused to be interviewed yesterday concerning the Appellate Court ruling on Alexander Pantages's case. Later in the day, however, he issued a typed statement as follows:

"I have just been informed of the reversal by the Appellate Court of the judgment of the lower court in the case of Alexander Pantages. The decision of the Appellate Court is some forty-seven pages in length and as yet I have not been supplied with a written decision, and until such time as I have it in my possession, as well as the opportunity to digest it, I have no statement to make in regard to this matter."

When questioned concerning the possibility of dismissal of the Pantages case without a new trial, Dist.-Atty. Fitts reiterated his former statement, stating that he can not reach a decision in the matter until he has had an opportunity to read the transcript of the decision.

WISE DROPS SUIT FOR $250,000 DAMAGES

Dismissal of the $250,000 damage suit filed against Alexander Pantages by Frederick Wise, who was accused by Pantages in testimony of having conspired with Nicholas Dunaev and Eunice Pringle to convict him, was announced yesterday by Attorney S. S. Hahn.

The dismissal was filed in the County Clerk's office shortly after the Appellate Court announced a new trial for Pantages, convicted of an attack on Miss Pringle and sentenced to one to fifty years.

LENGTHY FIGHT FOR PANTAGES

was asked for. On March 9, that court denied the appeal and refused to issue the writ. Meanwhile, two days before, the Pantages lawyers had finally filed their appeal against the assault conviction with the District Court of Appeal, submitting an 1132-page brief asking for a reversal on twelve grounds.

FURTHER APPEAL

For a third time, on April 14, the theater man's lawyers appealed to Judge Fricke for his release on bond and two days later the judge again ruled adversely on their request. Again the matter was appealed, this time to the State Supreme Court. That tribunal heard arguments on the matter May 1, last, and finally on June 7 the Supreme Court ordered his release on $100,000 bond pending disposition of his appeal against his conviction.

The District Court of Appeal meanwhile on May 26 had heard arguments by one Pantages attorney on his appeal against his conviction. The State made no oral argument, saying that its case had been fully covered in its brief. The court subsequently took the matter under submission.

Oh, but Mandalay Coco-Hou-ee (made in old Manila,) is delicious! —and the ways in which you use it are legion. On waffles and hot cakes it is the best-ever, while as a spread for the children's bread it will prove most popular. However, the best way to do is to get a jar right away to use. You may buy it from Young's Market Co., Bullock's Candy Dept., the May Co., Grocery Dept., at Scotty Campbell's Shop in Riverside and the Model Grocery in Pasadena.

Now is the time to take lessons in candy-making from the Liberty Candy Co., who also teach you personally or by mail, chocolate dipping, cake ornamenting; how to prepare ice cream; drinks for soda fountains and glace fruits. Their address is 4th floor, Grant Bldg., 355 S. Broadway (TUcker 4156.)

When the collar and cuffs of your husband's shirts become frayed, don't throw them away! Take them to Arthur M. Werner, the Custom Shirt maker of 111 S. Spring, (MUtual 1389) who does repairing and altering of all kinds.

I wonder if you have seen those splendid double mirrors at Steinen's Cutlery Shop, 210 W. Third street? They magnify on one side and are so practical for both men and women. As a gift you'll find them most acceptable—and inexpensive.

Coffee cake—Beat up one egg in a mixing bowl, then add one-half cupful of sugar and three-fourths cupful of milk; sift together two cupfuls of pastry flour (sift before measuring;) one-half teaspoonful of salt and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and add to the first mixture; melt and add three tablespoonfuls of butter and beat all until thoroughly mixed. Pour into a pan about nine inches square; mix two tablespoonfuls of sugar with one-half teaspoonful of ground cinnamon and sprinkle the mixture over the surface of the batter; bake for twenty minutes with oven at 400 deg.

Always remember when sorting over your clothes, to be discarded, and eliminating articles about the home, that nothing is "too old or too new, too large or too small" to send to the Children's Hospital Salvage Department of 712 Maple Ave. (TUcker 1202.) They would very much appreciate a bundle from you at any time—that I know.

In creaming the butter and sugar, add a small quantity of hot milk and it will cream more readily. When creaming butter for cake, never take it directly from the ice-box; let it stand for awhile before attempting to cream it and it will then cream more quickly and easily.

A soapstone or aluminium griddle must never be greased. Instead of greasing an aluminum griddle, rub it with a tablespoonful of salt tied up in a piece of cotton cloth. Be sure griddle is hot and entirely free of grease.

Los Angeles, Cal.
Dear Sirs:

I have used Ben Hur drip coffee in my home since the first day it was introduced, also I use the "healthful coffee maker method."

The coffee made with Ben Hur drip coffee the healthful way has a lasting flavor, because the special grinding has made it more soluble and therefore, the coffee essence is maintained. Ben Hur drip coffee is healthful in that the filter paper absorbs any possible impurities which could have been in the coffee. Ben Hur drip coffee does not hinder rest, because after drinking a cup of other coffee it is very hard to go to sleep due to the impurity in the coffee, but Ben Hur drip coffee made the healthful way does not affect the nervous system so as to hinder sleep. It does not irritate the nerves but instead soothes them which is necessary for health.

Coffee made with Ben Hur drip coffee in the healthful coffee maker is clear as a crystal which adds to the refinement of a social function.

I do not feel at all afraid to let the children drink coffee for their meals, they enjoy the coffee essence and I am happy to have them drink Ben Hur drip coffee made in the healthful coffee maker, because it is absolutely pure.

From a Ben Hur drip coffee user for all time.

Very truly yours,
MRS. H. A. JENSEN.

Do you know there is nothing quite so nice to serve at your evening bridge party as a bottle or so of Coca-Cola—for it is certain to be appreciated by everyone present! Think, too, how convenient it is to prepare. Now, why don't you go into the near-by grocer or dealer and order a new home package containing 12 bottles for 50 cents. Then you will have enough on hand for any emergency.

"The only good time coming is what we are making for ourselves."

If yolks are not wanted for immediate use, dip two small squares of white paper in the white and paste one over each hole; the yolk will keep fresh several days. Another easy method of separating yolks from whites of eggs is to break them into a small funnel over a glass or cup; the whites will pass through and the yolks will remain in the funnel.

Such a deal of trouble you will always find it to phone one concern to get your laundry—and another concern to stop for your dry cleaning. Now, why not follow the old adage of "killing two birds with one stone," by giving both kinds of work to the Crown Laundry and Cleaning Co. They are certain to give satisfaction for their garments are all done beautifully!

To keep bread from sticking to the pan, first heat the pan, then grease it and sprinkle dry meal in the bottom, shaking out that which does not stick.

When making pancakes, to keep them from sticking and to avoid smoke from greasing griddle, add (last) two tablespoonfuls of melted lard, or a tablespoonful of melted butter, to the batter; it will not affect the flavor and griddle will not have to be greased.

How many of my readers know much about the serving of caviar? Do you realize that it is essential to the success of any repast? In the Old World the use of Russian caviar has been popularized to a point where its presence is the accepted criterion of the fine art of dining—and so is it being looked upon in America.

Now you may buy the best caviar right here in Los Angeles at the Gotham at 7050 Hollywood Boulevard, where the finest of food delicacies from all parts of the world are delivered to your very door! Call them up when you are going to entertain and let them supply the good things to eat for your repast. HEmpstead 8143 is their number. P. S.: When calling be sure to ask for Huntley & Palmers hors d'oeuvre biscuits to serve with the caviar as a canape.

All my readers will want to use at once the recipe I am giving them for apple fritters because it calls for Guasti Wine Jelly the addition of which makes any viand 100 per cent more delicious. So get out your scissors and clip the following or if you prefer, you may copy it:

APPLE FRITTERS

Three or four apples, two eggs, one-half cupful milk, one cupful flour, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful fat, Guasti Wine Jelly, one tablespoonful sugar.

Separate the eggs, beat the whites stiff and add last to the batter made with the yolks, milk, flour, salt and sugar and fat. Cut apples in slices two-thirds-inch thick after paring them. Dip in fritter batter and fry in fat at 375 deg. until apples are tender and fritter delicately browned. Drain and sprinkle with powdered sugar and top with Guasti Wine Jelly, any flavor.

When mixing bread, pastry, biscuits, etc., first grease the mixing bowl well; every bit of flour will be taken up and not wasted by sticking to sides of bowl.

To freshen bread, rolls, muffins, etc., dampen well the inside of a paper bag, or sprinkle the bread, etc., lightly with water, place the bread, etc., in the bag and tie the end tightly; then place it in a hot oven for a few minutes.

This is the propitious time of the year to have made the Fluff rugs you have long wanted—so get out the old carpets and put in a call for the Hoffman Rug Works, whose address is 2914 W. Jefferson St., (EMpire 2048.) and let them make some for you right away! You will be interested, too, in knowing that they make Colonial rugs from rags.

To divide a shortcake, or loaf cake, while it is hot, without making it heavy or soggy, as soon as it is taken from the oven make a slight cut with a sharp knife where the cake is to be divided, insert a strong thread, hold one end in each hand and draw it gently back and forth until the cake is separated.

Your silver-backed brush may be replated and repaired so that it will be like new, by the Peerless Platers and Jewelers of 239½ S. Spring St. (upstairs.) They do all kinds of replating of gold and silver and brass and so expertly do they do repairing that you will be unusually well pleased both with their work and modest charges. Try and go in to take your silver to them this week!

Substitute for breakfast food—Stale bread well dried and browned in the oven, and ground fine with a chopper or rolling pin is fine for breakfast, served with milk or cream. Another method: Take old bread, no matter how dry, cut in half-inch cubes, fry in butter till crisp; eat with sugar and milk, or cream.

A FOLK TALE

In Father O'Sullivan's book, "Capistrano Nights," there is a quaint Indian legend about a coyote that fooled an alligator. It was one of the folk tales of the mission.

That identical story—substituting a fox for the coyote and a snake for the alligator—is an Arab fairy tale. That story came from Africa into Spain with the Moorish conquerors; then across the seas in the galleons; fought its way into Mexico with the knights of Spain and finally found its way into the quiet California missions.

Today's Bible Text

Unto the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure, but even their mind and conscience is defiled.—Titus 1:15.

THE BIGGEST YET

They found a million-dollar still in Detroit. That must have been too big to keep still.

THERE ARE SOME LEFT

The manes of thirteen lions are being used in making up the headpiece for the coronation of the Emperor of Abyssinia. But it must be remembered that lions over there are about the same as rabbits are here.

NOT NECESSARY

The youthful head of the University of California in a recent address in this city told the students that the mind was not a pail to be filled, but a dynamo to be set at work. This was a polite way of telling the boys that they don't have to soak their heads.

HAND OF FATE

There's a book that the broadcasting preacher has been neglecting which tells about Daniel in the lions' den. That might easily have furnished the inspiration for the unfortunate lad who ventured into the arena with the wild beasts. The preacher nevertheless intimated to listening thousands that the boy was induced into the venture by the Tarzan strip of pictures.

WHAT IS HOME?

What is home? The National Realtors offered a prize for the best definition of the word. First honors were taken by Luena Williams, a Massachusetts school-teacher, who condensed it into these words: "Home is a domestic sanctuary—wrought out of desire; built into memory—where kindred bonds unite the family in sharing labor, leisure, sorrow and joy." But home can be still more briefly expressed as merely a bungalow in California. What more can the heart ask or the mind crave?

NOT DYING AT THE TOP

Some one has prepared a graph showing the death rates of college men of various classes. The noncollege man shows the highest rate of mortality. College athletes are but a shade below. Average graduates are a yet safer risk for insurance. The honor men have the lowest death rate of all. The Phi Beta Kappa must have the key to a long life.

RAH! RAH! RAH!

The football is about to eclipse the baseball. Colleges and universities opened a couple of weeks ago as if knowledge were a dead secret. There was no fanfare nor fuss.

The curriculum slipped up on the students in an elusive and seductive manner. The youngsters came in and signed on the dotted line as if walking in their sleep. A detective could have had difficulty to discover the college spirit. Digging Greek roots and setting out logarithms did not seem to elicit college yells. The professors were greeted with profound silence. The big doors of the institutions hardly squeaked as they swung wide to receive the freshmen.

But the football season opened with a zest!

Loud and raucous cheers greeted its advent. Brass bands blared the entry of the teams. The coaches initiated their annual melee with a fierce bombardment of words. Pop Warner fired the first barrage by saying some uncomplimentary things about the Jones shift. Jones wheeled into line his big Berthas and said Pop is all haywire and that Formation C will need reformation. The warriors are all pepped up by this cannonade of the coaches. The forward walls are paraded in front of the enemy and their average 200 pounds of beef is weighed in the press. The backs are bowed in scrimmage for touchdowns and glory. Einstein's theory can go hang. President and professors are in a huddle to preserve the right emphasis on scholastic ideals.

But the country is safe. Culture is assured. As long as the gridiron is hot, everything worth while in the university can be well done. College spirit is uncorked. Future attendance will not languish. Interest in higher education will continue and increase. The alumni have cause to be proud of their sheepskin—and pigskin. Classroom lessons will be easy to take given in football pills.

Whoopee! And also rah, rah, rah!

CONVICTION OF GIRNAU

The conviction on charges of criminal libel of Fred Girnau, publisher of a scurrilous pamphlet which customarily creates a pre-election stench in Los Angeles, marks something of a milestone in the downward progress of gutter-sniping. Girnau, though this is his first conviction, is an old offender. His services, either as vilifier or in support, have notoriously been for sale to the highest bidder.

His scurrility, like that of Rev. R. P. Shuler, with whom at times he has "fought" shoulder to shoulder, is based on rumor, gossip and hearsay, or misrepresentation and misinterpretation of facts, when it has any basis at all. There is enough evidence that Girnau's garbage was bought and paid for in some cases to lead to the conclusion that it was venal, or at least not actuated by good public motives, in nearly all cases.

His attack during the campaign on Dist.-Atty. Fitts followed an offer to support Fitts for $1250 a week, an offer which was indignantly refused. The attack, ostensibly based upon the story of a discharged and discredited police officer, could not have been made in good faith, as the evidence before Judge Pope and the jury which tried him plainly showed. The request for money from the Fitts campaign managers could be called, without exaggeration, a demand with a threat behind it. No threat, of course, was expressed, but Girnau's methods were sufficiently well known to the Fitts campaign managers to leave no doubt in their minds of the consequences of a refusal.

It is a tribute to the moral courage of Fitts that he refused under the circumstances, and Fitts has performed a distinct public service, beyond and above his duty, in bringing Girnau to trial and producing evidence which resulted in his exposure in his true colors. Others, before, have had ample ground for similar action, but have refrained, either for the same reason which prompts a man to leave a skunk alone, or because they did not consider Girnau of sufficient importance to justify such attention.

In this they were wrong. A scurrilous libeler, like any other racketeer, is dangerous to any community, because of the many uninformed voters who may be deceived. There are people so constituted that they believe what they see in print or hear from what purports to be a pulpit, without analysis or discrimination. It is to these that the venal pamphleteer and the muck-raking broadcaster make their appeal, in many cases successfully, and so long as they can continue with impunity they interfere with and prevent the normal action of democratic government.

Democratic government requires that the people have correct information upon which to act, and anything which misinforms or misleads them is against the public interest. To pollute public information is, in a democracy, as serious an offense as polluting a water supply, and may have even worse consequences. The fact that both Shuler and Girnau pretend to act from good motives and profess a devotion to public morality and the public welfare rather aggravates than lessens their offense.

It is too early to say that the conviction of Girnau eliminates him as a political factor, but certainly it is a long step in that direction. Like the convictions of Shuler for contempt of court, it brings to many people a realization of the essentially irresponsible nature of his utterances and lessens his capacity for harm. Mr. Fitts has set an excellent example by his action in scotching this snake, and if the example is vigorously followed up in any similar case which may arise the banishment of such methods from Southern California politics will be a matter of a comparatively short time.

HOME FURNISHING

President Hoover has just been urging easier and simpler methods in the buying of homes, that more people than do at present may be able to live beneath a roof of their own. The point is well taken. Ours is a home-loving nation. There is no more laudable ambition than to be a home owner. But owning a home doesn't mean simply buying a lot and building a house. Of equal importance is the further step of having it comfortably and appropriately furnished.

By a happy coincidence Los Angeles inaugurated a home-furnishing week at the same time that the President was focusing attention on the big part a home plays in American life. After all, an ornate structure and pleasant grounds only become human living quarters after the interior of the house has been rendered habitable. Even in sunny California home life cannot consist entirely of sitting on the lawn and admiring the beauty of the surroundings. The most intimate part of domestic life must still be lived within the four walls.

Home furnishing, therefore, comes as a proper sequel to home building. For seven instructive days the best experts and specialists in all lines connected with the converting of houses into homes have combined to expone the art and science of furnishing and decorating the interiors of dwellings for the people of Los Angeles. The finest mansion, inadequately or inartistically furnished, may be a total loss to its owner. The most inconspicuous bungalow, given the artistic touch a trained decorator can supply, may become the joy of all art lovers.

Los Angeles home owners, present or prospective, are highly favored this week in having so much talent placed at their disposal. All Los Angeles stores dealing in any and every article connected with the furnishing of the home or making domestic life comfortable to the body, convenient to the hand or attractive to the eye, have concentrated on the display and demonstration of these indispensable adjuncts to civilized life. Every housewife who takes advantage of the opportunities presented may inform herself on what is the latest taste and most approved style in modern home interiors. Those who are planning homes may at the same time instruct themselves on the things that go under the roof besides the walls that hold it up.

The President wishes to make home owning easier and simpler. Los Angeles is doing the same thing for the home furnishing.

The LEE SIDE o' LA
BY Lee Shippey

AS EVERYONE in Southern California either has written a scenario or intends to write one as soon as he gets around to it, the story of Bradley King should be interesting.

For if you're a picture fan you've seen a good many pictures by Bradley King. "Anna Christie" was one of them. "Sons of the Gods" was another. And many other notable stories are in the list.

How to Fool Editors

Once apunna time there was a little Italian girl named Josephine Avezzana in the great, wicked city of New York. One day Josephine read a story in one of the more garish magazines, and then declared, as so many of us have done, that anybody ought to be able to write a better story than that. But Josephine sat down and wrote one, as most of us don't, and sent it to that same magazine. It was rejected. She wrote several more and they were rejected. She reread them, in comparison with some of those the magazine published, and decided it must be because of her name. So she took her pen in hand and wrote her most effective line up to that time—a line changing her name to Bradley King.

With that on a story, she sent it to a magazine. Not to the same old magazine, because it was one of the same old stories. She sent it to a somewhat better magazine. Then, for the first time, she received a letter from an editor. He wrote that the story was pretty poor, but had a big idea in it, and if she would agree to his rewriting it he could give her $25 for it.

Authors, Reserve Your Rights

When the story was published she was surprised to find that it hadn't been changed very much—just smoothed up a bit, not half enough to justify the measly check she had received for it. But before she had time to get indignant about that, she received word from the editor that the picture rights of the story had been sold, and she got another check for $100. That probably wasn't more than one-fifth of what the magazine had sold the picture rights for, but Josephine didn't know that, and was very happy.

She wrote another story—and that, too, was bought for a picture. She wrote several more, and all of them were bought for pictures. And then Tom Ince sent for her. That is, he sent for Bradley King. When she arrived at the studio and he saw she was a girl, he was sadly disappointed.

Slaps in the Face

Ince just couldn't see what to do with a girl, when he wanted a man to write hard-smashing stuff. But he'd sent for her and had to do something, so he turned her over to Griffith Ray, then his crack director. Ray welcomed her as if she had smallpox. But he had to do something so he told her to go ahead and write some stuff. She wrote it and gave it to him. And then the waters came down at Ladore. Ray said it was about the punkest piece of writing he'd seen in a varied career—and "Bradley's" eyes supplied the waters.

"At that," grumbled Ray, "there's the devil of a good story in it. You've got an uncanny gift for drama. Do it over."

When it was done over "Bradley" took it to Ince. She wasn't going to let that bear, Ray, snarl at her. Next day Ince sent for her. She went expecting to be fired. Instead he told her it was so bad he'd raised her salary.

Ray kept finding fault with her—and taught her to know her faults, for she knew Ray knew his business. And her originality and real dramatic power made her his chief reliance. He couldn't get along without her and was always criticising her.

So, naturally, they got married. For isn't that the way most husbands act, anyway.

The Great Literary Secret

When Ray died last year Bradley went to pieces. She had worshiped the true artist who had found the vein of pure gold in her imagination and brought it out. But after traveling a while she came back. She was under contract to write a script and she knew Ray would want her to go through with it. She is writing steadily now and is widely known as one of the best in the game.

Which all goes to show, girls, that if you want to become successful writers of any kind you must have something to say. This town is full of people who can write well, and many of them can write beautifully. But only a few have something to say, so only a few are getting to first base.

Joshua Little Says

The first 200 miniature golf courses here made a lot of money, but now quite a number of them are operating only for the benefit of the electric light companies.

CANINE COLLEGE

Hollywood has a fashionable boarding school for dogs. We soon expect to see statistics showing how much more dogs with a degree make than their mongrel brothers and sisters without higher education.

Pups matriculate from various States in the Union and from foreign climes like Labrador and Alaska. Almost any time now we may learn of an international kennel housing foreign students on the campus. Announcements of large endowment sums left by friends and fanciers are due. Nor have we learned the exact time of commencement.

The curriculum starts with obedience. The purpose is to make dogs reliable and trustworthy for mail carriers and grocery boys. Kindliness will be inculcated throughout every semester. Gentility in the presence of cats and other dumb brutes is a required study for all entrants. Orderliness is one of the first laws of the dog college. Every student is taught to put his bones away neatly and leave his bed in order.

Yellow dogs are taken and made over into good citizens. Hobo curs like Spooks are being reformed off the funny page into the movies, where they learn to make better living for their owners than these can make for themselves.

SUCH IS LIFE
By James J. Montague

The bat flies forth at dead of night
To prey on grub and slug and mite,

Which evil creatures cannot see
Their way about as well as he.

The garter snake makes these his prey
When he is writhing 'round by day.

Should these two animals refrain
From thus their livelihood to gain,

The fluttering, buzzing insect clan
Would shortly make an end of man,

By raiding in their flights and hops
His useful necessary crops,

And nipping him by day and night
The while he waged a losing fight.

And yet man cries, "For goodness sake,
Won't some one scotch that garter snake?"

And wonders why the tabby cats
Cannot be trained to eat up bats.

Which shows that in this earthly life
Of toil and trouble, care and strife,

We don't endeavor as we go
To choose between a friend or foe,

But generally, in the end
Applaud the foe and hiss the friend.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

SOVIET WAYS
[Philadelphia Public Ledger]

Foreign concessions for the development of Russian natural resources have not worked out well in practice. The reason is, perhaps, simple. Soviet propaganda has succeeded in branding capitalism as a monster. How, then, can the soviet government, merely by signing a contract with a concessionaire, expect the minor officials, the judges and magistrates, the police and the public to deal fairly with the capitalist they have invited to take charge of a mine or other undertaking?

The most recent example of this indelible incompatibility is presented in the case of the Lena Goldfields Company. This British concern immediately found that its employees were ostracised by the public and by the lesser officialdom. Had they not allowed themselves to be made the tools of capitalism? It found that it was being robbed of gold, the total of the loot being said to amount to $5,000,000. But how could soviet judges deal harshly or even adequately with those whose only crime was to rob a capitalist? Had not the government itself robbed capitalists? The Lena company's buildings were burned. But could burning the enemy's buildings be arson? And so it went.

Provision was made in the contract for the company to hand back the mines to the soviet government. But the soviet government refused to take them. Provision was also made for arbitration of differences. But the soviet government has refused to allow its arbitrator to act. A hearing is being conducted without him in London. The Lena Goldfields may not gain a satisfactory settlement, but the testimony will be interesting as showing the conditions under which a foreigner labors when he obtains a fat concession from the soviet government.

FOR CLEAR AISLES DOWNTOWN
[Boston Transcript]

For good management of a large retail store one of the most positive rules is that the aisles must be kept clear of obstruction. A city's streets are a city's aisles, and it is equally good business that they shall be kept as clear as possible of standing obstructions. Reasonable allowance must be made for parking and its legitimate needs, but the great end of downtown traffic management is to maintain a free and prompt flow both for automobiles and pedestrians.

Mayor Curley's novel plan for the regulation of parking rests on this principle. In certain key streets, where inward movement is heavy during the morning hours, parking will be prohibited during the morning on that side of the street which is adjacent to the heavy flow. In the afternoon hours, when the tide turns, the prohibition will shift to the opposite curb, and parking will be sharply restricted on the side of the street adjacent to the outward flow. Now though the idea is, motorists know from experience that the freer a street is on the side along which their cars are moving, the faster their automobiles will proceed even though the volume of the moving traffic may be very heavy.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS DEFINED
[Kansas City Times]

"The repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," says Louis A. Cuvillier, Democratic Assemblyman of New York, "will restore the bill of rights as the civic rock of ages of the American people." Very pretty, but not at all convincing, even to the repealers. What most of them want is not the restoration of anything solid as a rock, but of something wholly liquid and soul satisfying. Bill of rights is only a nice name for booze. There lies liberty, my countrymen.

BOYHOOD OF FAMOUS AMERICANS

XVIII

DAVID SARNOFF

[This is the last of a series of eighteen articles on the boyhood of famous Americans and how they got their start in life.]

BY J. V. FITZ GERALD

(Copyright, 1930, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

New York was a wonderful city to the youngster of 9 who had come into a new and glamorous world from the little Russian town. While he couldn't speak a word of English, David Sarnoff learned rapidly in the schools of the lower East Side. He soon was able to make his way about and gaze in awe on tall buildings, the glitter and dazzle of many lights, the trolley cars, hansom cabs and the elevated railroads.

He had been transported to the land that spelled opportunity for him and he realized it. So he wasted little of his time in wondering too long about the novel sights and distractions of the great city. Instead he buckled down to his work in school, studied much at night and quickly was in the same grade with other youngsters of his age who had the advantage of being born in this country and of knowing the language.

A well-disciplined mind was of great help to the little fellow. His mother wanted him to be a rabbi and he was marked for a religious life almost from his birth in 1891 in far-off Russia. He studied the Talmud and other holy books when he was 6 years old and until the family came to this country.

Such mental training served him well when he had to study a new language, master it and gain good marks in his school work. He had been taught that knowledge demanded hard work from those who would have it. He didn't fritter away time in the schoolroom or at his home work.

His father had come to the United States ahead of his family in order to make a home for them here. When he had saved sufficient money he sent for his wife and children. David was the oldest boy. As soon as the lad was able to speak English he sold papers and acted as a delivery boy when he could get such work.

He had little or no chance to play. He didn't mind that. He had been accustomed to small leisure from his studies in Russia. Hard work was no novelty to him. At the age of 11 he borrowed $200 from a family friend and used it to buy a news stand.

He was up at 4 o'clock to handle a morning newspaper route. He worked at the stand until it was time for school. After his lessons were finished he returned to his little business and made deliveries of afternoon papers. He had a good voice and was a choir singer.

Many of his evenings were spent in vocal rehearsal. That was about the only recreation the hard-working little fellow had. It was often midnight when he reached home and went to bed, tired out, but always ready to resume the same schedule the next day.

His father died when he was 15. This meant quitting school and looking for an all-time job. He had sold newspapers so his mind settled on the newspaper business as the one to follow. He went to the old New York Herald Building seeking a job.

The Commercial Cable Company had an office in the lobby. Young David stopped to inquire to whom he should apply for a job on the Herald. The manager was on duty. Impressed by the lad's neatness, good address and earnestness, the cable man said he needed a messenger boy. The pay was $5 a week, he added.

Young Sarnoff heard the click of the operators' instruments. He could learn their business in his spare time and meanwhile make money as a messenger boy, he thought. This was just the place for him. He accepted the job on the spot. He bought a telegraph instrument with the first $2 he could save and began to study the Morse code. He was a fair operator within six months.

Before the end of a year he was a junior operator with the Marconi Company. He was only 17 when he was made wireless operator at Siasconset, Nantucket Island. His pay was $60 a month, out of which he sent his mother $40.

The company had a fine library, including many technical books, at the lonely station. It was a good place in which to study and the young operator took full advantage of the opportunity. His salary was raised before he was made manager of the company's Sea Gate station. He continued his studies, spent his spare time in the laboratories of the company and also took a course in electrical engineering at Pratt Institute.

He was on duty as the operator in the station at Wanamaker's store in New York in 1912 when the Titanic went down. He remained at his post for seventy-two hours, taking the details of the disaster over the air. He became commercial manager of the Marconi Company in 1917 and continued in that position when the concern was taken over by the Radio Corporation.

Now the boy who couldn't speak English when he reached here as an immigrant of 9 years of age, who sold newspapers and acted as a messenger boy, is the president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Queer Things in Showers

Many reliable records can be found of showers of larvae, lichens, leaves, hay, worms, toads, frogs, fish, mussels, birds, wheat, oranges, pebbles, salt and so on. In one case an alligator two feet long came down with a rain in Charleston, S. C. In general, it may be said that these objects are first carried into the sky by a tornado. They are usually carried a considerable distance, so that their source remains a complete mystery. Colored rains and snows are also fairly common. These are usually due to dust, pollen, small water life, and so on. Fish as much as ten inches long have been found far inland.

Overworked Parents

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Please start something to relieve the fathers from the strain of "home work." Junior talks continually about his school work, consisting of gardening, dental hygiene, play periods, sloyd and so forth, but when it comes to real study it seems that he is to bring the heavies home.

I never could learn square, round or cube root when I went to school myself and it is too much to ask of me now.

For crying out loud, teacher, trade off with me for a while; you take him on for geography and arithmetic and let me help him to scratch up on his "insect pests" and other nature studies.

Statistical Relief

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We are having hard times in the U.S.A. Why should we have hard times?

The United States government has a Department of Commerce in every city, besides a Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

There are hundreds of statistical organizations who can tell the condition in any or all lines of business, but no one knows the basic cause.

Admit that if all the reports from all lines of business were in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America that then these economists could analyse the conditions and determine the cause.

Is it anything else but stupidity from which we are suffering?

J. B. OKEE, JR.

And One Leads to T'other

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The letter of Mas Guthrie Tongier in your issue of September 23 is, in my estimation, the greatest argument I have ever read against the doctrines of prohibition. She states that "Prohibition is based on a fundamental principle of government that 'what is morally wrong can never be legally and politically right' and should be abolished." No prohibitionist has ever been able to prove that the temperate use of intoxicating beverages is morally wrong.

It is fundamentally wrong to prohibit the use of liquor, because the evil inheres in excess, not in the act of taking a drink. No man living can prove that prohibition is right without proving that temperance is wrong.

Prima Facie Evidence

RANCHO SANTA FE, Sept. 19. [To the Editor of The Times:] In a recent issue it was noted that a driver drove through a safety zone, collided with another auto, injuring seriously three people and ran into a telephone pole, after which he was arrested and although showing an alcoholic breath he was sent to be examined to determine whether or not he was drunk. Can any greater folly be imagined? If not drunk, such drivers are in an abnormal condition, dangerous to human life and any such irregular driving should be prima facie evidence of previous drinking, sufficient to brand them as public menaces.

Gambling Courses

The Pathfinder has received a letter from Columbia University offering a home study course in Wall street gambling. This letter holds out rosy promises of riches to be made in Wall street. It says: "The investor who bases his moves on knowledge of fundamental principles will, as usual, show a good profit and loss statement a year hence."

How familiar this line of bunk is! It is exactly the same sort of stuff that was fed to the droves of lambs who were led to the slaughter last fall. Wall street made such a grand clean-up that time that it has all its bellwethers out working overtime to round up new victims. And even the old victims will be back in Wall street again for more—as soon as they can beg or borrow enough from their more thrifty friends to try and "recoup their losses."

People with the gambling instinct never get enough punishment; they are always coming back for more, hoping to get even. Hence Wall street is perfectly safe as a gambling institution—a million times bigger than Monte Carlo. Some of the leading bankers have recently issued elaborate pleas in defense of stock gambling—they argue that it is what keeps business alive. The government could interfere with the game but it doesn't dare, as too many powerful friends would be thrown out of a job and might have to go to work like us common people.—[The Pathfinder.

WORDS AND MOUTH BREATHING

[illegible] has adenoid tissue. It [illegible] when it becomes enlarged [illegible] is dangerous to health. Enlarged adenoids often accompany [illegible] tonsils or swollen neck [illegible] The causes of these troubles [illegible] are similar, and the three [illegible] constitute the most common [illegible] of children's disorders. [illegible] the location of the adenoid [illegible] when it becomes enlarged it [illegible] cuts off the breathing through [illegible] so that the child is forced [illegible] to breathe with the mouth open, [illegible] usually sleeps in this position. [illegible] adenoid tissue is a lymphoid tissue similar to that of the [illegible] tonsil since it is situated in [illegible] the back part of the nose [illegible] so it can even from the outside. [illegible] breathing is the outstanding [illegible] sign that the adenoids have enlarged. [illegible] Part of the mouth becomes [illegible] and the base of the nose [illegible] flattened.

Enlarged adenoids thicken the [illegible] voice and give him a dull, stuffy [illegible] tone. Often the children are [illegible] troubled at night terrors, as the [illegible] condition with breathing causes [illegible] partial suffocated. They often [illegible] seem sleeping, or are restless [illegible] and breathe in loud snorts.

Enlarged tonsils are present [illegible] and will suffer from other causes [illegible] of troubles, and is especially [illegible] subject to colds and bronchitis. [illegible] Because the adenoids may become [illegible] infected and the infection [illegible] spread to the ear, causing deafness. [illegible] For years I have claimed [illegible] that adenoids enlarge mostly from [illegible] the use of carbohydrates, [illegible] and many physicians who know [illegible]

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

The Times' free cooking school conducted by Chef Wyman has been discontinued for the summer. Date for resuming has not been set but will be announced later.

LAMB STEW BERKSHIRE STYLE

Take three and a half pounds of lamb, from the shoulder, and cut it in about two-inch pieces, dust heavily with flour and brown on all sides, in shortening, or butter, being careful not to scorch. Place the meat in a Dutch oven, season with salt, paprika and one-eighth teaspoonful of ginger, two sprays of parsley, two onions chopped fine, cover tightly and let braze slowly for two hours, adding a half a cupful of water occasionally so there will be the required amount of gravy. Place the meat on a big platter, and garnish with rice balls, having added to one cupful of cold boiled rice, one well-beaten egg, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a seasoning of paprika, and a few grains of nutmeg. Make into tiny marbles and drop into boiling salted water. Cover the meat and rice with the thickened gravy.

OATMEAL COOKIES

Two-thirds cupful of butter or shortening, two-thirds cupful of brown sugar, one-half cupful of seedless raisins, one egg, one-half cupful of chopped nut meats, one cupful of rolled oats, one cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cream the butter and the sugar, add the beaten egg, and the rolled oats, sift the flour and baking powder together, and add it to the mixture, lastly, add raisins and chopped nut meats. Drop the mixture by spoonfuls onto a cookie sheet that has been oiled, spacing them far enough apart so that they will not run together.

BANANA CAKE

Two-thirds cupful of butter or shortening, two cupfuls of sugar, two eggs, two and three-fourths cupfuls of flour, four and a half level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract. Cream the butter, gradually cream into it the sugar, then add the well-beaten yolks of the two eggs. Sift the flour and baking powder together, and add it alternately to the mixture with the milk, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, add the flavoring, place in oiled and floured baking tins, and bake in a moderate oven. When cool, put together with the following filling: Take two medium-sized bananas, and press them through a sieve, add to them stirring in gradually, enough XXXX sugar to make a thick paste, spread this over the top of each layer, and on top of it place thinly sliced bananas, that have been sliced lengthwise on the top of the paste, place the layers together, and place in the refrigerator for an hour or two until the filling dries.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

DIETS TO BE EFFECTIVE MUST BE MATTER OF DAILY REPETITION

Those of us who deal with thousands of mothers notice a common failing. Mothers are timidly reluctant to admit that their children are carrying out anything less than a perfect health program.

In this day and age, most young mothers are familiar with the usual outlines for a baby's diet. They know the baby must have orange juice or tomato juice very early in his life. He must have cod liver oil in some form during the winter, and sunbaths winter and summer if possible. He must have cereal, sieved vegetables, or vegetable soups and his regular nursing or bottle feedings. This she knows well enough, but here is what will very likely happen:

Something is wrong with baby. He isn't growing and thriving. He whines in the daytime and stays awake at night. The mother cannot understand the cause. If asked, she says: "Oh, yes, baby gets cereal. Oh, yes, he has his orange juice. Yes, I give him vegetable soup. He gets a quart of milk a day."

THE REAL FACTS

Apparently all is well. But persistent questioning uncovers the secret. The baby does get cereal, but not every day. He has it when some is cooked for breakfast and as long as that lasts, but not twice every day as is necessary. He does get orange juice, but sometimes it is not as sweet as baby likes and he refuses to take it. He is always offered the orange juice, but a good deal of the time he spits it out. The vegetable soup is cooked once a week and for about two days baby gets vegetable soup. No, he doesn't like cod liver oil. She offers it to him, but it makes him vomit sometimes so she doesn't give it to him regularly, just offers it to him.

IS THIS YOUR CASE?

In how many families is this happening? Confess, mothers! What this amounts to is that about two days out of the week the baby gets all of the foods that he is supposed to have, and the rest of the time he gets principally milk, and, perhaps, a few crackers in his hand. That is really his diet. Little wonder that he doesn't grow and thrive on it, because most of the additional foods essential to his development are lacking.

If all the foods mentioned above are given regularly every day, there should be no cause for malnutrition. Fed principally in the mother's imagination, as they often are, with vegetables skipped today and cereal tomorrow and orange juice most of the time, with the memory of the skipping pressed guiltily into the background, it isn't strange that the mother wonders why her baby doesn't gain.

Though we never advise a mother to force food on a child, there are numerous tactful methods by which she may include the orange juice or cod liver oil in the diet each day. All foods are much too important to baby's welfare to be spit out at any whim of his. Our leaflet called "Introducing New Foods in Baby's Diet" ought to help to clear up this problem of feeding a reluctant baby. A self-addressed, stamped envelope inclosed with each request will bring it to any interested mother.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Safe and Out of the Way

A good way to fold back the spread at night to prevent it from wrinkling is to begin at the top of the spread, folding it half toward the foot. Then fold from each side toward the center, making a triangle with its base toward the foot of the bed. Fold the point over the footboard. This method will not only prevent wrinkles, but will keep the spread off the floor. Of course, this suggestion is only for the washable spreads, the silk ones are far better off when removed entirely from the bed and placed in a drawer overnight.

Coral Beads

Coral beads have a dull, ugly look if they are in need of cleaning. They may be cleaned by dissolving a teaspoonful of borax in a pint of warm water and dipping the coral into this solution. When clean, rinse in lukewarm water and dry on a towel.

White Radiators

Before the furnace has to be started, why not get some white paint and paint all of your dull and tarnished radiators white? Much more heat will come from them than when a metal paint is used and the white paint and dark furniture of today add to the appearance of the house.

Now, About the Screens

It might be well to put a small label on each screen before packing it away, on which is written the room and window in which it belongs. The labels can be washed off readily in the spring when the screens are cleaned and much fruitless effort wasted in fitting will be avoided.

Paper Tape

A roll of the mucilaged brown paper tape that comes for sealing bundles is excellent to have around the house for labeling jars and packages. A roll of this tape will last a long time and come in handy many times.

HOOVER PICKS MYERS FOR NEW COMMITTEE

R. Holby Myers, named in Washington dispatches Thursday as a member of President Hoover's national committee for the planning of easier home buying, is a Los Angeles business man, being secretary of the Los Angeles Mutual Building and Loan Association, 740 South Spring street. The dispatches reported him erroneously as a resident of San Francisco.

more of surgery than they do of diet have ridiculed my theory; however, I am pleased to note that no less an international authority than Sir Arbuthnot Lane, the distinguished English surgeon, points out that, "In England and America, where children are fed plenty of starches and sugars, adenoids are more prevalent than elsewhere."

The treatment for adenoids should not be delayed after having been discovered, as they not only endanger the child's health, but may lead to incurable malformations of the jaws, palate, nose and face.

In most cases, enlarged adenoids will be reduced to normal by short fruit fasts followed by a nonstarchy diet, but if the adenoid tissue has greatly enlarged it may sometimes be advisable to use surgical measures. However, before an operation, the thymus gland should always be examined under the X-ray, for if this gland is too large an anesthetic may be dangerous.

After the adenoids are corrected the child should be trained to use the nose for breathing and be given systematic breathing exercises.

Good-by, Summer, Good-by

When packing away your white summer clothes this fall, pack them in an old sheet or pillowcase that has been dipped into strong bluing. This will prevent their turning an ugly yellow during the winter months.

A Gravy Boat

Why not use the gravy boat to fill the preserve and jelly jars? It can be held by the handle, dipped into the preserving kettle and the long nose will fit nicely into any size fruit jar.

Wrinkled Patterns

If the paper pattern you are going to use is badly wrinkled by improper folding, press it out smooth with a warm iron before using. Many a garment has been ruined by using that sort of a pattern.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

COUSIN CHATTERER'S GREAT MISTAKE

Thrice armed is he who knows he's right;
And, knowing it, doth boldly fight.
—Impy the Chipmunk.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel had chuckled many times over the memory of how Impy the Black Chipmunk and Mrs. Impy had taken to their heels when he had warned them away from the nut trees. He felt quite puffed up to think he had put them to flight so easily. He had kept watch of those trees and he felt certain that not once had Impy or Mrs. Impy been back there.

"I gave them a good scare," thought Chatterer. "I don't believe they'll come back at all. If they do, I'll give them another scare. If I can keep them away for a while, they may forget all about those nuts by the time they are ripe. The fewer there are to take them, the better."

It was only a day or two later that Chatterer, going over for a look at the nut trees, spied Impy and Mrs. Impy heading in the same direction. Chatterer grinned. Then he hastily hid where he could jump out right in front of Impy and Mrs. Impy.

"I wonder if Chatterer will be over here this morning," he heard little Mrs. Impy say.

"I hope he's there right this minute," declared Impy. "I'll show him who owns those nuts. Yes, sir, I'll show him!"

Chatterer almost chuckled aloud. However, he didn't quite. He waited a moment more and then, snarling and threatening all sorts of dreadful things, he dashed out right in front of Impy and Mrs. Impy. He fully expected to see them take to their little legs as fast as they could go. He wasn't at all prepared for what did happen. There was a rush and a little black bundle of fury struck Chatterer broadside and actually knocked him right over. In a second he was on his feet again, but he wasn't chuckling. No, sir, he wasn't chuckling! There wasn't a chuckle left in him. He was simply angry through and through. He started after Impy, for it was Impy who had struck him. But he hadn't reached Impy, who was waiting for him and not running away at all, when once more he was knocked over.

"I hope he's there right this minute," declared Impy

Of course, it was little Mrs. Impy who had hit him this time. Once more Chatterer scrambled to his feet and now he was in a great rage. Yes, sir, he was in a great rage. He whirled and started for Mrs. Impy. The instant he turned he was knocked over again. This time it was Impy.

"Who owns the nuts?" snarled Impy.

"Who owns the nuts?" demanded little Mrs. Impy as she hit him in her turn.

Chatterer is no coward. He fought and he fought hard. Had he had only one to fight, he probably would have won the battle, but two proved to be one too many. It wasn't long before Chatterer actually was in flight. Yes, sir, he was in flight. He was running away. All he could think of was getting away from those Chipmunks. They were two little fighting furies. Chatterer forgot all his boasting. Just then he didn't care who had those nuts.

Impy and Mrs. Impy followed Chatterer only a short distance. Then they returned to the nut trees and boldly climbed up to the lowest branch of one of them. "I wonder what that fellow thinks about these nuts now?" said Impy.

"I don't care what he thinks about the nuts. I wonder what he thinks about us?" said Mrs. Impy.

If they could have known it, Chatterer thought plenty.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In the corridor of the Colosseum Tarzan summoned Lukedi and a chief of one of the outer villages. "Go to the Porta Praetoria," he said, and "ask Appius Apposus to pass you through the city wall as a favor to Maximus Praeclarus. Then lead the warriors of the outer villages into the city to the palace of Caesar."

Warning his followers to silence, Tarzan led them toward the barracks of the Colosseum guard where were quartered the men of Praeclarus's own cohort. Swarming close to Tarzan were the giant apes—Gayat, Zutho and Goyad—and their three fellow-apes. To the blacks these appeared to be ghosts of great warriors.

At the barracks Maximus Praeclarus addressed the legionaries whom he had until recently commanded. Mutiny had long been rife in the ranks and now they welcomed the opportunity to follow the young patrician, whom they loved, to the very gates of the palace of Caesar, even if failure meant death as rebels.

Praeclarus dispatched a detachment under an officer to take the Porta Praetoria, if Appius Apposus would not join the revolt and throw it open to the warriors of the outer villages. Then he joined Tarzan, who led his followers toward the palace in the wake of torch bearers, who went on ahead lighting the way.

WHO PULLED THAT SHADE UP? I PULLED IT DOWN BEFORE I WENT TO BED—
HOW DID THEY DO IT? THE ROOM IS EXACTLY AS I LEFT IT— NOT A THING DISTURBED— I LOCKED IN THE CLOSET BEFORE I RETIRED AND LOCKED IT— IT IS STILL LOCKED AND THE KEY IS IN THE DOOR— THE WINDOW IS DOWN A FEW INCHES FROM THE TOP— BUT IT IS LOCKED FROM THE INSIDE BY AN OLD FASHIONED IRON PEG— AND NO ONE COULD HAVE CRAWLED THROUGH IT— BESIDES THERE WERE COBWEBS ON IT— AND THEY ARE STILL THERE— THE OTHER DOOR BARRICADED— AND POSITIVELY NO OTHER ENTRANCE TO THE ROOM— SO HOW— TELL ME HOW— THEY GOT THAT GAPS?
OH! HOW

The Wimmin' Again

O'DEAR— I'M SO UPSET ABOUT THIS BIG BOND ROBBERY— I MUST TALK TO SOMEONE ABOUT IT— O'DEAR!— I DO HOPE HAROLD WON'T GET INTO ANY TROUBLE ABOUT IT!
OH! MR. JEANKS— HAVE YOU ANYTHING NEW ON THE HOLDUP! I'M WORRIED SICK!
HAROLD MAY GET INTO A JAM YET— I HEAR THE BOND PEOPLE AIN'T HALF SATISFIED WITH HIS STORY!
AW' BE YOSE! GEDUNK
O'DEAR! I KNEW IT! I WARNED HAROLD TO BE CAREFUL— I HAD A PRESENTIMENT THE ROBBERY WAS GOING TO HAPPEN— AND LAST NIGHT I DREAMT HAROLD WAS IN JAIL! (SNIFF) (SNIFF)
LISTEN, LILLUMS! DON'T CRY OVER MILK WHAT AIN'T BEEN SPILT!
THERE Y'ARE! ALWS HAPPENS WITH WIMMIN! MEANS LILLUMS MEANS SHE PRACTICLY THINKS ON HAROLD'S PRESENTIMENTS— THINGS VHICH SHELLA HAVE HIM IN JAIL!

WELL, THAT IDEA OF YOURS FOR A SUGGESTION BOX DIDN'T GO OVER VERY BIG, DID IT, MR. BOBS?
THAT'S BECAUSE NOBODY AROUND HERE HAS GOT SENSE ENOUGH TO KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT WHAT I WANTED WAS SUGGESTIONS FOR THE BUSINESS, AND ALL THEY DID WAS FILL THE BOX UP WITH A LOT OF TRASH!!
AS LONG AS THE IDEA IS SUCH A WASHOUT, WHY DON'T YOU TAKE THE BOX DOWN, MR. BOBS??
BY GOLLY, I WILL!

WELL, THAT PALLOON PALETTE CERTAINLY IS A PUZZLE. JUST BECAUSE I SOLD HIS FIRST PAINTING TO AN ADVERTISING AGENCY, HE GETS MAD AND SAYS I DEBASED HIS ART!
AND HE WAS STARVING IN A GARRET!
AND FOR REVENGE, HE PUT MY FACE ON EVERY ADVERTISEMENT HE PAINTED. IT WASN'T SO BAD UNTIL I BEGAN SEEING MY FACE ON SARDINE CANS AND PICKLE JARS!
HE'S QUITE POPULAR NOW— I UNDERSTAND THAT TWO THOUSAND WON'T BUY ONE OF HIS PAINTINGS!
AND I'M ONE OF THE TWO THOUSAND! I'M MAD CLEAR THROUGH AND I HAVE A PERFECT RIGHT— AND IF I WEREN'T A PERFECT LADY, I'D HIT HIM WITH IT!
WH-WHY IT'S MR. PALETTE!
MONSIEUR PALETTE! YOU! AND IN THE— I APPRECIATE IT AS MUCH AS THE SIDE OF THE— I'M NOT USED TO KIBITZERS YOU'RE ALARMED!

PIE DELIVERER HUNT RENEWED

Reports of Feud Between Rival Drivers Heard

Scheps Disappeared After Abandoning Truck

Detective Lays Absence to Telegram from East

Search for Louis Scheps, 28 years of age, delivery truck driver, who disappeared mysteriously the 23rd inst., was renewed by police yesterday following receipt of reports that Scheps may have been the victim of a feud between drivers of rival pie companies. Scheps, according to the report originally made to police by his wife, Anna, was last seen on the day he had just taken a position with the Sunkist Pie Company of 1947 Lovelace street. His delivery truck was found abandoned a short distance from a lunch room at 4043 East Twenty-sixth street, where he made his last delivery.

Detective Lieutenant Thompson of the Hollenbeck Heights division, who is investigating the case, admitted he has received hearsay information that Scheps had been warned to keep off the territory of rival drivers, but declared he placed no credence in the reports. He stated he has been unable to verify them.

"I don't think anything harmful has happened to Scheps," Thompson said. "We have information which shows that he left of his own volition. The day before he disappeared a telegram arrived for him at his home when he was away. It was not left until personally delivered to him, and we have learned that it was sent by persons in the East. We have reason to believe he left on that account."

Scheps lived at 816½ Forrest avenue.

Chest Poster Contest to be Run in Schools

At a meeting of the art division of the Los Angeles public school system yesterday it was decided to sponsor a Community Chest poster contest among the children in public schools. A similar contest last year brought many unique posters, hundreds of youngsters, with artistic ambitions, submitting original designs. No rules will cover color schemes or slogans, thus allowing each child to accent his originality.

ROBERT M. KETCHUM

Robert M. Ketchum, manager of purchases for the General Petroleum Corporation, will head Central Division Committee No. 26 in the campaign, according to J. A. H. Kerr, Chest campaign chairman. This is Ketchum's first year as central division vice-chairman.

A number of prominent business men are associated with Ketchum and will aid him in solicitation work. They are J. F. Gilmore, A. G. Brown, J. D. Rush, Clyde Elwood, Gustave Meerjef, F. P. Weaver, Russell W. Schultze, T. J. Hickey, John W. Schmid, O. W. Schweinhard and Harry C. Morehouse.

Amos 'n' Andy Start for East

Amos 'n' Andy are going back to headquarters in New York City. The blackface broadcasters, featured by the National Broadcasting Company, left last night on the Gold Coast Limited of the Union Pacific System en route to Chicago and then on to New York. The comedians, Freeman F. Gosden and Charles Correll, are accompanied by their wives.

During their stay of more than two months in Hollywood, they completed "Check and Double Check" at the R.-K.-O. studios. Pedro Bermah, assistant to the vice-president of R.-K.-O., took the films of the new picture with the party for the New York City première.

DE MILLE PLANS "SQUAW MAN"

Pauline Frederick Slated to Play in "Ladies' Man;" Lynn Starling Signs Long-Term Contract With Fox; Universal May Film "Carmen" as Talker

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

"The Squaw Man," which is to be Cecil B. De Mille's next Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer directorial effort, is to be the finest presentation of this play ever accomplished either on stage or screen, we learn. M.-G.-M. and De Mille are to spare no pains or expense to this end.

RALPH FORBES

"Due to the natural limitations of the stage and of the silent screen," De Mille said, "many features of the story which could not be developed in either medium are possible to the talking picture.

"The story will be done in an up-to-date fashion. That is, the Indian will be a latter-day Indian. For instance, he will use an automobile as well as a horse for transportation. His occupations and his interests will all be modern."

So far no players have been chosen for the story, but it is known that both Reginald Denny and Ralph Forbes are strong contenders for the lead, which must, De Mille says, be played by an Englishman.

PAULINE FREDERICK MAY PLAY FOR LASKY

If Pauline Frederick's professional engagements will allow, she is to appear for Paramount in Paul Lukas's first starring vehicle for that organization, "Ladies' Man." Her role will be one of the two important feminine characterizations.

PAULINE FREDERICK

Miss Frederick is to appear at the Belasco next week in her new play, "The Crimson Hour," and it is understood that she is under strict stage contract. As "Ladies' Man" is to be produced in New York, it may be found impossible to secure her services for the picture.

In the meantime that brilliant actor, Paul Lukas, is getting ready for his trip east. He is looking forward with a great deal of interest to the visit, inasmuch as he has spent very little time in the metropolis and has never been there since his rise to cinema fame in this country.

Playwright Signs

Lynn Starling, well-known playwright and author of "Weak Sisters," "A Cup of Sugar," and other plays, has just been signed by Fox on a long-term contract.

The playwright is now engaged in writing a snappy little screen play for Pth Dorsay.

Writing Heads Assigned

In order to more closely knit the activities of the story departments of Paramount's east and west coast studios, Edward Montagne and Julian Johnson have been appointed associate editors at the Hollywood studios of the company, it was announced yesterday by B. P. Schulberg. Montagne and Johnson will be responsible for story and film editing in Hollywood and will work in close co-operation with Maud Miller, editor of the home office story department, and with D. A. Doran, Jr., and Rosalie Stewart, associate editors in the New York studios.

Julian Johnson

Schulberg also announced that E. Lloyd Sheldon, associate producer, will leave Hollywood within a few weeks for the New York studios, to work on a new picture, following which he will return to the west coast.

Ernst Lubitsch, recently named as supervising director of the eastern studios, will start production there on a new type of dramatic story in about two months.

Universal and "Carmen"

Although Universal heads disclaim all knowledge of any plans on the part of that organization to film "Carmen," persistent rumor from an excellent source has it that the concern is even now preparing for the production.

Rumor has it further that Ottavio Scotto, former impresario of the Costanzi in Rome, is to direct the production.

Dorothy Lee Ill

That pestiferous ailment, influenza, seems to love a shining mark, and now it is Dorothy Lee who has been attacked.

The little R.-K.-O. ingenue went home ill yesterday, and is under the doctor's care, although her attack is said to be a fairly light one. She is playing the lead in the Woolsey-Wheeler picture, "Hook, Line, and Sinker."

Von Seyffertitz Chosen

And while we're on the subject of the Woolsey-Wheeler picture, it is with pleasure we inform you that Gustav Von Seyffertitz, who gave a memorable performance in "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," has been signed for one of the important roles in "Hook, Line and Sinker."

John Wayne Traveling

It is a good thing that John Wayne is a husky young man, for he isn't to be allowed to take a vacation following his hard work in "The Big Trail."

JOHN WAYNE

On the other hand, Wayne is to take a personal - appearance tour in connection with that picture through the largest cities of the East, including New York, Boston and Chicago. He will leave Hollywood October 6, next, and will be in New York for the opening of Raoul Walsh's latest directorial effort on October 15.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

THE first play at the Mason Theater under the R.-K.-O. banner will be "Women Who Take," by Jane Murfin. The premiere is scheduled for October 27, and it is very possible that a well-known motion-picture star will be in the cast.

This interesting piece of information was told me yesterday by William Le Baron, vice-president of the R.-K.-O. Radio Pictures Corporation and whose pet project this Mason Theater adventure is. Furthermore, explained Mr. Le Baron, a company has been organized, entirely independent of the studio, to produce and cast plays at the Mason. The company, for lack of a more original name, will be known as Metropolitan Productions. And, in the future, although the R.-K.-O. interests will be the interests of the new company, the studio will be divorced from active participation in the theater's affairs.

A new play by Martha Stanley, "Go Get Your Man," has also been purchased for Mason production and may follow "Women Who Take." Or it may come along as a third production.

Ten plays are on the schedule for the year.

"Bird of Flame" at Belasco

And Dorothy Burgess is going to appear in "Bird of the Flame" for Messrs. Edward Belasco and Homer Curran at the Belasco Theater, following "Young Sinners." Announcement of this title, made yesterday by Mr. Belasco, should end all the speculation as to just what it was Miss Burgess was doing for that producing firm. "Bird of the Flame" has a South Sea locale. It is by John B. Hymer, and is pretty well modernized. A. H. Van Buren is directing the production, which is, at this moment, almost entirely cast.

Incidentally, "Young Sinners" opens in Santa Barbara tonight and proceeds from there to San Francisco. "The Crimson Hour," Pauline Frederick's vehicle, has been doing grand business in the north, according to reports, and Mr. Belasco figures it will hit this town just as hard.

A Little Bit of Superstition

The play, "Death Takes a Holiday," which come to the Biltmore Theater a week from last night, has thirteen cast members. And—it is going to open on a Friday.

Of course, he had nothing to do with the number of people in the cast, but Arthur Collins, the producer, so the story goes, picked the Friday opening on purpose. He is that way about Fridays, and the number thirteen.

It seems that he has always had good luck with Friday premieres. And, while he had to open "Fata Morgana" on a Monday, he had thirteen people in that cast, which he figures helped. "Fata Morgana" was a success, as theatergoers will recall.

Collins has been widely ballyhooed in Los Angeles as an Englishman. He came here from London. Well, it now appears, his father was born in Ireland, and Arthur himself has blue eyes and black hair. Figure it out to suit yourself.

At the Play Shop

One of the interesting little theater productions of the week is "Walks of the Dogs," at Ralph Herman's Play Shop, 1141 North Gower street. Sheldon Lewis, the man who played Cyrano de Bergerac at Pasadena—is starring. Carmen Mathews is seen in the role of Elizabeth, and Adele St. Maur in that of Jennie. Nathaniel Frank directed. The play is scheduled to run two weeks.

Napoleon, Film Star

From New York drifts a story that Elmer Harris—"Great Necker," "Young Sinners" author—is adapting Walter Hasenclever's play, "Napoleon," from the original German and that the Shuberts propose to give it a production in the near future. The drama concerns a waxfigure of Bonaparte that comes to life and is immediately made a film star.

Theatergoers Puzzled Over Unusual Name

The unusual name of Mia Marvin has been a puzzle to theatergoers since the blond actress has been appearing behind the local footlights, it is said. She is now playing with Charlotte Greenwood as one of the worried wives in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" at El Capitan Theater.

Those familiar with Spanish know that "mia" means "mine." It is in just that connection that Miss Marvin was christened by request of her mother. Miss Marvin's middle name is Kewen, after her grandfather, Col. P. W. Kewen, who was first Attorney-General of California. Only recently Miss Marvin acquired another name when she became the wife of Maurice Luxford, Los Angeles broker.

Others who comprise Charlotte Greenwood's supporting cast in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" are Johnny Arthur, Sally Starr, John Litel, Grace Stafford and Eric Kalkhurst.

Sennett Farce Now Showing at Fox Boulevard

The fact that producers are giving more thought and time into the making of short subjects, is said to be evidenced in the presentation of Bennett's comedy, "Grandma's Girl," starring Andy Clyde, Babe Kane and Nick Stuart, showing at the Boulevard Theater in conjunction with "Let Us Be Gay," starring Norma Shearer.

Producers, it is said, are awakening to the fact, that short subjects play a vital part in obtaining the correct psychological reaction to prepare the audience for the feature picture. Exhibitors, also, are giving more thought to balancing the program preceding the feature.

Hilarity Promised in Film Farce

Roberta Robinson

A comparative newcomer to the screen, plays an important supporting role in "Half Shot at Sunrise," which starts today at the Orpheum Theater. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey are costarred.

CONTRASTING TYPES CHOSEN

Cecil B. De Mille selected two strongly contrasting types of femininity for the wife and the "other woman" in "Madam Satan," which is now showing at the Criterion Theater. For these roles he chose Kay Johnson and Lillian Roth, one blond and the other brunette.

"I wanted two different types and believe that no greater contrast could be had than Miss Johnson and Miss Roth," De Mille said. "Both have the ability to portray what was asked of them."

In the male leads are Reginald Denny as the philandering husband and Roland Young as the prevaricating friend. De Mille also personally picked these players.

The Zeppelin sequence was suggested by the break-up of the Shenandoah in 1925, the producer says. "Madam Satan" is catching the public fancy in its local run, according to the management of the Criterion. Its appeal is marked, it is said, attracting all types of persons to the theater. The cast of the new picture runs mostly to the fair sex, with Doris McMahon, Mary McAllister, Ilka Chase, Jillanne Johnston and Martha Sleeper portraying supporting roles.

Nina Tonelli Pleases with Latin Songs

Nina Tonelli, Latin soprano, won many admirers during her concert at the Hollywood Knickerbocker Hotel through personal charm and a voice of unusual promise. Sharing honors with her was Feodor Kolin, who presented several of his own compositions and accompanied at the piano.

Miss Tonelli's beauty and poise will undoubtedly help her advance far in spite of obvious flaws in her singing. Her voice has a splendid tonal quality but it lacks equality of range. Only her head tones gave a pleasing impression. In Miss Tonelli's middle and lower registers the tone was unmistakably nasal, which tended toward monotony and which was often hollow and dull.

In her choice of songs the soprano favored the Latin composers. Pergolesi's "Nina" and Leoncavallo's "Mattinata" opened the program. Verdi's "Ah! Fors 'e Lui" from "La Traviata" and Puccini's "Vissi D'Arie" from "La Tosca" gave her an opportunity to display her lovely head tones to advantage and were interpreted with an abandon that revealed an operatic inclination. The singer's "Depuis le Jour" from "Louise," by Charpentier, was exquisitely unfolded. The popular "Granadinos," by Calleja; "Les Filles De Cadix," by Delibes; an old English folksong, "When Love Is Kind;" "The Answer," by Terry, and the serenade from Feodor Kolin's Spanish operetta constituted her program.

Feodor Kolin scored more for his talent as a composer than as a pianist. The three numbers from his Spanish operetta, "Tango," "Minuet," and the "Serenade" sung by Miss Tonelli especially caught the fancy of the audience for their fascinating rhythms and charming melody. He succeeded in catching the Latin spirit in these numbers.

Veteran Appears Daily on Stage

Joseph Haselton, veteran actor, and said to be the only living eyewitness to the assassination of President Lincoln, will appear twice daily at the President Theater for the balance of the engagement of "The Birth of a Nation," which closes Tuesday night.

Haselton's vivid description of the dramatic incident which robbed this country of its beloved President, and his anecdotes of life in Washington during Civil War days have been enthusiastically received.

New Program at Million Dollar

Five new acts are included on the vaudeville bill at the Million Dollar Theater. Walter Richardson, singer, is the feature of the program.

Other important presentations Santo, Spanish clown; Niles Marsh, female impersonator, and a revue.

TUNE LEADS TO NOTE

A tune to which he refused to sign his name when it was published because he thought it was "just another song" proved the stepping-stone to fame for Ted Weems and his orchestra, who come to the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel Thursday, October 9, coincident with the reopening of the supper room following its complete redecoration. The song, of which Weems is a coauthor, was "Piccolo Pete."

NOTED STAR DUE MONDAY AT BELASCO

Pauline Frederick will Enact Gripping Role in "Crimson Hour"

Coming to Los Angeles with a vehicle which has been acclaimed one of the greatest successes of her career, Pauline Frederick will begin a limited engagement at the Belasco Theater in "The Crimson Hour," with Huntly Gordon and a large cast, Monday night.

The last appearance the popular star made locally was in a light, frothy comedy. This time, reports say, she plays in a stark and gripping melodrama. The piece, from the pens of Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer, gives Miss Frederick a unique role.

The actress is concluding her San Francisco engagement at the Curran Theater.

"Little Orchid Annie" Coming to Playhouse

Following the engagement of "Little Orchid Annie" in San Francisco, which starts tomorrow night, the play will be brought to the Hollywood Playhouse here, it has been announced.

BETTY BRONSON

Betty Bronson, popular in Hollywood film circles, plays the name role in the stage production. Ruth Taylor portrayed the part in the original cast.

Five members of the cast which appeared here at the Mayan Theater will again play roles. They are Mabel Forrest, Julia Blane, George Harris, Camille Rovelle and Frederic Sullivan.

Other players who will help enact the comedy are Earl McCarthy, Albertine Pickens, Arnold Walsh, Virginia Thorton, Isabel Keefe and Ray Largy. Hadley Waters and Charles Beahan wrote the piece.

Fox Company Signs Writers for New Films

Belief in the future of musical comedies on the screen, when produced by men who have made successes of that type of picture, is shown in the new contracts awarded to De Sylva, Brown and Henderson, trio of writers and composers, by the Fox Film Corporation.

The trio will make three musicals over a period of three years. Their first, "Sunnyside Up," was adjudged the largest money-maker of 1929 for the Fox company, and they predict an equal distinction for "Just Imagine" during the current year. The latter has its world premiere at the Carthay Circle Theater Friday, October 10.

The millionaire song writers and authors hold a unique position at Fox. They are allowed to write their own stories, songs, select their own director and cast, and supervise production.

"Holiday," and Abe Lyman's current orchestral production have their last showings at the Carthay Circle October 9.

FILM CAST TO APPEAR AT CHINESE

"Big Trail" Players and Other Notables Signify Premiere Attendance

The world premiere of Raoul Walsh's "The Big Trail" at Grauman's Chinese Theater Thursday evening, will probably mark the first time, it is said, that every member of so large a cast has been positively scheduled to appear at an opening. John Wayne, Marguerite Churchill, El Brendel, Tully Marshall, Tyrone Power and many others, as well as the director, Raoul Walsh, will be present, the theater reports.

In addition to the cast, stars and executive represented in Xavier Cugat's "Curtain of Stars," with the exception of a few who are in Europe or the East, will be at the Chinese to view for the first time this curtain novelty.

The world premiere of "The Big Trail" is considered one of the important events of the current film-theater year, since Walsh's production is said to be an authentic picture based on the history of the early West. It is said to graphically depict the hardships of men, women and children in overcoming storms, tornadoes, fever and famine for the accomplishment of a great purpose, the foundation of a new country.

FILM COMIC TO PLAY AT PARAMOUNT

Walter Hiers Signed for Appearance on Stage in Humorous Skit

Walter Hiers, popular stage and screen comedian, was signed yesterday to appear in the stage show, "Revue Moderne," at the Paramount Theater starting Thursday.

Hiers, who is remembered for his work in pictures, has been devoting his talent to the stage the past few months, his appearances taking him to the principal cities of the country. The player enacts a skit entitled "In the Flesh."

The Paramount Theater will present some novel ideas at the midnight show tonight. "Monte Carlo" is the current screen attraction.

Comedienne of Spanish Stage Has Film Role

Former admirers of Rosario Pino now residing among the local Spanish-speaking colony will be glad to know that the old-time star comedienne of Spain has again come to the front, this time as the star of "Un Hombre de Suerte," a Paramount Spanish talkie, which opened yesterday at the California International Theater.

Although marking her initial appearance in motion pictures, she reveals the exceedingly uproarious pantomime which she has exhibited during her years of experience on the speaking stage. The appreciative gathering which witnessed the presentation, in the afternoon, was constantly kept on the verge of hysterics due to her very amusing comedy antics.

Miss Pino is supported by a very capable cast of players, all former actors and actresses of the Madrid theaters. Particularly amusing is the comedy contributed by Roberto Rey as the male lead of the picture.

The direction by Benito Perojo is deficient but is offset by the clever dialogue of that witty satirist, Pedro Muñoz Seca. A musical short, a cartoon and news reel complete the attractive program.

Notable Cast Supports Star in Air Picture

Richard Barthelmess, star of "The Dawn Patrol," which is showing at Warner Brothers Hollywood Theater for a week, is supported by a strong cast, three of whom are prominent leading men.

The role of Scott is played by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who has been co-featured in many First National - Vitaphone productions. Neil Hamilton plays Maj. Brand and is remembered as the leading man of numerous Paramount and D. W. Griffith pictures. The third of this triumvirate is Gardner James.

Other important parts in "The Dawn Patrol" are handled by Edmund Breon and William Janney, while the comedy is in the hands of Clyde Cook, James Finlayson and Frank McHugh, stage comedian. Howard Hawks directed.

'Raffles' Next on Screen at Fox Wilshire

Ending its run at the new Fox Wilshire Theater tonight, Ramon Novarro in "Call of the Flesh" gives way to the modernized version of "Raffles," starring Ronald Colman, which starts tomorrow.

The new picture was adapted to the screen from the E. W. Hornung stories by Sidney Howard and includes in the cast Kay Francis, Bramwell Fletcher, Frances Dade, David Torrence, Allison Skipworth, Frederick Kerr, John Rogers and Wilson Benge.

In "Raffles" Colman plays the role of a polished English gentleman, who finds the lure of criminal adventure more than he can resist.

TECHNICANS IMPORTANT

While there were but five featured players, Louis Wolheim, Mary Astor, Hugh Herbert, Alan Roscoe and Ian Keith, in "Sheep's Clothing," Radio Pictures' nautical melodrama, nearly 300 cameramen, electricians, "grips," property men, painters and carpenters were required because of the difficulties encountered on the high seas.

FLEET FINISHES PRACTICE FIRING

All Nine Units Back in Port After Annual Event

High Scores Reported Made in Short-Range Tests

Squadron to Stay Anchored for Next Fortnight

All nine units of the battleship divisions were back in port last night after having completed their annual short-range battle practice on the Santa Rosa and Los Coronados drill grounds. Scores reported unofficially indicated general excellence by main batteries in the exercises.

The squadron will remain at anchor at Los Angeles Harbor for the next fortnight for machinery overhaul, supply and athletic competitions, putting to sea again on October 13 to prepare for night battle practice, to be fired October 29 to 31.

On return from the drill grounds the battleship Oklahoma berthed alongside the fleet repair ship Medusa, to undergo the two weeks' interim overhaul necessitated by the Navy Department's new overhaul program.

Having fired long-range battle practice this week, the aircraft carrier Saratoga is scheduled to sail for the Puget Sound Navy Yard Tuesday for her annual overhaul. The battleship West Virginia completes her overhaul period at Puget Sound on October 1 and will sail that date for Los Angeles Harbor, rejoining the fleet here on October 6. The battleship New Mexico, also nearing completion of overhaul at Puget Sound, will sail for the home base October 20, arriving here October 25.

TANKER ON WAY HERE CRIPPLED

Help Rushed to Standard Oil Vessel Which Loses Propeller in Open Sea

Unable to move because of the loss of her propeller, the Standard Oil tanker Sylvan Arrow was lying helpless in the open sea about 150 miles northwest of Los Angeles Harbor last night, according to a radio message from her captain received by her operators, the General Petroleum Corporation. The tanker was in no immediate danger, however, the message said, as the weather was fair with no indications of change.

Immediately after receiving the message, the General Petroleum Corporation ordered the tanker Empire Arrow, sister ship of the disabled vessel, which was about 100 miles away, to proceed to the aid of the Sylvan Arrow. The Empire Arrow is expected to reach the Sylvan Arrow at daybreak today, and will endeavor to put a towline aboard and tow the propellerless ship into Los Angeles Harbor. The Coast Guard cutter Algonquin, under command of Commander Muller S. Hay, also set out last night to render help if it is needed. The cutter is expected to reach the Sylvan Arrow at about 11 a.m. today.

The Sylvan Arrow, which is 5000 net tons and has a crew of forty, was on her way back to Los Angeles Harbor in ballast from Takubar, Japan, and lost her propeller at 7 p.m. last night, according to the message. The Empire Arrow also is returning in ballast from the Orient.

OCCIDENTAL EQUIPPED BY ENDOWMENT

More than $100,000 Given College for New Pool and Other Improvements

Occidental College has expended $103,560 on campus improvements now being completed, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Remsen D. Bird, president. The new $60,000 swimming pool project will be ready for use about October 20, next, when dedication ceremonies are to be held. The plunge will allow nine lanes for aquatic races. The entire project is to be known as the Earle S. Field Memorial, while the plunge is Taylor Pool.

Repairs on Johnson and Fowler halls have been finished. Construction of the Pardee ornamental gates will be completed soon. New tennis courts are the gift of Alphonzo E. Bell, alumnus and trustee, and an unnamed donor. Grading, sprinkling systems and turfing of the athletic fields and the music building area also were sponsored by Trustee Bell. The parking lot has been surfaced. Additional laboratory equipment has been constructed.

Effigy Burning Cited by Wife

The ancient custom of expressing enmity by burning one's antagonist in effigy was revived by Clifford J. Bellmore of South Gate recently, according to Mrs. Eva Bellmore, beauty parlor proprietor, who obtained a divorce yesterday in Superior Judge Crawford's court.

Mrs. Bellmore testified that her husband stuffed one of her dresses with other articles of her clothing, propped it against the incinerator and set it afire.

The defendant also interfered with Mrs. Bellmore's work at her beauty parlor, it was testified, at one time swabbing a handful of shampoo suds into a customer's face.

FLYERS SPONSOR DANCE

Police Don't Take Well to New Badges

Despite the fact that the new police badges need no polish because they are gold-plated, no enthusiasm was expressed for them yesterday by officers who inspected the shipment, which is scheduled for distribution so all members of the force will have them October 1, when the new badge ordinance goes into effect.

The badges now in use are favored by officers on the ground that they are of handsome design and look as though they are worth the $4.50 they cost from the manufacturer. A number of persons who have seen the new type say they don't look as though they are worth the 32.9 cents they cost under the contract.

The new badges, designed by Commissioner Drake, are much thinner than the old ones, and the lettering is shallow.

One officer remarked that while the old badges are of a size and thickness enough to turn a bullet aimed for the heart, the new ones will make an excellent mark but will give no protection. There is an impression in police circles that the whole batch may be shipped back as unsuitable.

The new special-officer badges, used principally by private patrolmen and watchmen, are of a nickel color and cost 17 cents each.

TEACHERS ENTERTAINED

EXETER, Sept. 28.—More than 200 faculty members of the Tulare county high schools were guests at a reception given tonight at the Exeter Woman's clubhouse. Walter M. Smith, principal of Exeter Union High School, was in charge of arrangements. The dinner was served by the Woman's Club. Teachers of the same subjects were seated at the same tables during the dinner hour. Entertainment was furnished by members of the Visalia and Lindsay school faculties.

APOLOGY FAILS TO HALT WIFE

Woman Granted Divorce on Story of Abuse Despite Husband's Sorrow

Apologies came too late to stop Mrs. Mary Carlin from getting a divorce from Hugh Carlin yesterday in Superior Judge Yankwich's court.

"My husband came home intoxicated, struck me and said 'Get the hell out of here,'" testified Mrs. Carlin. "Later he wrote, 'I offer my apologies for mistakes of the past.'"

"The apologies came too late," said Judge Yankwich as he gave Mrs. Carlin a decree.

MINIMUM CHARGE'S LOWER

To estimate the cost of want ads count 5 average words per line. Words containing more than 6 letters should be counted as two words. Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times for payment of Want Ads, as no mistakes will be rectified without them.

Cancellation of advertisements before appearance cannot be guaranteed to take effect until after the advertisements have appeared once. Countermands must be received by 3:30 p.m. for daily issue and 4 p.m. Friday for Sunday Times. Cancellation of advertising running cannot be accepted after 4:30 p.m. except as noted above.

Rates for display advertising will be furnished on request.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

The inadvertent omission of incorrect publishing of advertising will be rectified only by cancellation of the charge made for the service rendered.

Friday, 4 p.m., is closing hour for all ads for the early issue of the Sunday Times. Closing hour for the final and complete Sunday Real Estate section is Saturday, 12 noon. Cancellation of any advertisement running in the Real Estate section cannot be accepted after this hour.

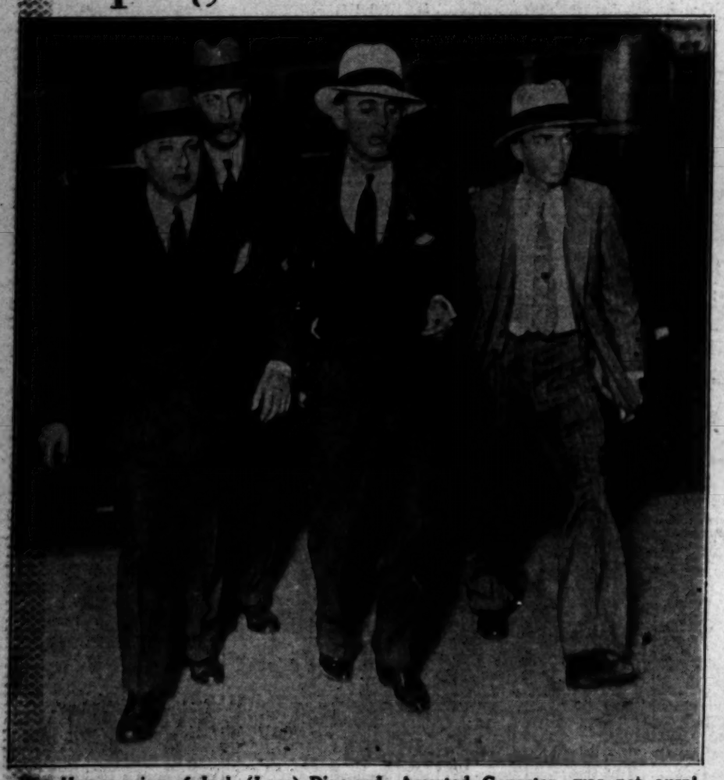
Keeping Abreast of the News With "Times" Cameramen Around the World



The Homecoming of Jack (Legs) Diamond, Asserted Gangster, was not auspicious, a squad of detectives being on hand to welcome him when he reached Philadelphia aboard the freighter Hanover. There were machine guns, tear bombs and other lethal accessories on hand when Diamond walked ashore. Here he is between two of the welcoming committee. He was later released. (P. & A. photo.

In an Attempt to Outdo Steve Brodie, [Harry] Terry, a stunt diver, leaped to his death [from] middle of the Hudson River Bridge, a [drop] 213 feet. The photographer has caught [him] he was in midair in his foolhardy [attempt] (P. & A. photo.)

This is the Spot Where Clara Bow Bet Half-Dollars and Paid Off at Rate of $100, according to her version of the affair at Calneva. Clara is charged by the management of the Lake Tahoe resort with having stopped payment on several large checks given by her to square gambling debts. The building is split fifty-fifty by the California-Nevada line. (P. & A. photo.)
